COUNCIL BLUFFS BANK ROBBED . . .

Policeman, Suspect Slain In Gun Battle

By WILLIAM L. EBERLINE
The Associated Press

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — A police lieutenant and a suspected bandit were shot to death Wednesday in a wild shootout after two men robbed the West Side Drive-in office of the First National Bank here.

Another policeman and a retired dentist were wounded and two other persons injured in the fast moving events which followed the bold mid-morning robbery.

There was no official word on the amount of money taken in the holdup but law enforcement officers said it was approximately $52,000.

Shooting At Home

The shooting took place around the home of Mrs. Dora Henderson, about five blocks from the bank, where one suspect had hidden out and was holding Mrs. Henderson hostage.

LT. MOORE . . . shot fatally.

Police Lt. C. E. Moore, 52, was shot as he entered Mrs. Henderson's home.

The suspect, Steven Frederick Scott, about 29, of Denver, was wounded several times as he exchanged fire with police officers and FBI agents. He was taken to a hospital and died a short time later.

Wounded in the shooting affray were Dr. William Hombach, a retired dentist who lives across the street from Mrs. Henderson, and Police Patrolman Michael McEvoy.

Struck On Head

Police said Mrs. Henderson apparently was struck on the head by Scott who was holding her hostage. Patrolman Dan Larsen suffered a dislocated shoulder as he jumped a fence while chasing the second suspect in Omaha.

Larsen chased the car carrying the second suspect at speeds up to 90 miles an hour over the interstate bridge to Omaha. The chase ended when the fleeing car crashed through a fence in downtown Omaha.

Harry Moss, 62, of Omaha, told police he saw a man wearing a yellow shirt or jacket run across a parking lot and jump into a parked truck about a block from where the car went through the fence.

Surrounded Truck

Police surrounded the truck and fired several teargas cannisters into the open end of the truck trailer but the suspect was gone by that time.

The bank robbery occurred at 9:30 a.m. when two men masked with nylon stockings entered with drawn guns and ordered two women employes and two male customers into a corner.

Merle Brown, 37, a former Council Bluffs policeman now employed by a Glenwood lumberyard, was one of the customers.

He said the first he knew of anything going on was when he heard a teller, Mrs. James Kalar, "give a deep sigh."

First Instinct

"Being a former policeman, my first instinct was to grab one of the men," he said. Brown said he moved toward one of the men but the other robber "stuck a gun in my stomach and made me get in the corner."

While one bandit held the four at gunpoint, the other jumped over the counter and stuffed an undetermined amount of cash into a bag which Brown said "looked like a pillow case."

One of the employes, meanwhile, had triggered a silent alarm connected to police headquarters.

Patrolmen Larsen and McEvoy arrived in their police cruiser just as the two were driving away in a light brown car.

'If I'd Had A Gun'

"If I'd had a gun we could have got both of them," said Brown. "I was by a window and had to watch them get away." He said a woman with a baby entered the bank during the holdup and was herded together with the other customers.

The two patrolmen said one of the suspects fired a shot which hit the windshield of the cruiser and McEvoy was hit by flying glass.

A few blocks away, they said, Scott jumped from the fleeing car and ran away on foot. McEvoy gave chase while Larsen pursued the car across the river. Other police officers and FBI agents were summoned to the Council Bluffs area to help with the search.

Saw Man With Bag

Mrs. Betty Nelson, who runs a flower shop, said she saw a man carrying a bag go into the home of Mrs. Henderson. She said that when she was told police were looking for someone, she telephoned Mrs. Henderson who said she was all right and there was no one there.

She got word to L. T. Moore and Lt. Mike Kerns that she had seen a man enter Mrs. Henderson's home and the two officers went there.

Kerns said he entered the home through the back door while Moore entered through the front.

'Heard Shots'

"I heard shots and the man (Scott) started to come out the back way," Kerns said. "He fired two shots. I fired back. I'm sure I hit him."

Scott turned and ran out the front door and across the street as FBI agents arrived, Kerns said.

Agents said they shot him several times as he ran toward Dr. Hombach's house.

With .22 Rifle

Acting Police Chief George Jorgensen said Dr. Hombach came out with a .22 rifle as Scott ran toward his house. He said Dr. Hombach fired one shot, apparently wounding him in the stomach, and was himself wounded in the shoulder.

Scott then crashed through the glass door of the office Dr. Hombach maintains in his home.

Authorities said they did not believe any of the injured or wounded was in serious condition.

Police said what they believed was all the money taken had been found in a suitcase in Mrs. Henderson's home.

$101 Million Road Plan OK'd For Coming Year

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Department of Roads Wednesday announced approval of a $101 million state highway construction program for the fiscal year beginning Thursday.

The program, approved June 18 by the State Highway Commission, calls for letting 123 state highway and 60 Interstate Highway projects between now and June 30, 1972.

As the first annual program promulgated in the Exon administration, it represents "no change" in the pace of highway construction already underway, State Engineer Thomas Doyle told newsmen at a briefing.

Only 4 Dropped

Some previously scheduled projects have been delayed, Doyle said, but only four have "not been picked up" in the fiscal 1972 program.

Delays resulted from "additional federal requirements" on some federally-aided projects and as a result of engineering decisions, he said.

No previously programmed projects have been dropped, he noted.

Fifty-four projects costing a total of $28 million were delayed by one month or more, Doyle said.

Five-Year Plan

Also unveiled was a five-year (1973-77) planning program which calls for 2,310 miles of improvements on the state and federal highway system at a total cost of $309 million.

Except for bridges at Sioux City and Omaha, Doyle said, Interstate construction in Nebraska will be completed by the end of 1973.

The fiscal 1972 program calls for 28.6 miles of Interstate construction, largely in western Nebraska, compared to 8.8 miles in 1971, Doyle said.

At the end of the six-year period, only 35 to 40 miles of gravel will remain on the state highway system, he said.

Future Planning

The program also includes planning for future freeway construction, but proposed expressways "ultimately must be justified on the basis of need," Doyle noted.

If traffic and other factors do not warrant federal aid, he said, the state will need to decide "whether we can afford to go it alone" on financing.

His administration, Doyle told newmen, is probably giving more emphasis to proposed routing of freeways along already-established highway routes than its predecessor.

Highway Program Map, Project Lists

See Page 7

$57.8 Million In Improvements

The fiscal 1972 program includes $57.8 million for improvements and construction on 652 miles of state and federal highways.

The 28.6 miles of Interstate construction would cost an additional $24.13 million.

Non-construction requirements such as highway maintenance, buildings and grounds, weigh stations and administration will cost $18.7 million.

Of that amount, maintenance costs are projected at about $13.8 million.

Doyle noted that projects which are let in a given fiscal year may not be completed during that time span since large projects may take a year or more to complete.

New Requirements

In addition to work spans, relatively new requirements such as "environmental impact" statements may add at least 90 days to each federally-aided project, Doyle said.

Therefore, such projects let late in fiscal 1972 will probably carry over into fiscal 1973, he said.

But, Doyle said, the department has several stand-by projects which can be fed into the 1972 program if any scheduled projects are unavoidably delayed.

The five-year planning program generally does not include construction in freeway and expressway corridors and urban projects "since public hearings are still being held and decisions pending on final locations," Doyle said.

Funds have been earmarked for these projects and will be assigned as planning permits, he noted.

84 Interstate Jobs

The five-year planning program for the Interstate lists 84 projects and expenditure of $30.8 million. That includes completion of Interstate 80 and the Interstate 129 connection at South Sioux City.

Doyle anticipates completion of the Sioux City bridge in 1975. Work on the Interstate 680 bridge connection at Omaha should be completed in 1974, he estimated.

The department, Doyle announced, obligated all but 91 cents of its federal funding authority for fiscal 1971.

U.S. Argument Not Convincing

. . . TO 6 OF 9 JUSTICES

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 6 to 3 Wednesday that the New York Times and the Washington Post may resume publishing articles on the origins of the Vietnam war based on documents classified top secret by the Pentagon.

With all nine justices stating their views, the majority held the government had not proved that the national interest would be damaged if parts of the Pentagon papers were not kept from the public.

The three dissenters said the court had acted too hastily.

The key votes were cast by Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White. Last week they sided with the government and permitted temporary court restraint on publication of the series.

However, having heard arguments and examined secret documents filed by the Justice Department, they concluded they could not say "that disclosure of any of them will surely result in direct, immediate and irreparable damage to our nation or its people" — the core of the government's argument for permanent restraint.

"To sustain the government in these cases would start the courts down a long and hazardous road that I am not willing to travel at least without congressional guidance and direction," White wrote with Stewart's concurrence.

Supporting the newspapers, as they have from the start, were Justices Hugo Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall. Siding with the government, as they did last week, were Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices John M. Harlan and Harry A. Blackmun.

Decision Hailed

The decision was hailed by the Times and Post as well as other newspapers enjoined by lower courts from further publication of articles based on the disputed documents. All planned resumption of interrupted publication.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon was "aware of course" of the court's action and said, "I have no comment on the Supreme Court decision."

Under questioning, he added the White House stands by earlier expressions of concern about publication of the documents, including claims that the national security and conduct of foreign affairs would be impaired.

Burger said in his dissent that free-speech rights are not absolute and that the Times should have reported to the government it was in the possession of "purloined documents."

The government had argued unfettered publication could prolong the Vietnam war, delay the release of American prisoners, harm the strategic arms limitation talks and upset Middle East relations.

None of the opinions of the nine justices referred specifically to this argument although Stewart and White said they agreed with the government that publication of some of the secret documents was not "in the national interest."

The government's case in the high court was argued by Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and minutes after the ruling he was overheard to remark: "Maybe the newspapers will show a little restraint in the future."

Black, Douglas, Brennan and Marshall concluded that the First Amendment to the Constitution, by its very wording, barred restraints on the Times and the Post. Stewart and White, who formed the majority with them, said that since there was no law authorizing the restraints, they, too, supported the newspapers.

White and Stewart said their votes did not mean "that in no circumstances would the First Amendment permit an injunction against publishing information about government plans or operations."

Says Freedom Absolute

Justice Black, the senior member of the court who takes the view that freedom of press is absolute, said enjoining the publication of news on any occasion "would make a shambles of the First Amendment."

He added: "The guarding of military and diplomatic secrets at the expense of informed representative government provides no real security for our Republic."

Douglas concurred and, in an opinion in which Black joined, he wrote: "Secrecy in government is fundamentally anti-democratic, perpetuating the bureaucratic errors. Open debate and discussion of public issues are vital to our national health."

'No Prior Restraints'

Brennan wrote: "The First Amendment tolerates absolutely no prior judicial restraints of the press predicated upon surmise or conjecture that untoward consequences may result."

Freak Mishap Claims Youth

Lincoln police were investigating the death of a youth early Thursday morning at the Starview Outdoor Theatre, 50th & Vine St.

According to police, an old fire truck was leaving the theatre when a youth stood up in the back of the truck and struck his head on an overhang at the entrance.

The victim was identified as Anthony Franklin, 15, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Franklin, of 8021 Talbot Trail. He was a junior at Pius High School.

Voting Age Falls To 18 As 26th Amendment Is Ratified

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — The voting age in all elections was lowered to 18 years Wednesday night when Ohio ratified the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, fulfilling the requirement that 38 states do so to make it law.

The Ohio house, with 99 members, ratified the amendment 81-9, one day after the senate passed it 30-2.

House Speaker Charles Kurfess had to rule out of order fellow Republican Rep. Jim Thorpe who loudly objected to the quick action as the vote was taken electronically.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace withheld his signature from his state's measure, hoping to time it so his state would be the one to carry the amendment over. However, Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley of Alabama and legislators in Ohio said a governor's signature was unnecessary.

It took only three months — record time — for 38 states to ratify the amendment, making it law. The process normally takes about 15 months.

Both the Republican and Democratic Parties are already at work devising strategies to win support of the 11 million voters under age 21 who are eligible to vote for the first time.

Congress passed a law last year lowering the voting age to 18 but the Supreme Court held it valid only for federal elections. The new amendment gave the vote to 18-year-old in state elections as well.

The 18-year-old vote amendment is the fourth to enlarge the electorate since the Constitution was originally adopted. The 14th Amendment gave the vote to Negroes, the 19th to women, and the 23rd permits voting for president in the District of Columbia.

The new amendment reads: "The right of citizens of the United States, who are 18 years of age or older, to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of age."

According to Census Bureau statistics, about half of the 11 million new American voters are receiving some type of higher education, about three million are working full-time and 1.4 million are in the armed forces. About half are married.

These new voters, along with others who are at least 21 but who were too young to vote in 1968, mean more than 25 million Americans under age 25 will become potential voters for president for the first time in the 1972 election.

Liquor Price Ad Ban Ruled Unconstitutional

Municipal Court Judge Neal Dusenberry Wednesday ruled unconstitutional a city ordinance prohibiting price advertising by liquor retailers.

Lincoln was the only city in the state with such an ordinance, according to Paul Galter, attorney for the defense.

Galter said he advised Stan Schrier six months ago that he didn't think ordinance 6.08.300 of the municipal code of Lincoln was legal.

Schrier, who operates two liquor stores in Lincoln, ran fliers and advertised in the Sun newspaper on Jan. 18, contesting the ordinance on a constitutional basis, Galter said.

"The ordinance did not bear any relationship to nor was it passed with the purpose of maintaining the health and welfare of Lincoln's citizens," he contended.

The argument has been that advertising will cause cutthroat competition, Galter added, even though Lincoln has far fewer liquor licenses per capita than any other city in Nebraska.

Lack of advertising, he pointed out, has permitted Lincoln's liquor dealers to keep their prices higher. "In fact, Lincoln may have the highest liquor prices in the state.

Judge Dusenberry was unavailable for comment on the decision Wednesday.

Both the Republican and Democratic Parties are already at work devising strategies to win support of the 11 million voters under age 21 who are eligible to vote for the first time.

Congress passed a law last year lowering the voting age to 18 but the Supreme Court held it valid only for federal elections. The new amendment gave the vote to 18-year-old in state elections as well.

The 18-year-old vote amendment is the fourth to enlarge the electorate since the Constitution was originally adopted. The 14th Amendment gave the vote to Negroes, the 19th to women, and the 23rd permits voting for president in the District of Columbia.

The new amendment reads: "The right of citizens of the United States, who are 18 years of age or older, to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of age."

According to Census Bureau statistics, about half of the 11 million new American voters are receiving some type of higher education, about three million are working full-time and 1.4 million are in the armed forces. About half are married.

These new voters, along with others who are at least 21 but who were too young to vote in 1968, mean more than 25 million Americans under age 25 will become potential voters for president for the first time in the 1972 election.

Liquor Price Ad Ban Ruled Unconstitutional

Municipal Court Judge Neal Dusenberry Wednesday ruled unconstitutional a city ordinance prohibiting price advertising by liquor retailers.

Lincoln was the only city in the state with such an ordinance, according to Paul Galter, attorney for the defense.

Galter said he advised Stan Schrier six months ago that he didn't think ordinance 6.08.300 of the municipal code of Lincoln was legal.

Schrier, who operates two liquor stores in Lincoln, ran fliers and advertised in the Sun newspaper on Jan. 18, contesting the ordinance on a constitutional basis, Galter said.

"The ordinance did not bear any relationship to nor was it passed with the purpose of maintaining the health and welfare of Lincoln's citizens," he contended.

The argument has been that advertising will cause cutthroat competition, Galter added, even though Lincoln has far fewer liquor licenses per capita than any other city in Nebraska.

Lack of advertising, he pointed out, has permitted Lincoln's liquor dealers to keep their prices higher. "In fact, Lincoln may have the highest liquor prices in the state.

Judge Dusenberry was unavailable for comment on the decision Wednesday.

Kissinger To Tour

Washington (AP) — President Nixon's foreign-policy assistant, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, leaves Thursday on a ten-day globe-circling trip to Saigon and Paris — a journey that could hold more portents than meet the eye. Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced Kissinger is undertaking "a general fact-finding mission" with emphasis on Vietnam.

Study Says JFK Transformed Vietnam Gamble Into Commitmer

©The New York Times

New York — The New York Times resumed publication Wednesday night of its series of articles based on the 1967-68 Pentagon study, commissioned by then Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The articles quoted the Pentagon study as concluding that President John F. Kennedy transformed the "limited-risk gamble" of the Eisenhower administration into a "broad commitment" to prevent Communist domination of South Vietnam.

The study also says Kennedy knew and approved of plans for the military coup d'etat that ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam in 1963.

In its article, the Times said the first U.S. commitments to Vietnam during the Kennedy administration were made secretly. This occurred on May 11, 1961, when, according to the study, Kennedy ordered that 400 Special Forces troops and 100 other military advisers be sent to Vietnam.

No publicity was given to either move, the Times said.

Move Significant

The number of men involved was small, but the move was significant, the study says, because it "signaled a willingness to go beyond the 685-man limit on the size of the U.S. (military) mission in Saigon, which if it were done openly, would be the first formal breach of the Geneva Agreement." The United States had not signed the 1954 Geneva accords ending the French war with the Viet Minh, but had agreed not to undermine them.

The Pentagon study relates that Kennedy faced three main questions on Vietnam during his time in office:

Whether to make an irrevocable commitment to prevent a Communist victory; whether to commit ground-combat units to achieve his ends; and whether to give top priority to the military battle against the Viet Cong or to the political reforms necessary to win popular support for the Saigon government.

President Kennedy's response during his 34 months in office, as the Pentagon account describes it, was to increase the number of American advisers from the internationally accepted level of 685 under the Geneva agreement to about 16,000, to put Americans into combat situations (with a resultant increase in casualties), and to inject the United States into the internal South Vietnamese maneuvering that toppled the Diem regime.

JOHN F. KENNEDY

Kennedy, during this period in 1961, was also troubled by Soviet-U.S. tensions over the Berlin situation, and saw the United States in a global power competition with the Soviet Union because of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khruschev's statement on Jan. 6, 1961, that Moscow intended to back "wars of national liberation" around the world.

Counterinsurgency against guerrilla warfare thus became a primary preoccupation of the Kennedy White House, the study says.

It continues: "Vietnam was the only place in the world where the administration faced a well-developed Communist effort to topple a pro-Western government with an externally aided pro-Communist insurgency. It was a challenge that could hardly be ignored."

Taylor, in a fact-finding mission to Vietnam in October, 1961, according to the study, reported to Kennedy that a "U.S. military task force is essential."

Vice President Johnson, who also made a fact-finding trip to Southeast Asia earlier in the year, had expressed similar sentiments, the study said.

McNamara is depicted in the study as repeatedly pressing the U.S. Command to come up with a long-range plan for an American phaseout, in part because of satisfaction with what he called the "tremendous progress" in early 1962.

Nonetheless, while phaseout planning continued, the U.S. involvement increased, reaching 16,732 men in October 1963, according to the study. Meanwhile, the situation in Saigon deteriorated so profoundly from July to October 1963 that the entire phaseout had to be dropped in 1964.

Legacy Of Crisis

Concluding this portion of the analysis, the Pentagon study says that in spite of the military build-up under the Kennedy administration, Kennedy left Johnson a Vietnamese legacy of crisis, political instability and military deterioration at least as alarming to policy makers as the situation Kennedy had inherited from Eisenhower.

Of the fall of Diem, the study says: "Our complicity in his overthrow heightened our responsibilities and our commitment in Vietnam."

The coup was a "watershed" in U.S. involvement, the Times article said. It was a time when Washington could have reconsidered its entire commitment to South Vietnam and disengaged, the Pentagon study said.

Disengagement was, in fact, recommended by Paul M. Kattenburg, head of the Vietnam interdepartmental working group, at a meeting of the National Security Council, but his view was dismissed by Vice President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary McNamara, the study says.

The fifth article in the Times series makes clear that, according to the Pentagon account of the 1963 events in Saigon, Washington did not originate the anti-Diem coup, nor did American forces intervene in any way.

But for weeks, the study says, the American mission in Saigon maintained secret contacts with the plotting generals through a Central Intelligence Agency operative and Washington was informed every step of the way.

Washington had for some time been disenchanted with Diem's regime and its overbearing political controls and corruption, but vacillated between attempting to force him to institute reforms and looking favorably on plans for his overthrow.

One worry about a coup, the Pentagon study reports, was the possibility that it might fail.

In late August 1963, with a move by the South Vietnamese generals expected at any hour, the Pentagon study says, President Kennedy sent a private message to Lodge, saying, "when we go, we must go to win, but it will be better to change our minds than fail."

The August coup was postponed, but the plotting continued.

The Kennedy administration, meanwhile, was engaged in a pressure campaign, including threatened suspension of aid, to force reforms within the Diem government. The pressure apparently encouraged the generals, but, according to the Pentagon study, it is not known whether the White House intended the moves as a "green light" for the coup.

After the coup began Nov. 1 and proved successful, the study says, Washington did not immediately recognize the new regime because Rusk felt that a delay would reduce the appearance of U.S. complicity and make the generals look less like U.S. stooges.

The Pentagon study relates that the Kennedy administration was shocked and dismayed by the assassinations of Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nl that it had been "reluct intervene in behalf of Die Nhu for fear of appearing fer support to them or of ing on our pledges of terference to the generals.

After the change of r Lodge was reported to cabled Washington his that under the new ch state, Lt. Gen. Van Mir fight against the Viet would be shortened beca improved morale withi South Vietnamese army.

But within three r another of the plotters, Gen Nguyen Khanh, had power.

The study said that star round of intramural struggles that p Washington for the nex years, drawing it even into the Vietnam was in fort to prop up successive Vietnamese regimes."

1,501 New Irrigation Wells Registered For State In '70

Nebraska had 1,501 new irrigation wells registered in 1970, according to the University of Nebraska's Conservation and Survey Division. There could be an additional 5% of the total that actually were drilled in the past year, said Dan Jones, state director of water resources.

The state law requires that a well be registered within 30 days of completion. However, this is not until the well is equipped with a pump and tested for capacity.

"If the well is completed say in October it is often not equipped with a pump and tested until the following spring, thus delaying registration," Jones explained.

The law requiring registering the wells for a fee of $7.50 was enacted in 1957. Prior to that time many farmers did record their wells with the department using a form designed for surface irrigation.

Until 1957 the well count was based on surveys by the Conservation and Survey Division, the Soil Conservation Service and the state's Agriculture Extension Service.

Total Of 35,292

The total number of wells registered in the state reached 35,292 on Jan. 1, 1971.

The counties with the most wells are Hall (2,434), Merrick (2,383), Dawson (2,382), Buffalo (2,172), Hamilton (1,775), and York (1,652).

Chase County recorded 71 new wells in 1970 for the largest increase in a single county.

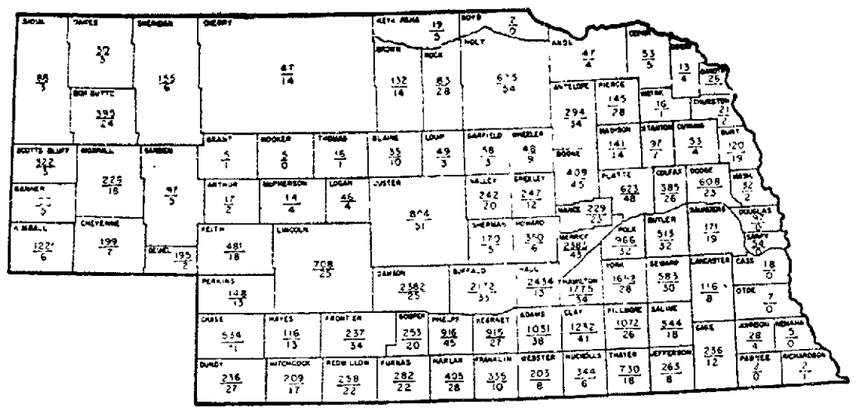

During the past four years only two counties have not added a new well, they are Cass and Nemaha. Four counties added only one new well in the four year period; they are Grant, Hooker, Pawnee, and Richardson.

There are irrigation wells in every county in the state with Pawnee, Richardson, and Boyd counties on the bottom of the list with just two wells per county.

A chart drafted by the Conservation and Survey Division at the university indicates that more than four million acres are now under irrigation with projections for up to five million or more acres by 1975.

Most of the increase is expected to come from irrigation wells now being drilled at record rates.

Additional wells are drilled by individual farmers while additional surface irrigation usually requires the construction of some sort of reservoir involving some type of irrigation district as a quasi government agency.

Street Sweeper Kills Girl

Omaha (AP) — A 10-year-old Omaha girl was crushed to death by an Omaha city street sweeper at an intersection Wednesday.

The girl was identified as Brenda Sims, who officials said had been living with her grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Sims, in Omaha.

The child was dead on arrival at a local hospital. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sims also of Omaha.

Witnesses said a group of children were playing on the corner of 23rd and Saratoga Streets when the girl apparently slipped on the curb and fell into the path of the vehicle driven by James Patterson, 38. Patterson said he was preparing to turn east onto Saratoga from 23rd when the accident occurred.

Fireworks Start Blaze In Trees At Southeast

Nine small evergreen trees were destroyed at Lincoln Southeast High School Wednesday night in a fire which was started by a malfunctioning firework, according to police officer Vern Campbell.

Campbell said that six teenage girls were in the parking lot when a "sparkle ball" which is designed to remain stationary shot off into the trees, setting them afire.

The burned trees were located on the east side of the building toward the south end, police said.

Eagle — A former resident of Eagle, Cpl. Randy Halvorsen, 18, drowned earlier this week while surfing in the Atlantic.

Halvorsen was stationed with the U.S. Army at Cherry Point, N.C.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Halvorsen of Monticello, Wis.; three brothers, a sister and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Halvorsen of Palmyra.

Services and burial will be Thursday in Wisconsin.

Northeast, East Corn Borer Outbreak Heavy

"We are in the middle of one of the heaviest first brood corn borer outbreaks in the last 30 years," two University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension entomologists said Wednesday.

Insect specialists Bob Roselle and Dr. David Keith said surveys conducted in the eastern third of Nebraska on June 21 and 22 indicated very high populations of borers, particularly in the northeast and east crop districts.

In the northeast district, shothole damage to whorls caused by young borers was observed on 76% of the plants; in the east crop district on 66% of the plants and in the southeast on 19% of the plants. Moth flights and egg laying were still heavy in the northeast June 21-22 where egg masses averaged up to two per plant in many fields, the specialists said.

In this survey, 25 fields were examined in each crop district. Since this survey was conducted, the situation has changed, Roselle and Keith stated. Most of the eggs that were present in the fields at the time of the survey have hatched and in many cases 100% of the plants may now be infested.

In the east and northeast crop districts, where populations are heavy, it appears that almost all of the early planted corn will profit from treatment, the NU entomologists recommended. Even late planted corn should be watched closely, they added.

"About the only bright spot in this whole picture is that it is not likely that early planted corn will have much of a problem with second brood borers later on in the summer (July, August and September)," Dr. Keith noted. The second brood normally concentrates in late-planted corn that is still green and succulent at the time the moths emerge to deposit eggs in late July and August.

Control activity for first generation borers is still under way in most of the eastern half of Nebraska. A few reports have been received of economic infestations in central Nebraska as well as in the east. In some cases, it may still not be too late to control first brood borers, they recommended.

They urged farmers: go out right now and check your fields and determine what per cent of your plants show shothole feeding in the whorl. If 50% of more of the plants are infested with borers, it is time to use a chemical control.

Shooting Victim Is Reported In Fair Condition

A 50-year-old Lincoln man was in fair condition at Lincoln General Wednesday following a shooting incident at his home, police reported.

Police said Pfelix Watts, of 1253 So. 21, was shot in the side with a .22 caliber rifle early Wednesday morning.

Police Inspector Robert Sawdon said Thomas L. Handy, 22, who lives in the same apartment building as the victim, was released following questioning.

The Lancaster County Attorney's office said Handy was released "subject to call," when it was determined the shooting was an apparent case of self defense.

Police, called to the scene by a neighbor who said she heard a shot, confiscated a .22 caliber rifle at the scene.

No. 2 Corridor Route Appears Most Favored

. . . No. 1 Plan, Two Alternates Also Backed

Doniphan (UPI) — Between 250 and 300 persons aired their views and recommendations at a public hearing by the State Department of Roads on the proposed Hastings-Grand Island freeway.

Two major plans were apparently favored of the seven proposed by the department, along with two alternates not in the state's suggested plans. The estimated cost of the corridor is between $32.3 and $35.7 million.

The route apparently most favored by those in attendance was plan No. 2, which would enter both Hastings and Grand Island on the east side of the cities, and would use the existing right-of-way on U.S. 281 from the Hall County line to just north of Doniphan. From that point, the road would veer northeast across I-80 into Grand Island. The highway would follow the Union Pacific Railroad tracks from the Hall County line to Hastings.

The proposal, according to statistics supplied by the department, would result in little or no damage to existing farmlands in the area.

The plan was endorsed by the city of Hastings, its chamber of commerce and planning and zoning commission, the city of Grand Island, its chamber of commerce, and the highway 281 association.

The other alternate plan favored was plan No. 1, which would be the shortest of the seven plans submitted by the state.

The route would enter both cities on the east, and run just east of the present Highway 281 until it crosses the Platte River, where it would veer east toward Grand Island.

It was pointed out that the plan would cause considerable disruption to farm ownership and agricultural operations. In all, 48 farms would be severed and 515 acres of irrigated farmland would be used for freeway construction.

Plan No. 1 was recommended by the Hall County Board of Supervisors, the Hall County Planning Commission, and Mayor Bill Robb of Doniphan.

A petition signed by 791 farmers and landowners in the Doniphan area, however, said the group was completely against any type of interstate standards along Highway 281. Instead, the petitioners called for the roads department to abandon plans for a freeway and instead enlarge and upgrade Highway 281 to a four-lane highway.

Another proposal for some type of route entering the west side of Hastings was presetned by the city's Imperial Mall Merchants Association. The merchants contended it would not be in the best interest of the city to locate the freeway on the east side of town.

State Sen. Donald Elrod of Grand Island told the group that Gov. J. James Exon had indicated to him if a "sense of unity" were to come out of the hearing, the project could get under way shortly.

EVENTS IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The time-honored GOP approach to economics is once again the backbone of the Republican administration in Washington. President Nixon has made this plain in the recent actions of his branch of government in managing the fiscal affairs of the nation.

Nixon has just vetoed a $2 billion public works bill aimed at creating new jobs for the unemployed. By the time the jobs would be provided, he said, they will no longer be needed because the economy will have recovered from its doldrums.

But the President has seen fit to improve the depreciation tax writeoff for business and industry to help the recovery of the economy. He has also pushed hard for a $250 million loan at government expense to the troubled Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

In everything that Nixon does, the idea is that you provide a high level of wealth and the people underneath will eventually get their share. It sounds corny, any more, but it is the old trickle-down theory as good as ever.

If the term is one that has been overused, it is one, too, that has been over-practiced. If the term is outmoded, then the practice ought to be outmoded but it is obvious that it is not. Current activity is hand-in-glove with past monetary policies that have called upon the working man to pay the price for inflation.

Now, the working man is paying the price for the recession that was the product of Nixon's program to end inflation. And to date, the price has not been enough to take care of either problem. The unemployment rate still stands at 6.2 per cent, higher than it has been for many years and leaving some 5.5 million workers without jobs.

A Democratic member of the House has said that all the Nixon program offers to the unemployed is optimism. But he pointed out that a family can't eat optimism. If the President and his advisors are right about their forecasts, it is about time some or the rosy pictures began to materialize.

Nixon is now in the third year of his administration and faults of the economy can now fairly be placed on his doorstep. Encouraging words have been spoken every month by the administration but every month the figures or facts give us a different idea.

The cost of living continues to rise, food going up each month, construction costs another and something else another time. Nixon has not produced any stability in wages and prices and there is little real evidence that he will.

If he inherited a bad economic situation, which he did, he has certainly had little success in correcting it. In another area where an impact could be made on the domestic economy—national defense—there has been no change, at all.

The administration continues to rely upon a defense posture believed by many to be far greater than is needed. The experts now believe that if we got out of Vietnam tomorrow, it would make no difference in the economy because we are so heavily programmed in defense that Vietnam would save us nothing.

Presumably, if enough people are put through the economic wringer, the economy might ultimately right itself. This is the real answer to inflation by the President. His program is not one in which everyone assumes an equal responsibility.

Rather, it is one in which the least able to afford it are made to pay the highest price. The cure for inflation is a slackening of the economy but Nixon has achieved it through loss of jobs and lower income for many on the lower end of the economic scale.

This is where the tax will always fall if an economic cutback is allowed to follow its inclinations. It is true that profits have also been adversely affected for some businesses and industries but a slip in profits for most of them is nothing like the loss of a job by a working man.

Even if the Nixon policies ultimately work—and there is no guarantee of that—many people will have paid an inordinately high price for it. It is much like the agricultural reformers who see the solution in terms of economic failure for so many farmers that those remaining have a viable monopoly.

'You're Our Permanent Panelist'

Big Blast, Big Profit

State Senator Loran Schmit of David City may have a valid point to prove but his price for doing so is a little too high. He is seeking $463,800 from the government as payment to his blasting of ice jams on the Platte River last winter.

The fee breaks down to $88,800 for the cost of his services and $375,000 representing 10 per cent of the damage he figures his blasting prevented. The first part we take no issue with but the $375,000 leaves us a little dumbfounded.

Such a method of determining the price of something is not what you would call routine. If a farmer has his crops sprayed, he pays for the cost of that service plus a reasonable profit. He does not then pay a percentage of what he saves as a result of the spraying.

On Schmit's basis of figuring, people could go around claiming millions for all kinds of reasons. An architect could collect, not only on the cost of a structure, but on the basis of the mistakes that might have been made in the construction if he were not on the job.

And what about a doctor? You pay him his fee but what if you had to pay him on the theory that you would have lost your life without him? What is your life worth?

Schmit says of his successful dynamiting of the Platte ice jams: "If your neighbors are in jeopardy, you do what you can to help." And when you are finished, he might have added, you sock it to them for all they've got.

Schmit says that the government spent $4 million for flood disaster services in northeast Nebraska during the jamming and flooding period. These expenditures, he said, should be examined for what they accomplished. But government spending is accepted, he said, while his comparatively smaller claim is subjected to criticism.

Maybe the senator has a point about the government spending and the refusal of authorities to do the dynamiting themselves but two wrongs don't make a right. The senator isn't entitled to gouge the public even if somebody else did.

Misery Loves Company

Well, the Weather Bureau took it on the chin again. Is there a public agency alive that gets it in the neck quite as much as this one?

During Tuesday night's storm, the Lincoln bureau reported a tornado funnel threatening Northwest Lincoln. But alas, the funnel turned out to be a crane sitting on a nearby construction site.

It provided a good laugh for everyone and made the bureau the butt of countless jokes. But it was a healthy bit of medicine, giving people a little comic relief from themselves.

In their subconscious, people all knew of boners they had pulled. They might have recalled the name they could not remember at some crucial point, the check that bounced because of faulty bookkeeping, the unmatched socks they wore once, the red traffic light they absent-mindedly went through or any number of other lapses in their mental process.

But the Weather Bureau goof told everyone that anyone can make a mistake and that's always nice to know. It makes the path of life a little smoother to know that, even in your weakest moments, you are not alone.

Mistakes are a part of the human process, part of the overall experience that makes up this world in which we live. Most of us hope we make more right turns than wrong ones but the contest is probably a pretty tight one between the two.

The bureau will be none the worse for its experience and everyone knows that the service it performs is a highly valuable one. The watch the bureau keeps on things and its forecasts of the future are valuable tools in our society. And really, the bureau doesn't make the weather—it only tells you about it.

Mid-State

Miller, Neb.

I am writing in regard to the proposed reclamation project, Mid-State Irrigation Project, which has $130 million allocated for it. This is an unnecessary development at this time, for the money could be spent for needed projects. The proposed lake system will take at least 14,000 acres of good farm land out of production by flooding and seepage. This, with the matter of increasing popuiation and food needs, is enough reason to stop it. Therefore, I think I am justified in calling your attention to this matter. I am told by the Reclamation Office in Grand Island that a decision on this project will be made by August 1; therefore protests must be lodged before that time.

This was a project dreamed up about 25 to 30 years ago to irrigate areas in Buffalo, Hall and Merrick Counties. At that time, pump irrigation was almost unknown. Since then all of this area that is feasible for gravity irrigation is covered and much of the rolling land is now being taken care of by walkers. The farmers have paid for their wells, pipe, leveling and machinery. Now, with this, they will be forced to take the water from canals that will criss-cross their fields, making farming inconvenient. Much of it will have to be revealed and they will get their water when it is in the ditches and not when they may want it.

Our schools will lose the tax base on the 14,000 acres. Highways and bridges will have to be relocated and this year they are being resurfaced. Our cemetery will have to be moved and this expense will be enormous. All the heirs of people buried there will have to be contacted for permission to do this. This is another slice of wasted money.

The damage to the Platte River and the ecology of the area will be irreparable. The virgin land with a host of beautiful lakes along the Interstate Highway from Grand Island to Lexington and even farther will be doomed if this goes through. Even our state publication, "Nebraskaland," has an editorial in the June issue protesting this development.

Of course the people would be paid for their land but the loss to our state, both urban and rural, would be far more than the money we would receive.

About-Face

Lincoln, Neb.

The Star's reply to its own question raised in the editorial on June 26 is certainly inadequate. That is, did the governor and the Legislature — as you now doubt — "stack the deck" against environmental interests in the staffing of the new state agency?

A glance at the roll call vote on the authorizing legislation is cause for suspicion. Those voting against the creation of the department are either from polluted urban areas and-or younger senators. As our own comment on May 27 pointed out, the statutory membership provisions insure that oil, chemical, heavy industry, and agricultural interests are well represented — precisely those concerns most responsible for pollution.

Your apparent volte-face is based on two assessments of the individuals appointed to fill the posts. "Looking over the . . . list of council members, one cannot find a single individual who could be fingered as indifferent to the environment." Obviously, everyone is in favor of the environment, just as everyone favors peace — in the abstract.

Secondly, "none of them (the council members) is of such a nature as to deliberately favor any business or industry to . . . detriment of a clean environment." It is not a question of individual integrity or intention but rather the composite perceptions of such a body, its view of priorities, and the importance it will attach to the pursuit of private profit.

In conclusion and based on the record, one can conclude only that The Star's complacent attitude is founded upon either an unabashed apologia for industrial polluters, incredible naivete, or self-delusion.

Patchwork Prairie Country

Tonight I walked slowly along the path with twists and turns beaten hard by the hoofs of the cows. The air was warm and laden with the smell of the swampland and the combined zestfulness of sweet clover in full bloom. Dusk was closing in all around me until the trees in the distance were like billowy dark clouds sweeping along the horizon.

Across the darkening meadow the clear musical call of the larks and Bob White carried on the cooling summer air. Now and then there was a sudden, explosive alarm of notes as the larks attempted to add one last rapture of song before the twilight deepened and disappeared completely.

I paused to pick a wild rose that grew along the fence line and sniffed of its perfume. A young rabbit darted away and I wondered if it had been hiding there all day twitching its nose and sniffing the rose, too.

Taking flight was a rooster pheasant, twirling into the sunset and skimming above the field of wheat. It filled one arching moment in the sky with the glory of poetry in motion as it streaked along.

The wing brush of night was just a moment away when I came into the farmyard. I was aware of the tranquil hour I had just spent and thought how fortunate that I could know such quiet solitude in a world so filled with noise and throbbing pressures of the day.

I need such moments to leaven my spirit and hallow my sunset hours. I need such charmed solitude at the close of day. Such simple things make the world somewhat rational. When I wished upon the first throbbing star in the night-time sky, it was that all mankind should know such peace and reflect on such enduring moments of contentment when worries and frustrations fade in ecstasy.

The Farmer put the umbrella on his tractor and I knew the good old summer time had begun. After cultivating the milo, he moved to the idle acres to plow.

The coyote that had been keeping check on him early this spring as he worked along the wheat field has left the area. No doubt the coyote pups were large enough to move and get about freely so the family moved to a more protective abode.

Across the field from where he is plowing the great arches of water-spray from the irrigation sprinkler make little rainbows in the sky. On very hot days while I wait at the end of the field with lunch, I look at the mist of rainbows and am tempted to run and stand under the sprinkler like we used to when I was a little girl. However, the water is ice-cold coming from the deep well. The first cold blast of spray would change my mind of how to cool off with a less traumatic reaction.

I made a gooseberry pie for dinner yesterday and did something I had never done before. Into the sugar and flour mixture, I added half a package of strawberry jello.

When the pie was baked it had a delightful pink color and looked like a cherry pie. The flavor of strawberry was a pleasing combination with the gooseberries. Raspberry jello would be different and tasty, too.

The gooseberries and cherries are all in the freezer. The dark pink of the cherries and the pale green of the gooseberries make a pleasing color combination I noticed as I juggled the fruit around.

Our cherry trees are almost to the end of their long life and I suspect this is the last year for their fruit. Our apricot tree died this spring and the heavy early snow of last fall broke so many branches of the apple trees, that it ruined several of them. We are too old to replace these trees and I am certain we will not buy raw fruit and put in the freezer. Is it a sign of growing old when one decides to buy foods already prepared and canned? If it is, then I am of the older vintage.

Johnson Grumbling On Political Picture

WASHINGTON — LBJ's Candidate — We reported on January 4 that ex-President Lyndon Johnson was disenchanted with the leading Democratic presidential hopefuls and was threatening privately to back President Nixon for re-election in 1972. As part of the maneuver, we reported, LBJ might try to make a deal with Nixon to take John Connally, a Johnson protege, as running mate. Down on the Pedernales, LBJ is still muttering to friends about the political outlook.

Of all the leading candidates, the former President has grumbled, the only one he can abide is Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.; otherwise, Nixon still would be a more acceptable alternative.

Bailey's Background — F. Lee Bailey, the fiery defender of Capt. Ernest Medina against My Lai massacre charges, is best known for such headline civilian cases as Sam Sheppard, the Boston Strangler and the Plymouth mail robbery. But actually, Bailey's first legal work was in military, not civilian trials. A fighter pilot at Cherry Point, N.C., he doubled as his group's legal officer in 1955 though he wasn't yet a lawyer. Using borrowed law books, he handled more than 200 cases, some as prosecutor, some as defense counsel. They ranged from spectacular moonshine charges to complicated insanity proceedings. My associate Les Whitten also reports that Bailey as a boy was willing to fight four neighborhood boys at the same time and grew up to be a totally fearless fighter pilot in the Marines.

Bargain Cadillacs — We were the first to report that congressional chairmen were able to lease gleaming new Cadillacs, Lincolns and Chrysler Imperials for token fees. It is only fair to report, therefore, that we have now caught the Pentagon wangling the same bargain. Ten new Cadillac Fleetwoods have been delivered to the Pentagon for the riding comfort of high officials. The Pentagon pays less than $100 a month for each car. Anyone else would have to pay at least four times that amount. General Motors happens to be one of the nation's biggest defense contractors. The officials who ride around in GM's $100-a-month Cadillacs, of course, determine who gets defense contracts.

Hidden Contributions — The Citizens' Research Foundation, after tracing 1968 campaign contributions through the political maze, named the sugar daddies who had shelled out the big political dough. Most had tried to hide their contributions. But the foundation received an unexpected response from William Benton, publisher of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. "I find," he wrote, "that your report lists me for a total of $17,500. My actual total was over $50,000. Can it be that you missed as badly in compiling the gifts of others? If so, the amount of political contributions is far greater than the compilations in your report would indicate."

Opponents Of Britain In Common Market Pushing For July Conference Of Labor Party

LONDON — It is not only in myth that kingdoms are lost for want of a nail. In the real world, what seem little matters of timing and procedure may affect great political events. So history may see the decision of the British Labor party's executive, just taken, to hold a special party conference next month on whether this country should join the European Common Market.

The move for an early party meeting was pressed by the all-out opponents of British entry. Their victory was wildly cheered by the party's left wing. But why should they care so much? What real difference does it make to them whether Labor's delegates consider the market issue in July or in their regular conference at the beginning of October? It is in the search for that motive that the significance of the little procedural step may appear.

One theory with weighty support is that Labor's anti-marketeers are not going to be satisfied with a party vote to oppose ratification of the terms negotiated with the market by the conservative government. They want to go on to a commitment that the next Labor government would pull Britain out of the European Community.

Such an objective on the part of the anti-market group would explain its emphasis on the early special meeting. For if the party waited until October to take a stand against ratifying the treaty, another year would pass before the next conference could consider the more extreme position. And by then — if Parliament had approved — Britain would be on the verge of membership, and the whole thing would look like a fait accompli.

The intricacies of Britain's internal struggle over joining the Common Market interest few Americans. But as the strategy just suggested makes clear, there is much more involved here than passing maneuvers. The whole structure of politics in Britain could be at stake.

The Labor party has for a long time encompassed people of extraordinary varied opinions and temperaments. It includes traditional trade unionists interested mainly in the pay envelope, left-wing idealogues, pragmatists of generally progressive views and so on. They are held together — barely — by a mutual desire for power, and by a tacit willingness not to press their differences too far.

But it is another matter for one wing of the party to force through a public commitment that a Labor government would undo Britain's most important international undertaking in a very long time. How could men who deeply believe in the European venture run on such a platform? And they include the Labor Party's deputy leader, Roy Jenkins, and its spokesmen on foreign and defense affairs, Denis Healey, Harold Lever and George Thomson.

It may be said that a pledge to take Britain out of the Common Market is a species of fantasy. The treaty of Rome makes no provision for withdrawal, and for this country to denounce the treaty soon after finally adhering to it would be likely to bring on such shattering diplomatic and economic consequences that even politicians most skeptical about the Common Market would be unlikely to carry out the threat.

But the men who will carry the real weight of the anti-market effort at the party conferences in July and October may simply not be moved by such rational considerations. They are the left-wing leaders of Britain's two biggest unions. Jack Jones of the Transport Workers and Hugh Scanlon of the Engineering Workers. Between them they control enough bloc votes to swing a Labor conference on virtually and issue if they want to. And on this issue they want to.

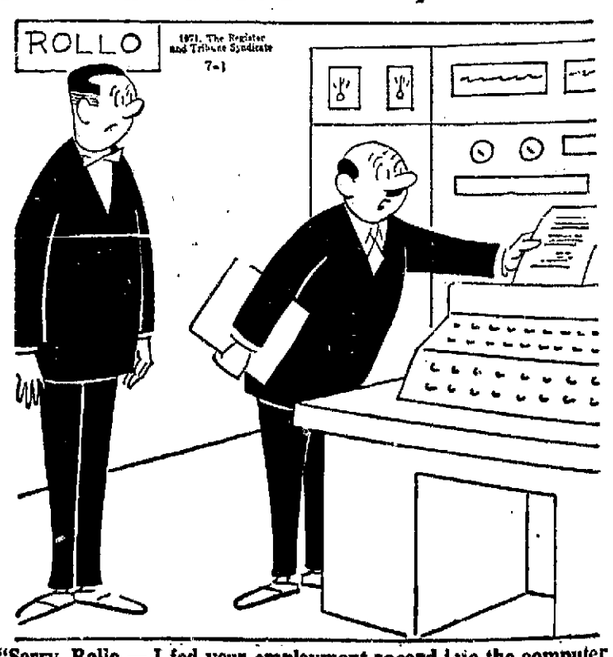

The public picture of a party dominated by these two union leaders would be extremely damaging to Labor in the country; outside their unions, Jones and Scanlon would not win many popularity contests. But beyond that the conception of a left-wing party based on trade unions—a historial accident in Britain—might be called into question.

A party that effectively drove out of its ranks Jenkins, Healey, Lever, Thomson and others like them would not be taken seriously by the other socialist parties of Western Europe. They would see it as an anachronism, a throwback to the dear old days of politically profitless doctrinairism. And in this country the circumstances could just be created for the formation of a new party, one independent of the unions.

No one can predict exactly how this summer will develop for the Labor party, but certainly the possibilities are grave. The one clear way of meeting them head-on would be for the leader of the party, Harold Wilson, to tell the conference that he will not be bound by any resolution turning away from his own commitment to Europe. But Wilson is a man who all his life has tried to avoid party fights, to paper over differences of principle. The question is whether he has it in him to say what his predecessor, Hugh Gaitskell, told a labor conference that called for unilateral disarmament: that he would "fight and fight and fight again to save the party we love, to bring back sanity and honesty and dignity."

Secondly, "none of them (the council members) is of such a nature as to deliberately favor any business or industry to . . . detriment of a clean environment." It is not a question of individual integrity or intention but rather the composite perceptions of such a body, its view of priorities, and the importance it will attach to the pursuit of private profit.

In conclusion and based on the record, one can conclude only that The Star's complacent attitude is founded upon either an unabashed apologia for industrial polluters, incredible naivete, or self-delusion.

Thank You

Bennet, Neb.

The members of Bennet Builders Association wish to express our appreciation for the fine news coverage and pictures afforded us in our efforts toward a successful centennial celebration here during June.

Through the cooperation of many, including the weatherman, the event proved to be all that we had hoped for.

Patchwork Prairie Country

Tonight I walked slowly along the path with twists and turns beaten hard by the hoofs of the cows. The air was warm and laden with the smell of the swampland and the combined zestfulness of sweet clover in full bloom. Dusk was closing in all around me until the trees in the distance were like billowy dark clouds sweeping along the horizon.

Across the darkening meadow the clear musical call of the larks and Bob White carried on the cooling summer air. Now and then there was a sudden, explosive alarm of notes as the larks attempted to add one last rapture of song before the twilight deepened and disappeared completely.

I paused to pick a wild rose that grew along the fence line and sniffed of its perfume. A young rabbit darted away and I wondered if it had been hiding there all day twitching its nose and sniffing the rose, too.

Taking flight was a rooster pheasant, twirling into the sunset and skimming above the field of wheat. It filled one arching moment in the sky with the glory of poetry in motion as it streaked along.

The wing brush of night was just a moment away when I came into the farmyard. I was aware of the tranquil hour I had just spent and thought how fortunate that I could know such quiet solitude in a world so filled with noise and throbbing pressures of the day.

I need such moments to leaven my spirit and hallow my sunset hours. I need such charmed solitude at the close of day. Such simple things make the world somewhat rational. When I wished upon the first throbbing star in the night-time sky, it was that all mankind should know such peace and reflect on such enduring moments of contentment when worries and frustrations fade in ecstasy.

The Farmer put the umbrella on his tractor and I knew the good old summer time had begun. After cultivating the milo, he moved to the idle acres to plow.

The coyote that had been keeping check on him early this spring as he worked along the wheat field has left the area. No doubt the coyote pups were large enough to move and get about freely so the family moved to a more protective abode.

Across the field from where he is plowing the great arches of water-spray from the irrigation sprinkler make little rainbows in the sky. On very hot days while I wait at the end of the field with lunch, I look at the mist of rainbows and am tempted to run and stand under the sprinkler like we used to when I was a little girl. However, the water is ice-cold coming from the deep well. The first cold blast of spray would change my mind of how to cool off with a less traumatic reaction.

I made a gooseberry pie for dinner yesterday and did something I had never done before. Into the sugar and flour mixture, I added half a package of strawberry jello.

When the pie was baked it had a delightful pink color and looked like a cherry pie. The flavor of strawberry was a pleasing combination with the gooseberries. Raspberry jello would be different and tasty, too.

The gooseberries and cherries are all in the freezer. The dark pink of the cherries and the pale green of the gooseberries make a pleasing color combination I noticed as I juggled the fruit around.

Our cherry trees are almost to the end of their long life and I suspect this is the last year for their fruit. Our apricot tree died this spring and the heavy early snow of last fall broke so many branches of the apple trees, that it ruined several of them. We are too old to replace these trees and I am certain we will not buy raw fruit and put in the freezer. Is it a sign of growing old when one decides to buy foods already prepared and canned? If it is, then I am of the older vintage.

Johnson Grumbling On Political Picture

WASHINGTON — LBJ's Candidate — We reported on January 4 that ex-President Lyndon Johnson was disenchanted with the leading Democratic presidential hopefuls and was threatening privately to back President Nixon for re-election in 1972. As part of the maneuver, we reported, LBJ might try to make a deal with Nixon to take John Connally, a Johnson protege, as running mate. Down on the Pedernales, LBJ is still muttering to friends about the political outlook.

Of all the leading candidates, the former President has grumbled, the only one he can abide is Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.; otherwise, Nixon still would be a more acceptable alternative.

Bailey's Background — F. Lee Bailey, the fiery defender of Capt. Ernest Medina against My Lai massacre charges, is best known for such headline civilian cases as Sam Sheppard, the Boston Strangler and the Plymouth mail robbery. But actually, Bailey's first legal work was in military, not civilian trials. A fighter pilot at Cherry Point, N.C., he doubled as his group's legal officer in 1955 though he wasn't yet a lawyer. Using borrowed law books, he handled more than 200 cases, some as prosecutor, some as defense counsel. They ranged from spectacular moonshine charges to complicated insanity proceedings. My associate Les Whitten also reports that Bailey as a boy was willing to fight four neighborhood boys at the same time and grew up to be a totally fearless fighter pilot in the Marines.

Bargain Cadillacs — We were the first to report that congressional chairmen were able to lease gleaming new Cadillacs, Lincolns and Chrysler Imperials for token fees. It is only fair to report, therefore, that we have now caught the Pentagon wangling the same bargain. Ten new Cadillac Fleetwoods have been delivered to the Pentagon for the riding comfort of high officials. The Pentagon pays less than $100 a month for each car. Anyone else would have to pay at least four times that amount. General Motors happens to be one of the nation's biggest defense contractors. The officials who ride around in GM's $100-a-month Cadillacs, of course, determine who gets defense contracts.

Hidden Contributions — The Citizens' Research Foundation, after tracing 1968 campaign contributions through the political maze, named the sugar daddies who had shelled out the big political dough. Most had tried to hide their contributions. But the foundation received an unexpected response from William Benton, publisher of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. "I find," he wrote, "that your report lists me for a total of $17,500. My actual total was over $50,000. Can it be that you missed as badly in compiling the gifts of others? If so, the amount of political contributions is far greater than the compilations in your report would indicate."

Opponents Of Britain In Common Market Pushing For July Conference Of Labor Party

LONDON — It is not only in myth that kingdoms are lost for want of a nail. In the real world, what seem little matters of timing and procedure may affect great political events. So history may see the decision of the British Labor party's executive, just taken, to hold a special party conference next month on whether this country should join the European Common Market.

The move for an early party meeting was pressed by the all-out opponents of British entry. Their victory was wildly cheered by the party's left wing. But why should they care so much? What real difference does it make to them whether Labor's delegates consider the market issue in July or in their regular conference at the beginning of October? It is in the search for that motive that the significance of the little procedural step may appear.

One theory with weighty support is that Labor's anti-marketeers are not going to be satisfied with a party vote to oppose ratification of the terms negotiated with the market by the conservative government. They want to go on to a commitment that the next Labor government would pull Britain out of the European Community.

Such an objective on the part of the anti-market group would explain its emphasis on the early special meeting. For if the party waited until October to take a stand against ratifying the treaty, another year would pass before the next conference could consider the more extreme position. And by then — if Parliament had approved — Britain would be on the verge of membership, and the whole thing would look like a fait accompli.

The intricacies of Britain's internal struggle over joining the Common Market interest few Americans. But as the strategy just suggested makes clear, there is much more involved here than passing maneuvers. The whole structure of politics in Britain could be at stake.

The Labor party has for a long time encompassed people of extraordinary varied opinions and temperaments. It includes traditional trade unionists interested mainly in the pay envelope, left-wing idealogues, pragmatists of generally progressive views and so on. They are held together — barely — by a mutual desire for power, and by a tacit willingness not to press their differences too far.

But it is another matter for one wing of the party to force through a public commitment that a Labor government would undo Britain's most important international undertaking in a very long time. How could men who deeply believe in the European venture run on such a platform? And they include the Labor Party's deputy leader, Roy Jenkins, and its spokesmen on foreign and defense affairs, Denis Healey, Harold Lever and George Thomson.

It may be said that a pledge to take Britain out of the Common Market is a species of fantasy. The treaty of Rome makes no provision for withdrawal, and for this country to denounce the treaty soon after finally adhering to it would be likely to bring on such shattering diplomatic and economic consequences that even politicians most skeptical about the Common Market would be unlikely to carry out the threat.

But the men who will carry the real weight of the anti-market effort at the party conferences in July and October may simply not be moved by such rational considerations. They are the left-wing leaders of Britain's two biggest unions. Jack Jones of the Transport Workers and Hugh Scanlon of the Engineering Workers. Between them they control enough bloc votes to swing a Labor conference on virtually and on this issue if they want to. And on this issue they want to.

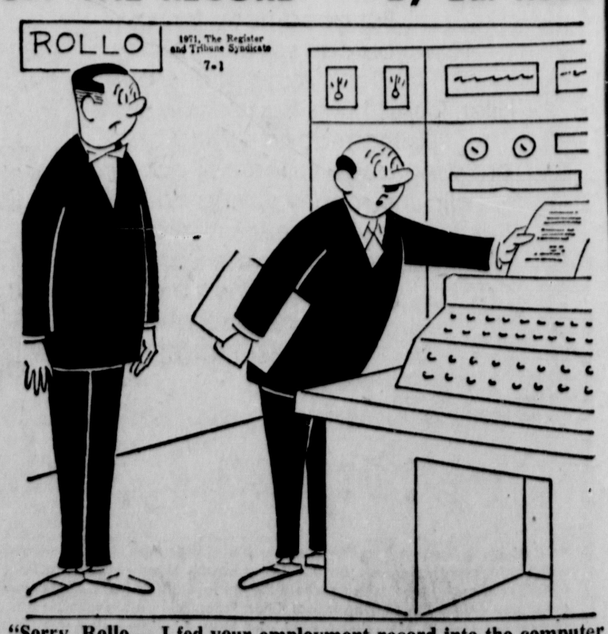

The public picture of a party dominated by these two union leaders would be extremely damaging to Labor in the country; outside their unions, Jones and Scanlon would not win many popularity contests. But beyond that the conception of a left-wing party based on trade unions—a historial accident in Britain—might be called into question.

A party that effectively drove out of its ranks Jenkins, Healey, Lever, Thomson and others like them would not be taken seriously by the other socialist parties of Western Europe. They would see it as an anachronism, a throwback to the dear old days of politically profitless doctrinairism. And in this country the circumstances could just be created for the formation of a new party, one independent of the unions.

No one can predict exactly how this summer will develop for the Labor party, but certainly the possibilities are grave. The one clear way of meeting them head-on would be for the leader of the party, Harold Wilson, to tell the conference that he will not be bound by any resolution turning away from his own commitment to Europe. But Wilson is a man who all his life has tried to avoid party fights, to paper over differences of principle. The question is whether he has it in him to say what his predecessor, Hugh Gaitskell, told a labor conference that called for unilateral disarmament: that he would "fight and fight and fight again to save the party we love, to bring back sanity and honesty and dignity."

Conspiracy To Fix Plastic Pipe Fittings Price Charged

Los Angeles (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted two executives and five corporations on criminal charges of conspiring to fix the price of plastic pipe fittings.

A Justice Department spokesman said as much as half of the product sales in the United States may have been affected by the alleged price fixing.

Named as defendants were R & G Sloane Manufacturing Co., Sun Valley, Calif; its parent company, Susquehanna Corp., Alexandria, Va.; Celanese Pompano Beach, Fla.; Thomas L. Rourke, a former vice president of Celanese; Glen Sloane, president of R & G Sloane

If found guilty of the criminal charges, the two men could be fined $50,000 and sentenced to one year in jail. The maximum penalty for each corporate defendant is $50,000.

The grand jury indictment and a companion civil complaint were filed in U.S. District Court here.

State Plans Airport Road Interchange

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A $1,050,000 interchange construction project at the Lincoln Airport Road is the major state highway improvement proposed in Lancaster County for fiscal 1972.

The five-year (1973-77) planning program includes Lancaster County projects totaling more than $13 million.

Development of the Lincoln Airport Road interchange involves six-tenths of a mile of construction work.

But success of that project depends upon a cost contribution from the Union Pacific Railroad, according to Department of Roads engineer Kenneth Gottula.

Other abutting landowners have agreed to contribute to the costs, he said.

Surfacing Planned

Other projects scheduled for fiscal 1972 include second stage bituminous surfacing of 4.6 miles on the Firth Spur in both Lancaster and Gage Counties at an estimated cost of $230,000 and of five-tenths of a mile on the Raymond Spur at $115,000.

Viaduct construction on the Hickman Spur is projected to cost $175,000.

Interstate 80 work during fiscal 1972 includes $200,000 for rest area modifications in Seward, York and Lancaster Counties.

A $370,000 project would make guard rail revisions on the Interstate in Lancaster and Seward Counties between York and the Lincoln Airport.

Median safety revisions between the Lincoln Airport and the Cass County line would cost $60,000.

Another $60,000 project involves ramp modification at the Waverly Interchange, and $10,000 would make median safety revisions at the junction of Interstate 80 and Interstate 180 at Lincoln.

$2 Million In County

The fiscal 1972 total for projects involving Lancaster County is $2,270,000.

The five-year planning program includes $2,985,000 for widening Nebraska 2 from two to four lanes from 14th Street in Lincoln east for 3.4 miles.

Substantial funding is also planned for a freeway study generally following the route of U.S. 77 from Lincoln south to the Kansas line.

Here are the freeway-marked funding projects involving Lancaster County:

—U.S. 77, Lincoln south and east relocation, engineering and right-of-way planning for freeway, 27.0 miles, $1,470,000.

—U.S. 77, Lincoln west relocation, engineering and right-of-way planning for freeway, 7.0 miles, $745,000.

—U.S. 77, Crete corner to the Kansas line, engineering and right-of-way planning for freeway, 49.0 mlies, $345.000.

Other Lancaster County projects in the five-year planning program include Cornhusker Highway, U.S. 6 between Lincoln and Waverly and improvements on U.S. 77 south of Lincoln and at the junction of U.S. 6 and Interstate 80.

The remainder of the list:

—U.S. 6-77, Cornhusker Highway, urban improvements, one-half mile, $1,135,000.

—U.S. 6, Lincoln to Waverly, grading, structures and surfacing, 5.2 miles, $2,705,000.

—U.S. 77, Lincoln south for eight miles, grading, structures and surfacing, $2,315,000.

—U.S. 77, at the junction of U.S. 6 and Interstate 80, urban improvement, 2.4 miles, $1,030,000.

—Interstate 80, median revisions and lighting, five projects totaling $490,000.

Recreation Road Planned, Others To Be Announced

A recreation road from U.S. 6-34 near Holdrege to the Sacramento Game Management Area in Phelps County will be included in the fiscal 1972 recreation road program.

Estimated cost of the eight-mile project is $300,000.

Gov. J. James Exon and State Engineer Thomas Doyle announced approval of the project Wednesday.

The project will tie with a 3.7-mile road from the Game Management Area to Nebraska 44 in Kearney County to provide visitors with a paved access from U.S. 6-34 and Nebraska 44.

The shorter project was included in the 1969-71 road program and is scheduled for a July 15 letting. Its estimated cost is $157,000.

Other recreation roads to be included in the fiscal 1972 construction program will be announced within the next few months.

Upward Expansion Of UNO Not Realistic, Says Naylor

Omaha (AP)— President Kirx E. Naylor described as "not realistic" a proposal by some University of Nebraska at Omaha neighbors to expand upward instead of outward.

Naylor said Wednesday he continues to support a recommendation that the campus be expanded west and will carry the recommendation to the Board of Regents in Lincoln July 12.

Naylor commented after spokesman for the Citizens Action Association suggested Tuesday night that UNO construct "high destiny, singic structure, mass buildings."

Naylor and other university officials support a plan presented by Caudill-Rowlett-Scott, a Houston, Tex., engineering and architectural firm, which calls for acquisition of 60 acres west of the present 52-acre campus.

Naylor said the consultants considered the possibility of building upward, but recommended against it.

"Irrespective of the design of buildings, the size of buildings, and the spacing of buildings, the university could not be contained," Naylor said.

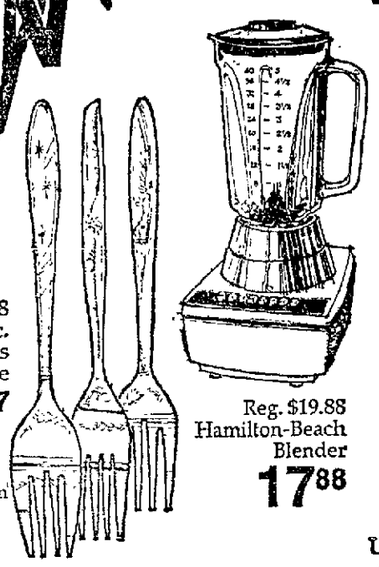

If it were possible to eliminate the parking situation, "the space situation wouldn't be so acute," Naylor said.

Voegler To Intern In Hruska's Office

Schuyler (UPI) — Douglas G. Voegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Voegler of Schuyler, was appointed as an intern in the office of Sen. Roman L. Hruska for the period July 19 through Aug. 27.

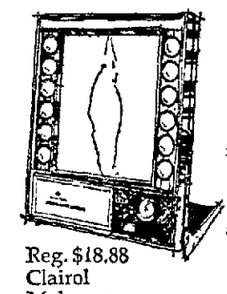

Voegler will assist staff members in research work on legislative projects.

State Plans Airport Road Interchange

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A $1,050,000 interchange construction project at the Lincoln Airport Road is the major state highway improvement proposed in Lancaster County for fiscal 1972.

The five-year (1973-77) planning program includes Lancaster County projects totaling more than $13 million.

Development of the Lincoln Airport Road interchange involves six-tenths of a mile of construction work.

But success of that project depends upon a cost contribution from the Union Pacific Railroad, according to Department of Roads engineer Kenneth Gottula.

Other abutting landowners have agreed to contribute to the costs, he said.

Surfacing Planned

Other projects scheduled for fiscal 1972 include second stage bituminous surfacing of 4.6 miles on the Firth Spur in both Lancaster and Gage Counties at an estimated cost of $230,000 and of five-tenths of a mile on the Raymond Spur at $115,000.

Viaduct construction on the Hickman Spur is projected to cost $175,000.

Interstate 80 work during fiscal 1972 includes $200,000 for rest area modifications in Seward, York and Lancaster Counties.

A $370,000 project would make guard rail revisions on the Interstate in Lancaster and Seward Counties between York and the Lincoln Airport.

Median safety revisions between the Lincoln Airport and the Cass County line would cost $60,000.

Another $60,000 project involves ramp modification at the Waverly Interchange, and $10,000 would make median safety revisions at the junction of Interstate 80 and Interstate 180 at Lincoln.

$2 Million In County

The fiscal 1972 total for projects involving Lancaster County is $2,270,000.

The five-year planning program includes $2,985,000 for widening Nebraska 2 from two to four lanes from 14th Street in Lincoln east for 3.4 miles.

Substantial funding is also planned for a freeway study generally following the route of U.S. 77 from Lincoln south to the Kansas line.

Here are the freeway-marked funding projects involving Lancaster County:

—U.S. 77, Lincoln south and east relocation, engineering and right-of-way planning for freeway, 27.0 miles, $1,470,000.

—U.S. 77, Lincoln west relocation, engineering and right-of-way planning for freeway, 7.0 miles, $745,000.

—U.S. 77, Crete corner to the Kansas line, engineering and right-of-way planning for freeway, 49.0 mlies, $345,000.

Other Lancaster County projects in the five-year planning program include Cornhusker Highway, U.S. 6 between Lincoln and Waverly and improvements on U.S. 77 south of Lincoln and at the junction of U.S. 6 and Interstate 80.

The remainder of the list:

—U.S. 6-77, Cornhusker Highway, urban improvements, one-half mile, $1,135,000.

—U.S. 6, Lincoln to Waverly, grading, structures and surfacing, 5.2 miles, $2,705,000.

—U.S. 77, Lincoln south for eight miles, grading, structures and surfacing, $2,315,000.

Recreation Road Planned, Others To Be Announced

A recreation road from U.S. 6-34 near Holdrege to the Sacramento Game Management Area in Phelps County will be included in the fiscal 1972 recreation road program.

Estimated cost of the eight-mile project is $300,000.

Gov. J. James Exon and State Engineer Thomas Doyle announced approval of the project Wednesday.

The project will tie with a 3.7-mile road from the Game Management Area to Nebraska 44 in Kearney County to provide visitors with a paved access from U.S. 6-34 and Nebraska 44.

The shorter project was included in the 1969-71 road program and is scheduled for a July 15 letting. Its estimated cost is $157,000.

Other recreation roads to be included in the fiscal 1972 construction program will be announced within the next few months.

Upward Expansion Of UNO Not Realistic, Says Naylor

Omaha (AP)— President Kirk E. Naylor described as "not realistic" a proposal by some University of Nebraska at Omaha neighbors to expand upward instead of outward.

Naylor said Wednesday he continues to support a recommendation that the campus be expanded west and will carry the recommendation to the Board of Regents in Lincoln July 12.

Naylor commented after spokesman for the Citizens Action Association suggested Tuesday night that UNO construct "high destiny, single structure, mass buildings."

Naylor and other university officials support a plan presented by Caudill-Rowlett-Scott, a Houston, Tex., engineering and architectural firm, which calls for acquisition of 60 acres west of the present 52-acre campus.

Naylor said the consultants considered the possibility of building upward, but recommended against it.

"Irrespective of the design of buildings, the size of buildings, and the spacing of buildings, the university could not be contained," Naylor said.

If it were possible to eliminate the parking situation, "the space situation wouldn't be so acute," Naylor said.

Voegler To Intern In Hruska's Office

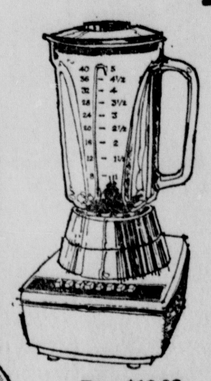

Schuyler (UPI) — Douglas G. Voegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Voegler of Schuyler, was appointed as an intern in the office of Sen. Roman L. Hruska for the period July 19 through Aug. 27.

Voegler will assist staff members in research work on legislative projects.

Busy Days Ahead For Lincoln

Before we delve into some of the activity of the approaching weekend we want to do some talking about a bride-elect — She is Miss Donna Getscher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P.E. Getscher, whose marriage to David Ewing, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David Ewing of Wayne, will be solemnized on Saturday, July 31.

Miss Getscher's party calendar is a long one, and the courtesies began on Wednesday, June 23, when Mrs. Robert Gillespie, Mrs. Robert Phillips, Mrs. Carl Norden and Mrs. Howard Gotfredson entertained at a luncheon and a linen shower at the University Club.

Then, on last Tuesday evening, Miss Getscher was again complimented when Mrs. Robert Devaney was a hostess at her home. The guest list included members of the B&S Club to which both the bride-elect's mother and the hostess belong. During the evening the soon-to-be bride was presented with a miscellaneous shower.

* * *

It may be the time of wine and roses — of summer heat and thunderstorms — and it may be take-off time to summer hideaways in the mountains, or at the lakes, but it also is nearly time for Fourth of July Celebrations.

Many of those celebrations will be family picnics in the parks — or maybe barbecues in your back yard; but July 4 will not be forgotten at Lincoln's Country Clubs, either.

The Lincoln Country Club is having its usual picnic buffet, plus some fancy swimming and, naturally late evening fireworks.

Out at Hillcrest Country Club activity begins early in the afternoon and is varied, to say the least. Between 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, for instance, the smallfry set will have its innings. There will be two hours of pony rides. For the older boys and girls there will be a goldfish hunt and a swimming meet, and that egg and spoon race, and the clothespin race is open to all ages. For the youngsters under eight years old there is to be a swimming race — with prizes. One of the prizes will be awarded for the biggest splash, and another for the funniest dive.

After the afternoon activities the members of the club, their children and guests will gather around the pool for a sort of home-style box supper of fried chicken and everything that goes with it. Then, the fireworks.

Things will be far from quiet in the area of Holmes Park on Sunday afternoon — There are to be two bands to furnish music during the festivities — there will be sailboat races, canoe races — a contest put on by the Midwest Model Boat Club — all planned by the Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the City Recreation Department.

MISS SUSAN SVOBODA

This morning Mr. and Mrs. James P. Svoboda of Lexington make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Susan Elaine, to Daniel L. Schmidt, son of Mrs. C. G. Moen of Omaha, and the late Walter C. Schmidt.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, Sept. 5.

Miss Svoboda will be graduated in August from the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in music education, and where she is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority, and of Alpha Lambda Delta, scholastic honorary.

Mr. Schmidt also will receive his degree in music education from the University of Nebraska in August. He is a member of Kappa Kappa Psi, an international band fraternity, and of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia.

Afternoon Service

The wedding of Miss Jolene Ann Svoboda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Svoboda of Lawrence, and James Ritzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritzman, took place on Saturday afternoon, June 26, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Lawrence.

The attendants, including Miss Jeanette Svoboda of Lawrence, who was her sister's maid of honor; bridesmatrons Mrs. Gary Beyke and Mrs. Jim Hardt; and bridesmaids Miss Roxi Hanzlicek and Miss Marietta Hubl, wore alike, floor-length frocks of yellow dotted swiss.

William Ritzman of San Diego, Calif., served his brother as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Gary Beyke, Roger Nolte, Jerry Campbell, Dennis Michaelis, Tom Schleicher, Doug Kuhnel, and Don Svoboda of Lawrence.

The bride selected a gown of dotted swiss and Venise lace for her wedding. The lace, which accented the Empire bodice, also fashioned the wedding band neckline and cuffed the Bishop sleeves. The lace was repeated to border the hemline of the A-line skirt which was completed by a lace-edged train.

Attendants Are Named

Revealing plans this morning for a July wedding is Miss Jan Marie Church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith C. Church, who has chosen Saturday, July 10, as the date for her marriage to LeRoy Earl Umphres.

Miss Church has named Miss Beth Fast as her honor attendant for the 8 o'clock ceremony which will be solemnized at St. Paul United Church of Christ. Attending Miss Church as bridesmaids will be Miss Linda Greenwald and Miss Ann Sutherland, and the flower girl will be Miss Melanie Barkley.

Lighting the chancel candles will be Miss Jane Smith and Miss Patty Smith.

Serving Mr. Umphres as best man will be Alan Floth, and the groomsmen will be Steve Holcombe and Blake Rowlison. Lane Reed will be ring bearer.

The bride-to-be was presented a miscellaneous shower on Sunday afternoon, June 27, when Miss Linda Greenwald entertained a group of guests at her home.

Miss Ann Sutherland entertained in courtesy to Miss Church at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Sunday afternoon, May 2.

Miss Church and her fiance will share honors on Friday evening, July 9, at a prenuptial dinner for which Mr. Umphres' mother, Mrs. Martha Umphres, will be hostess at The Knolls following the wedding rehearsal at the church.

Miss Church attends the University of Nebraska School of Journalism. Her sorority is Sigma Kappa.

Bridal Showers—A Tradition That Never Changes

Although there have been variations as well as drastic changes in marriage ceremonies as of late, there still remain some of the traditional touches — the bridal shower, for example.

Miss Gloria Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Owens, who will become the bride of Bruce Rieckman of Murdock on Saturday afternoon, July 10, was entertained at a coffee and miscellaneous shower on Saturday morning, June 12.

The party was held at the home of Mrs. George Metcalf, an aunt of the bride-to-be, and assisting hostesses for the courtesy were Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Robert Metcalf, and Mrs. Jim Sturm of Wayne, all Miss Owens' aunts.

A July bride-elect who has recently returned to Lincoln has already started attending courtesies in her honor. Miss Teri Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brady, was the guest of honor on Saturday afternoon, June 19, at a luncheon and kitchen shower. Co-hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Thomas McGovern and Mrs. John Head. The shower was held at the home of Mrs. McGovern.

Miss Brady returned to Lincoln in June from Hilliard, Fla., where she taught remedial reading at Hilliard School. She is planning a Friday, July 16 wedding to Robert Harold Miller, Jr.

Bridal Party Is Revealed

Announcing plans this morning for a July wedding is Miss Judy Marlene Johnson, whose marriage to Neal John Bogle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bogle of Prairie Home, will be an event of Saturday, July 24.

The duaghter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Johnson of Waverly, the bride-elect has named Miss Julie Marolf of Waverly as her maid of honor, and the bridesmatrons will be Mrs. Thomas Larson, Mrs. Michael Knoflicek, and Mrs. Wayne Trout of Crab Orchard. Miss Trudy Wissel of Bennet will serve as flower girl.

Lighting the candles for the 2:30 o'clock ceremony at the First United Methodist Church in Waverly will be Miss Twila Johnson, sister of the bride-to-be, and Miss Sharon Bogle, Mr. Bogle's sister.

Serving as best man will be Sam Jacoby, and the groomsmen will include Del Nieman, Bill Johnson, of Waverly, brother of the future bride, and Dick Dalby. Seating the guests will be Les Johnson, Miss Johnson's brother, and Gary Hansen both of Waverly. The ring bearer will be John Sheary of Waverly.

On Tuesday evening, June 29, Miss Johnson was presented with a kitchen shower when Mrs. Wayne Marolf of Waverly, and her duaghter, Miss Julie Marolf, entertained a group of guests at their home. Assisting hostess for the party was Mrs. Wayne Trout of Crab Orchard.

Mrs. Edward Sheary of Waverly will be hostess in courtesy to her niece at a miscellaneous shower which is planned for Friday evening, July 2.

Miss Johnson will share honors with her future sister-in-law, Miss Carol Bogle of Priarie Home, who also is a soon-to-be bride, at a miscellaneous shower on Friday evening, July 16, when Mr. Bogle's aunt, Mrs. Arnold Bentzinger of Martell, will serve as hostess at her home.

Miss Johnson was graduated from the University of Nebraska, and now is careering in Lincoln.

Rose Society

The members of the Lincoln Rose Society were entertained at a breakfast on Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hewitt.

After visiting the Hewitt garden, the group toured the grounds of Gail Butts, and then moved on to the garden at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Loudon.

The Woods garden was next on the agenda and the visits came to and end at the Sunken Garden at 27th and C Sts.

The next meeting will be a picnic on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 1. Chairmen for the event, which will be held at Woods Park, will be Mr. and Mrs. Guy Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stout.

MISS SHIRLEY ANN FISK

This morning Mr and Mrs Darrel Fisk of Syracuse make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Shirley Ann to Michael L Knarr of Lincoln son of Mr and Mrs Virgil Knarr of Denver Colo

Saturday Aug 7 has been chosen as the date of the wedding and the ceremony will be solemnized in Syracuse

Miss Fisk is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in mathematics and where she is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta scholastic honorary

Mr Knarr is with the City of Lincoln Park Department

BOOKS—"David: Report On A. Rockefeller"

By INDIRA SINGH

His name is David Rockefeller His grandfather was the richest man in the world His father built Rockefeller Center, and reconstructed Williamsburg, Virginia One of his brothers is a four-term governor of New York Another of his brothers was a two-term governor of Arkansas His nephew expects to be the president of the United States He has been called a philanthropist, as well as an exploiter Some believe him to be one of the troubled world's great hopes Others believe he is one of the biggest barriers in the path of progress

A prominent Delaware banker put it this way 'I don t think Richard Nixon tells David Rockefeller what to do If anything, it's the other way around" For David Rockefeller, the presidency of the United States would be a demotion

"David' is a report on the man, his money, and the ways he uses it It is also a biography of the Chase Manhattan Bank, which David Rockefeller heads and controls, which in turn has a controlling interest in 56 of the largest corporations in the United States including TWA, CBS and ABC Networks Standard Oil, Time Inc , Newsday Inc , The Tribune Company and the Dow Jones Company In turn they hold interlocking directorates in 65 other great companies Its tentacles reach into virtually every continent it has 50 000 branches or correspondent banks in more than 50 countries around the world

Mr Rockefeller s power influences political affairs all over the globe including Southeast Asia and his financial policies govern many young nations in Latin America and Africa Placid, unpretentious, soft spoken, and bland, David Rockefeller is one of the most powerful men in the world

William Hoffman, the author of the book, tried several times unsuccessfully to meet and interview Mr Rockefeller However he was always shuttled away by aides who realized that this book might not be in the best interest of Mr. Rockefeller. Hoffman's report therefore remains somewhat biased in sentiment, and presents a rather frightening picture of a man who is so enormously rich that he controls the fabric and quality of millions of lives At the same time the facts Mr Hoffman reveals are not in the least misrepresented or erroneous

Lyle Stuart Inc , who published this book, has been known all too well for sensationalizing its literary material. A small publishing firm they have been known for such monstrosities as "The Sensuous Woman " Due to this fact it is rather unfortunate that this book will not receive much publicity but will die under piles of best sellers It cannot be stressed enough that this book does take a definite slant against Mr Rockefeller however it should also be noted that the collection of facts it presents are accurate and verified by other publications.

In a world of chess squares, the pawn and the king are far removed by a single item known as money Therefore it is rather unfortunate for a society that claims itself to be free, that those who exercise power cannot be held accountable by those upon whom they exercise

So Sew

By GAIL HERSTEAD

The sewing machine, material and thread may be ready for sewing, but if the pattern does not fit, or the home sewer hastily inserts a zipper, there may be trouble. The next time long sleeves need adjustment, a jumpsuit requires fitting, or zippers need the professional or decorator touch, try the following hints.

Long Sleeves — If a full sleeve needs adjustment, measure from the cap to the elbow and make changes at the elbow on the pattern, not at the sleeve edge.

Jumpsuit — Jumpsuit patterns should always be checked for fit, otherwise the completed outfit will bag and never be comfortable. Measure from the center neckline through the crotch, add an inch-and-a-half and check the measurement with the pattern, making necessary changes.

Zippers — Always take the zipper out of the package and press it to realign the teeth. If it is a nylon zipper do not worry — nylon zippers are now meltless! Remember not to stitch the zipper to the neckline edge because of the facing allowance. The key: allow one-inch allowance below the neckline edge for lightweight fabrics and one-and-a-half inch for heavy materials.

Decorative Zipper — Choose an appropriate trim and pin around the zipper, folding the trim for a point or square edge at the bottom of the zipper and machine stitch the trim to the zipper at the edge of the trim. Now, before attaching the decorative zipper to the material, mark the center line with pins — do not slash — and machine stitch one-fourth of an inch around the imaginary line. Place the zipper coil on the pin-marked line, then pin around the outer edge of trim and stitch along the outside trim edge with a zipper foot. Now that the decorative zipper is stitched on, slash the material on the center line, fold the raw edges underneath and slipstitch to the zipper's back edge.

FROM THE NEEDLE'S EYE — For those of you heralding the true red, white and blue Betsey Ross spirit, McCall's Pattern 1776 gives ambitious stitchers the chance to show off their Fourth of July patriotism and sewing ability. The flag is three by five feet wide, has fifty stars and ample stripes to unfurl in the breeze.

South now played a low club, ruffing with the nine as East again smartly discarded a diamond. South now could not come to his hand without reducing his holding to one trump while East still had two, and as a result he went down a pair.

And so, declarer lost the slam because he lost control of trumps. He should have realized — when he was forced to ruff the first spade — that the only real danger of the hand was that the hearts and clubs might each be divided 4-1, and that it was necessary to protect himself against that contingency.

After ruffing the spade lead, he should have played a heart to the king, followed by the A-5 of clubs. East would discard and South would win with the king.

He would then ruff a club and it would not matter whether East overruffed or not. Either way, South would make the slam.

If East overruffed, South would draw trumps and easily make the rest. If East discarded instead, South would still have a trump in dummy to lead and would cash the A-Q and then play his good clubs. East would sooner or later score a trump trick — but no more.

Abby: ask if she prefers her selling to your shopping

DEAR ABBY: I am a man, 64 years old. I retired two years ago and I am very lonely. You see, my wife, who is 60, took a job selling in a retail store some years back because she wanted to do something more exciting than just housework. Her selling job paid poorly, but she never quit because she says she enjoys selling. Her boss is about 50, and she eats up his flattery. She enjoys the attention of any man who is younger than I am.

I had hoped that after my retirement my wife and I could travel and live out our golden years in pleasure and relaxation, but she refuses to quit her job. She has no appreciation for the security I have worked all my life to provide for her.

Should I dissolve our marriage now and try to find some lady who would be happy to give up her job to travel and enjoy retirement with me?

LONELY IN K.C.

DEAR LONELY: Perhaps if you put it to your wife just that way, your problem would be solved. She's a foolish woman to spend her days "selling" while you are free to spend your days "shopping."

DEAR ABBY: My husband is of Italian descent and he has a friend who is also Italian. His name is Dino. When Dino comes over, which is quite often lately, the two of them greet each other with a warm embrace, and they kiss like a man would kiss a woman. My husband tells me that this is an old Italian custom as the Italians are very affectionate people. I am not Italian, but I have known a lot of Italians and I have never seen this done by two men.

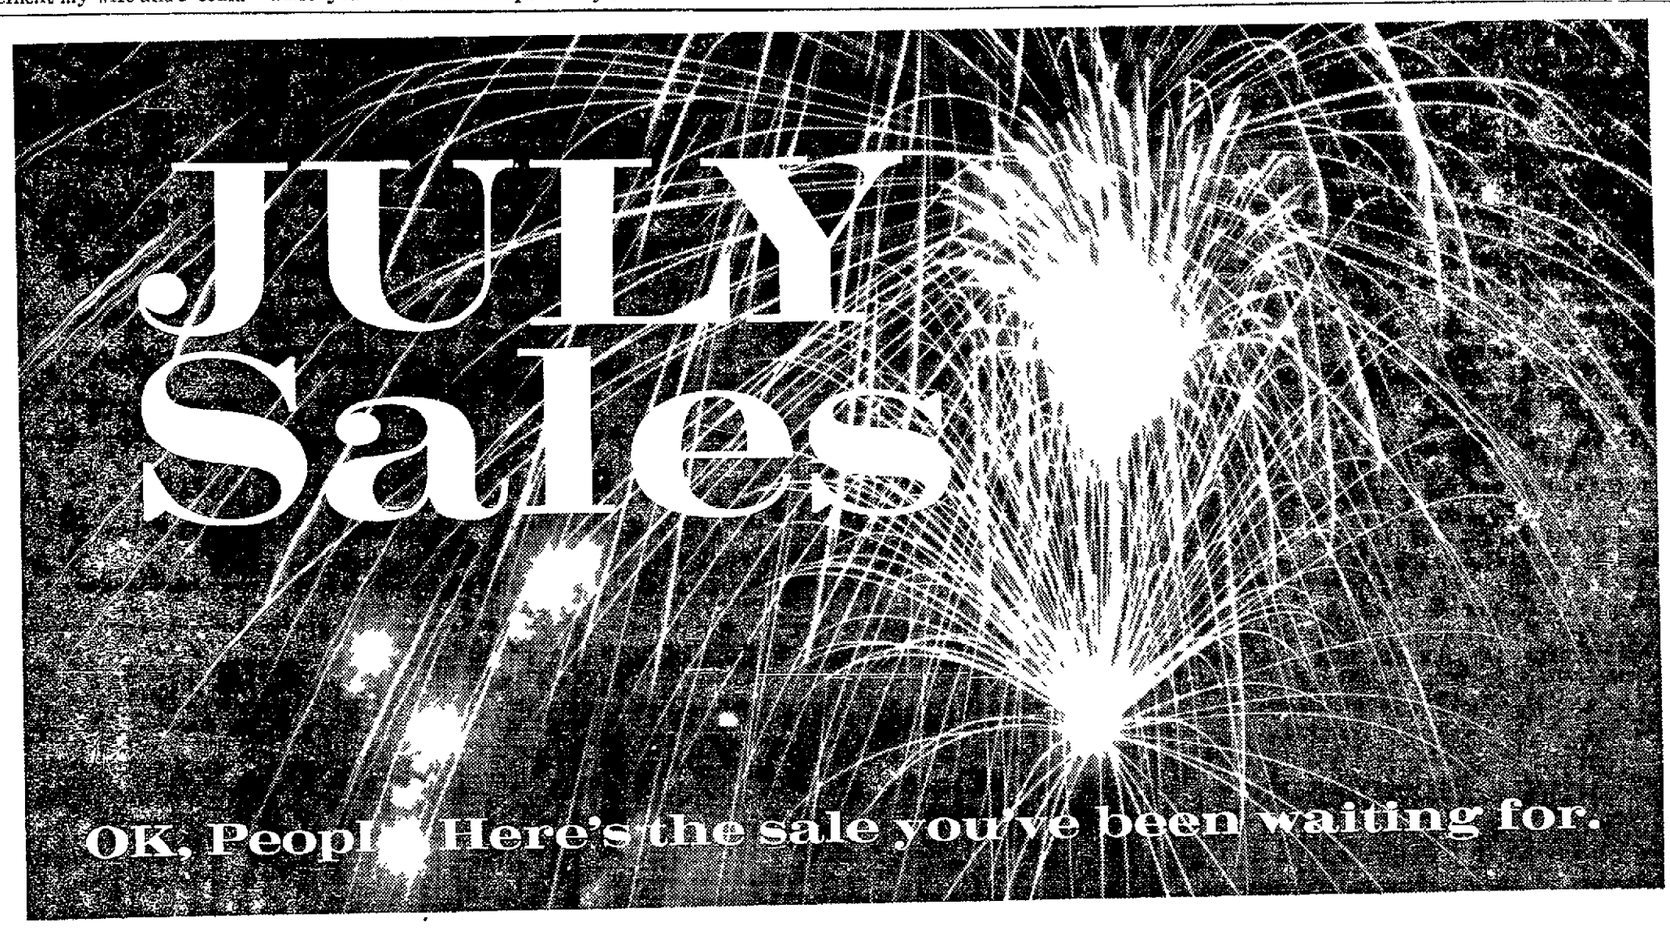

My husband and I are both middle-age and have been married less than two years, and he shows more enthusiasm when he kisses Dino than when he kisses me. Should I worry?

RHODE ISLAND READER

DEAR READER: Affectionate men of all nationalities will sometimes greet each other with a firm embrace. But kissing "like a man would kiss a woman" is something else. Worrying won't help. Ask your husband to state his preference.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

3 Cosmonauts' Deaths Cause Uncertain Future

Moscow (AP) — The death of three cosmonauts as they were about to land after a record 24 days aloft threw the Soviet Union's future space efforts into uncertainty Wednesday.

How long the Russians wait before sending more men to work on the orbiting laboratory Salute — which the cosmonauts quit Tuesday — presumably will depend on how quickly investigators can find and rectify the problem that killed the crew of Soyuz 11

Foreign experts believed that oxygen systems failure on the Soyuz 11 probably caused the cosmonauts to die at the controls after the spacecraft had braked for entry into the atmosphere.

The three were found dead in the Soyuz 11 early Wednesday after it made a soft landing in a remote region. It had experienced no difficulty undocking from Salute, which the three entered June 7 to conduct extensive space experiments.

Investigation Set

The official news agency Tass announced that an investigation had been ordered It said all communications with the crew ended after the braking mechanism for re-entry was shut off.

Whatever it was, it happened suddenly and caught the three while they were secured in their seats for the re-entry. The fact that they were found dead in that position indicated they were unable to react quickly enough to save their lives.

Since the Russians never reveal their space schedules, it was not known what effect the failure will have on future manned space flights.

Most experts believe the unmanned Salute station will be used again by another crew carried into space by a Soyuz The three crewmen raised the orbit of the Salute on their first days aboard to keep it from dropping and burning up in the atmosphere

Posthumous Awards

The cosmonauts — Col. George Dobrovolsky, the commander, Vladislav Volkov, the flight engineer, and Viktor Patsayev, the test engineer — were given posthumous awards for "heroism and courage shown during the test of the new space complex," Tass said.

Gloom settled over the nation as news of the deaths spread. Many citizens wept openly. Others walked with downcast eyes and spoke in subdued tones. Moscow radio and television broadcast solemn music.

All three of the dead cosmonauts left widows and children

Dobrovolsky, 43, was married to a mathematics teacher and had two daughters, Maria, 11, and Natasha, 3 Volkov, 35, the only crew member who had flown in space before, had a 12-year-old son, Vladimir, and was married to an engineer Patsayev, 37, was the father of two children, Dmitry, 13, and Svetlana, 8 His widow is a scientific research worker

President Says Cosmonauts Widened 'Men's Horizons'

From Press Reports

President Nixon said Wednesday that the three Soviet Cosmonauts who died after manning history's first experimental space station had contributed greatly "to the widening of men's horizons."

The House adopted a resolution of condolence sponsored by Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., chairman of its space committee, and members of the Senate joined in with individual expressions of sorrow.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott praised the cosmonauts as "three gallant and valiant men" who died in the service of all peoples Democratic leader Mike Mansfield expressed hope Russians and Americans would someday work in space together

The American astronaut corps sent a message, addressed to Brig Gen. Andrei G Kuznetsov, commandant of the Soviet's Star City space complex, which said, "It is with great sadness we received the news of the tragic ending of Soyuz 11

"We share with the world community a deep sorrow for the loss of cosmonauts Dobrovolsky, Volkov and Patsayev and we mourn with all Russian people the deaths of three of their brave countrymen."

The message was signed by the chief of flight crew operations, Donald K. Slayton, "for the U.S. astronauts."

Nixon sent condolences to Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny He said, "The whole world followed the exploits of these courageous explorers of the unknown and shares the anguish of their tragedy."

JIM GARRISON

4 Counts Of Gambling Filed Against Garrison

(c) Washington Star

Washington — New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison, who has challenged the Warren Commission findings in the Assassination of President John F. Kennedy, was arrested Wednesday on federal charges of bribery, illegal gambling and obstruction of law enforcement.

Garrison drew international attention when he brought charges against Clay Shaw, a New Orleans businessman, on charges of conspiring to assassinate President Kennedy. Shaw was cleared of the charges.

Two New Orleans police officers and three other persons connected with pinball machine operations were arrested at the same time as Garrison and four others were being sought.

A Justice Department announcement said that arrest warrants were issued after Gerald Gallinghouse, U.S. attorney in New Orleans, filed a criminal complaint that had been developed from a year-long investigation.

The 103-page affidavit filed with the complaint said payments of up to $1,500 a month were being made to Garrison and the police officials to protect illegal gambling in coin-operated pinball machine operations.

The government said that tape recordings of some of the actual transactions are part of its case. It said also that a former member of Garrison's staff acted as the conduit for the exchange of the money and also recorded the conversations.

The four-count complaint charged all 10 with illegal gambling, use of bribery to obstruct law enforcement, interstate travel in aid of racketeering — in this case, illegal gambling — and conspiracy.

The coin-operated machines are legal in Louisiana and Mississippi unless a player can receive money from them by gambling. Mitchell said illegal pinball gambling in Louisiana is estimated to be a $15-million-a-year racket.

The maximum penalty upon conviction for illegal gambling is five years in prison and a $20,000 fine; for obstructing law enforcement, five years and $20,000 and conspiracy five years and $10,000.

3 Cosmonauts' Deaths Cause Uncertain Future

Moscow (AP) — The death of three cosmonauts as they were about to land after a record 24 days aloft threw the Soviet Union's future space efforts into uncertainty Wednesday.

How long the Russians wait before sending more men to work on the orbiting laboratory Salute — which the cosmonauts quit Tuesday — presumably will depend on how quickly investigators can find and rectify the problem that killed the crew of Soyuz 11.

Foreign experts believed that oxygen systems failure on the Soyuz 11 probably caused the cosmonauts to die at the controls after the spacecraft had braked for entry into the atmosphere.

The three were found dead in the Soyuz 11 early Wednesday after it made a soft landing in a remote region. It had experienced no difficulty undocking from Salute, which the three entered June 7 to conduct extensive space experiments.

Investigation Set

The official news agency Tass announced that an investigation had been ordered. It said all communications with the crew ended after the braking mechanism for re-entry was shut off.

Whatever it was, it happened suddenly and caught the three while they were secured in their seats for the re-entry. The fact that they were found dead in that position indicated they were unable to react quickly enough to save their lives.

Since the Russians never reveal their space schedules, it was not known what effect the failure will have on future manned space flights.

Most experts believe the unmanned Salute station will be used again by another crew carried into space by a Soyuz. The three crewmen raised the orbit of the Salute on their first days aboard to keep it from dropping and burning up in the atmosphere.

Posthumous Awards

The cosmonauts — Col. George Dobrovolsky, the commander, Vladislav Volkov, the flight engineer, and Viktor Patsayev, the test engineer — were given posthumous awards for "heroism and courage shown during the test of the new space complex," Tass said.

Gloom settled over the nation as news of the deaths spread. Many citizens wept openly. Others walked with downcast eyes and spoke in subdued tones. Moscow radio and television broadcast solemn music.

All three of the dead cosmonauts left widows and children.

Dobrovolsky, 43, was married to a mathematics teacher and had two daughters, Maria, 11, and Natasha, 3. Volkov, 35, the only crew member who had flown in space before, had a 12-year-old son, Vladimir, and was married to an engineer. Patsayev, 37, was the father of two children, Dmitry, 13, and Svetlana, 8. His widow is a scientific research worker.

President Says Cosmonauts Widened 'Men's Horizons'

From Press Reports

President Nixon said Wednesday that the three Soviet Cosmonauts who died after manning history's first experimental space station had contributed greatly "to the widening of men's horizons."

The House adopted a resolution of condolence sponsored by Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., chairman of its space committee, and members of the Senate joined in with individual expressions of sorrow.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott praised the cosmonauts as "three gallant and valiant men" who died in the service of all peoples. Democratic leader Mike Mansfield expressed hope Russians and Americans would someday work in space together.

The American astronaut corps sent a message, addressed to Brig. Gen. Andrei G. Kuznetsov, commandant of the Soviet's Star City space complex, which said, "It is with great sadness we received the news of the tragic ending of Soyuz 11.

"We share with the world community a deep sorrow for the loss of cosmonauts Dobrovolsky, Volkov and Patsayev and we mourn with all Russian people the deaths of three of their brave countrymen."

The message was signed by the chief of flight crew operations, Donald K. Slayton, "for the U.S. astronauts."

Nixon sent condolences to Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny. He said, "The whole world followed the exploits of these courageous explorers of the unknown and shares the anguish of their tragedy."

STORY AT RIGHT

JIM GARRISON

Proxmire Blocks Lockheed Loan Committee Action

Washington (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., using a parliamentary device, blocked the Senate Banking Committee from acting on the administration bill to rescue the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from financial collapse.

Proxmire objected to the committee meeting while the Senate was in session. The objection of only one Senator is required to prevent a committee from taking any action.

4 Counts Of Gambling Filed Against Garrison

(c) Washington Star

Washington — New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison, who has challenged the Warren Commission findings in the Assassination of President John F. Kennedy, was arrested Wednesday on federal charges of bribery, illegal gambling and obstruction of law enforcement.

Garrison drey international attention when he brought charges against Clay Shaw, a New Orleans businessman, on charges of conspiring to assassinate President Kennedy. Shaw was cleared of the charges.

Two New Orleans police officers and three other persons connected with pinball machine operations were arrested at the same time as Garrison and four others were being sought.

A Justice Department announcement said that arrest warrants were issued after Gerald Gallinghouse, U.S. attorney in New Orleans, filed a criminal complaint that had been developed from a year-long investigation.

The 103-page affidavit filed with the complaint said payments of up to $1,500 a month were being made to Garrison and the police officials to protect illegal gambling in coin-operated pinball machine operations.

The government said that tape recordings of some of the actual transactions are part of its case. It said also that a former member of Garrison's staff acted as the conduit for the exchange of the money and also recorded the conversations.

The four-count complaint charged all 10 with illegal gambling, use of bribery to obstruct law enforcement, Interstate travel in aid of racketeering — in this case, illegal gambling — and conspiracy.

The coin-operated machines are legal in Louisiana and Mississippi unless a player can receive money from them by gambling. Mitchell said illegal pinball gambling in Louisiana is estimated to be a $15-million-a-year racket.

The maximum penalty upon conviction for illegal gambling is five years in prison and a $20,000 fine; for obstructing law enforcement, five years and $20,000 and conspiracy five years and $10,000.

Sunday Journal and Star

ACTION LINE

DIAL 477-2121

Or Write P.O. Box 31669, Lincoln, NE 68501

Want a question answered? Action on something? Phone or write ACTION LINE, Sunday Journal and Star, giving name, town, daily paper (Star, Journal or Sunday) plus your request. Calls or letters from unidentified persons are not used. A pen name or initial will be used with the town if requested and if the caller or writer also provides his correct name and address.

As you can see by the attached letter, it was returned marked "addressee unknown" in Minneapolis, Minn. I thought I was writing the Craig Co. about some cookware. Where are they located? —Mrs. F.N., Geneva

ACTION LINE: Try writing to the company at P.O. Box 9628, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440. Or phone them at 612-823-6808.

We just purchased a Heinz puppy and wondered how long before we must register him. —R.W., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: All dogs six months and older must be registered with the Lincoln Humane Society.

Cats, by the way, must be registered after they are weaned, according to city law.

Perhaps I am jumping the gun a bit, but there will be snow just as sure as death and taxes, so I have this question: if one lives in a duplex, one of several, abutted by a sidewalk, who is to scoop the walk, the landlord or tenant?
—Mrs. M.L.C., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: This is a matter that should be worked out between you and your landlord. City Ordinance 14.80.140 states: "Every owner or occupant of any house or other building . . ." must clear the abutting sidewalks of snow and ice before 9 a.m. the morning following snow. If there is failure to comply with the city law, the sidewalk inspector can order the walk cleared by city crews and the cost assessed against the property owner, in this case, your landlord.

It would be best to define with your landlord the areas of responsibility before the first snow. It almost seems nice to be writing of snow in light of the 100 degree days of late.

My father paid $378 per month for my uncle to live in the Veterans' Hospital in Grand Island. My uncle died April 8 and we feel we should get a refund for April 9-30. The hospital says no. —Bothered, Grand Island

ACTION LINE: First, you are referring to the Nebraska Veterans Home in Grand Island, not the Veterans Hospital which does not place a charge on veterans being admitted, say VA officials.

According to Nebraska Veterans Home administrator Everett Phillips, this matter has never come up before, but there is possible recourse for you. Policy is set by the home's Board of Inquiry, such as the policy on refunds.

You could make application for a refund to them as rule-making body. Write to Phillips at the home: Burkett Station, Grand Island, NE 68801.

I would like to know if there is some way I could get a soldier pen pal in Vietnam. I know how lonely they are. —Miss, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: An address obtained by ACTION LINE should suit your purposes. Write a letter stating your purpose, with your name and address, of course, and address it to: Battery B, Second 32nd Artillery Battallion, APO 96266, San Francisco, Calif.

Good luck.

What is the City of Lincoln policy on outside employment by its employes? —Interested, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: City Personnel Director Walter Mitchell cited City Ordinance 2.58.520: "No full-time employe shall undertake any employment outside of his city employment which is, or can be interpreted to be, inconsistent with or detrimental to his city work. Any employe desiring to engage in outside employment shall submit a 'request for approval' to the personnel director using such forms as the director may require. The personnel director may approve or deny such request. The employe may appeal the director's determination to the mayor, who may make the final determination in such cases. The employe may be required to discontinue such outside employment or to resign without prejudice from the city service."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Thursday

"Astrology represents the summation of all the psychological knowledge of antiquity." — Dr. Carl Gustav Jung.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Conserve energy. Great outburst of enthusiasm by close associate may be based on mere wishful thinking. Your task now is to be shrewdly skeptical. Relationship may really be finished.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your impatience to get started on basic project, although commendable, is not necessarily wise. Take your time. A pet or dependent does deserve special consideration. Go slow.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Members of opposite sex are free-and-easy with their compliments. If you believe everything you hear now, you will be playing the role of fool. Success indicated through creative endeavors.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Some claim you are being too practical. If the truth be known, you are actually being daringly experimental. Your view is toward future. Your goal is sky-high. Go to it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on ideas which require further development. Better for short notes than for long essays. You exhibit tendency to lose articles while in transit. Take preventive measures.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Versatile approach could add up to solid profit. Don't feel you are bogged down with one method. To use the vernacular, play the field. Money situation improves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Include family members in plans, activities. Special recognition is due. Take initiative. Brighten surroundings. Set pace; lead the way. Be selfish in positive sense.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Clandestine meeting appears to be on agenda. You get wonderful chance to play role of detective. Realize being alone is not same as being lonely. Heed inner voice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A friend in need deserves positive response from you. Progress is a two-way street. Excellent for social activity, including dining out. Avoid theatrics.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be ambitious without being consumed by unreasonable desires. You can be happier than might be imagined. Start now to plan in more positive manner. There is room for you at top.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): How you spread your message is of utmost importance. Express yourself. Catch up on correspondence. Your unorthodox approach will be especially appreciated. Dance to your own tune.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your innate desire to delve to the core of mysteries surges to forefront. While investigating, you make profitable discovery. Mate, partner's money may be involved. Follow hunch.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a combination of passivity and forthrightness. Those who claim to understand you completely, may merely be fooling themselves. You could be a wizard in the kitchen; but, more likely, you appreciate the efforts of others in that area. One who captures your heart deserves every commendation.

Want a question answered? Action on something? Phone or write ACTION LINE, Sunday Journal and Star, giving name, town, daily paper (Star, Journal or Sunday) plus your request. Calls or letters from unidentified persons are not used. A pen name or initial will be used with the town if requested and if the caller or writer also provides his correct name and address.

As you can see by the attached letter, it was returned marked "addressee unknown" in Minneapolis, Minn. I thought I was writing the Craig Co. about some cookware. Where are they located? —Mrs. F.N., Geneva

ACTION LINE: Try writing to the company at P.O. Box 9628, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440. Or phone them at 612-823-6808.

We just purchased a Heinz puppy and wondered how long before we must register him. —R.W., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: All dogs six months and older must be registered with the Lincoln Humane Society.

Cats, by the way, must be registered after they are weaned, according to city law.

Perhaps I am jumping the gun a bit, but there will be snow just as sure as death and taxes, so I have this question: if one lives in a duplex, one of several, abutted by a sidewalk, who is to scoop the walk, the landlord or tenant?
—Mrs. M.L.C., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: This is a matter that should be worked out between you and your landlord. City Ordinance 14.80.140 states: "Every owner or occupant of any house or other building . . ." must clear the abutting sidewalks of snow and ice before 9 a.m. the morning following snow. If there is failure to comply with the city law, the sidewalk inspector can order the walk cleared by city crews and the cost assessed against the property owner, in this case, your landlord.

It would be best to define with your landlord the areas of responsibility before the first snow. It almost seems nice to be writing of snow in light of the 100 degree days of late.

My father paid $378 per month for my uncle to live in the Veterans' Hospital in Grand Island. My uncle died April 8 and we feel we should get a refund for April 9-30. The hospital says no. —Bothered, Grand Island

ACTION LINE: First, you are referring to the Nebraska Veterans Home in Grand Island, not the Veterans Hospital which does not place a charge on veterans being admitted, say VA officials.

According to Nebraska Veterans Home administrator Everett Phillips, this matter has never come up before, but there is possible recourse for you. Policy is set by the home's Board of Inquiry, such as the policy on refunds.

You could make application for a refund to them as rule-making body. Write to Phillips at the home: Burkett Station, Grand Island, NE 68801.

Permissiveness 'Is At End'

. . . PRESIDENT TELLS FBI GRADUATES

©The New York Times

Washington — President Nixon asked a group of policemen who graduated Wednesday from the National Academy of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to take back to their communities this message: "The era of permissiveness with regard to law enforcement is at end."

Present at the graduation ceremony, in one of his infrequent public appearances, was J. Edgar Hoover, the 76-year-old director of the bureau, who has recently become the subject of controversy. Hoover, natty in a sharply pressed gray suit, looked and acted quite fit and received with a bow and smile the praise of the President.

The President said of Hoover, "Anybody who is strong, anybody who fights for what he believes in, anybody who stands up when it is tough is bound to be controversial. The great majority of Americans back Mr. Hoover."

Hoover gave Nixon — who was once turned down for a job in the FBI — a pair of cufflinks with the seal of the FBI Academy. He gave Mitchell a gold badge, saying, "From this time on, we will view you as a special agent of the FBI."

Both the President and the attorney general cited crime statistics released by the FBI Wednesday. The statistics said that the rate of increase of serious crime for the first three months of this year was 6%, the lowest increase in five years.

According to the uniform crime report, 61 major cities with populations of 100,000 or more showed a decrease in the total number of crimes for January, February and March. However, during that period, violent crimes increased 13%, against an increase of 12% in the like period last year.

Students of crime statistics have noted that the FBI's figures are subject to important qualifications. For example, the figures are compiled from local police reports and are dependent on the accuracy of the local police. In addition, experts argue that certain crimes — particularly those committed in the slums tend to be less well-reported than others.

Nixon cited the statistics "to tell you today is a good day for law enforcement."

Bank Of China Plans To Open Branch Office

Hong Kong (AP) — The Bank of China, Communist China's biggest state-owned bank, will open its first branch in Hong Kong since the Communists conquered mainland China 21 years ago.

The bank has a head office here but, unlike other state-owned Communist Chinese banks, has not established any branch offices in Hong Kong.

Ocean Peak Found

Moscow (AP) — Scientists aboard the Soviet research vessel Dmitry Mendeleyev have discoverel an undersea mountain that rises almost 14,760 feet above the equatorial Pacific Ocean floor north of the Raratonga atoll, the official news agency Tass reported. That's 260 feet higher than California's Mt. Whitney.

Tax Preparers Deceived Clients, Sold Data–FTC

Washington (AP) — The federal Trade Commission Wednesday accused two of the nation's largest income tax return preparers. H & R Block and Beneficial Corp., of using confidential information for their own purposes or selling it for mailing lists.

Proposed complaints alleging deceptive trade practices by the two firms were announced at a news briefing at FTC headquarters.

The proposed complaints also allege false advertising in connection with claims the firms would make good on penalties caused by their employes' errors in preparation.

A spokesman for the commission said the investigation resulting in the proposed complaints stemmed from a Boston Globe article sent to the commission by a consumer.

Investment First

Luxembourg (AP) — The European Investment Bank made its first investment in African tourism by lending $1.44 million to help build a seaside hotel in Dakar, Senegal, bank officials said.

Nixon May 'Jawbone' Top Steel Negotiators

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon Wednesday summoned management and labor negotiators from the steel industry to the White House next Tuesday, apparently in an effort to "jawbone" against an inflationary wage increase.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who announced the meeting, said it would be the first time the President had met simultaneously with both management and labor representatives engaged in nationwide contract negotiations.

Ziegler said the President would discuss with the management and labor representatives "general economic developments and trends in the world markets for steel."

Although Ziegler declined to be more specific, he appeared to be referring to earlier suggestions from the White House that steel import quotas would be relaxed if either prices or wages were to get out of line.

Representatives of the United Steel Workers Union and the nation's major steel companies are scheduled to resume bargaining for a new contract Tuesday, following their meeting with the President. The negotiators met about a month ago to make formal presentations of their opening positions, but engaged in no give-and-take at that time.

Administration sources have said privately that they would prefer a steel strike to an inflationary wage increase.

By injecting himself directly into the steel wage negotiations, the President took his longest step so far toward the "jawboning" policies of his Democratic predecessors, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

However, the action fit into Nixon's earlier pattern of concentrating on government actions which affect prices or wages — in his case the import quotas.

Dignity Important

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Belgrade district court, concerned with its dignity, ruled that female employes will not wear hot pants or miniskirts and that judges will wear ties and jackets on the bench.

Hoover gave Nixon — who was once turned down for a job in the FBI — a pair of cufflinks with the seal of the FBI Academy. He gave Mitchell a gold badge, saying, "From this time on, we will view you as a special agent of the FBI."

Both the President and the attorney general cited crime statistics released by the FBI Wednesday. The statistics said that the rate of increase of serious crime for the first three months of this year was 6%, the lowest increase in five years.

According to the uniform crime report, 61 major cities with populations of 100,000 or more showed a decrease in the total number of crimes for January, February and March. However, during that period, violent crimes increased 13%, against an increase of 12% in the like period last year.

Students of crime statistics have noted that the FBI's figures are subject to important qualifications. For example, the figures are compiled from local police reports and are dependent on the accuracy of the local police. In addition, experts argue that certain crimes — particularly those committed in the slums tend to be less well-reported than others.

Nixon cited the statistics "to tell you today is a good day for law enforcement."

Bank Of China Plans To Open Branch Office

Hong Kong (AP) — The Bank of China, Communist China's biggest state-owned bank, will open its first branch in Hong Kong since the Communists conquered mainland China 21 years ago.

The bank has a head office here but, unlike other state-owned Communist Chinese banks, has not established any branch offices in Hong Kong.

Ocean Peak Found

Moscow (AP) — Scientists aboard the Soviet vessel Dmitry Mendeleyev have discoverel an undersea mountain that rises almost 14,760 feet above the equatorial Pacific Ocean floor north of the Raratonga atoll, the official news agency Tass reported. That's 260 feet higher than California's Mt. Whitney.

Tax Preparers Deceived Clients, Sold Data–FTC

Washington (AP) — The federal Trade Commission Wednesday accused two of the nation's largest income tax return preparers. H & R Block and Beneficial Corp., of using confidential information for their own purposes or selling it for mailing lists.

Proposed complaints alleging deceptive trade practices by the two firms were announced at a news briefing at FTC headquarters.

The proposed complaints also allege false advertising in connection with claims the firms would make good on penalties caused by their employes' errors in preparation.

A spokesman for the commission said the investigation resulting in the proposed complaints stemmed from a Boston Globe article sent to the commission by a consumer.

Investment First

Luxembourg (AP) — The European Investment Bank made its first investment in African tourism by lending $1.44 million to help build a seaside hotel in Dakar, Senegal, bank officials said.

Nixon May 'Jawbone' Top Steel Negotiators

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon Wednesday summoned management and labor negotiators from the steel industry to the White House next Tuesday, apparently in an effort to "jawbone" against an inflationary wage increase.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who announced the meeting, said it would be the first time the President had met simultaneously with both management and labor representatives engaged in nationwide contract negotiations.

Ziegler said the President would discuss with the management and labor representatives "general economic developments and trends in the world markets for steel."

Although Ziegler declined to be more specific, he appeared to be referring to earlier suggestions from the White House that steel import quotas would be relaxed if either prices or wages were to get out of line.

Representatives of the United Steel Workers Union and the nation's major steel companies are scheduled to resume bargaining for a new contract Tuesday, following their meeting with the President. The negotiators met about a month ago to make formal presentations of their opening positions, but engaged in no give-and-take at that time.

Administration sources have said privately that they would prefer a steel strike to an inflationary wage increase.

By injecting himself directly into the steel wage negotiations, the President took his longest step so far toward the "jawboning" policies of his Democratic predecessors, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

However, the action fit into Nixon's earlier pattern of concentrating on government actions which affect prices or wages — in his case the import quotas.

Dignity Important

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Belgrade district court, concerned with its dignity, ruled that female employes will not wear hot pants or miniskirts and that judges will wear ties and jackets on the bench.

Summer has come to Ireland. Bombs going off in northern Belfast. But here in the south there's warm green sweetness in the fields, splashed with wild fuschia.

The Shannon tour buses take you through narrow back roads, between hedges of thorn and gray stone fences. Through little villages, and over hills where you can see the shining Shannon estuary, and gray castle ruins rise from strong points of the land.

So into Limerick town. From where we get the name of the five-line verses like:

"There was a young man from Nantucket."

☆ ☆ ☆

I fell out of the tour bus and into Bryan Green's pub to give the Irish coffee a vote of confidence.

In hundreds of years of fighting Danes and Normans and the English (and each other), the Irish developed heroes whose names are still hurled at one another by political foes.

Charles Stewart Parnell stands in stone at the top of O'Connell street in Dublin. His freedom speech engraved. His heroic arm outflung. ("Pointing the way to Mooney's pub," say the irreverent Dubliners.)

☆ ☆ ☆

There are monuments to the Rising of '98 and the battle of Vinegar Hill. But no place has more historic background than Limerick—"The City of the Broken Treaty."

The barman said: "You'll find the Treaty Stone at the end of the bridge. Wait for the rain to stop. It's terrible weather we're having."

☆ ☆ ☆

The great Irish Captain Patrick Sarsfield defended Limerick against King William, the winner at the Battle of the Boyne. (That was 1690. Some of the aftermath is what the bombs in Belfast are all about.)

The siege was a standoff. At last a treaty was signed on the Treaty Stone: The Irish garrison to march out with full honors; religious freedom for Catholics of Ireland.

William himself ratified it. But the English Parliament turned it down. Hence "The City of the Broken Treaty". And half a million Irish soldiers left to take service with the French. "The Flight of the Wild Geese" they called it.

The Irish wore a wild goose patch and revenged themselves when they beat the English fearful at Fontenoy.

☆ ☆ ☆

I walked around Limerick in the soft rain. There are pieces of the old town walls—though most of them went into the quays along the Shannon.

It was Dansh settlement around 800. The Viking ships sailed up the Shannon. They used Limerick as a base to plunder the surrounding country.

ed Limrick as a bse to plunder the surrounding country.

Brian Boru drove the Danes out a couple of hundred years later.

The Norman-English seized it during their invasion. But Limeric evenutally was controlled by the O'Briens. The famous family walked English-Irish political tightropes so successfully that branches of the tribe are still squabbling today over what remains.

☆ ☆ ☆

We drove across County Clare to the Cliffs of Moher. It's a wild, bleak drop to the Atlantic. Thousands of nesting sea birds rise from the ledges, screaming like maniacs.

There's a great gray round tower on the point. It looks a thousand years old. But no.

"It was built by Cornelius O'Brien about 1830," said the pubnman. 'One of those O'Briens. He was a member of the English Parliament.

" 'I've a mind to build a grand monument,' says Corney O'Brien. Or, 'It'd be a grand thing to restore the church' says Corney. By popular subscription," said the pub man. "He was the landlord and they the tenants. So what could they do?

"They say Corney O'Brien built a monument to himself. In the Cliffs of Moher. Finally he built a monument to hihself. In honor of his good works."

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Nebraska's hottest days will soon be upon us. Heat prostration occurs in two types and must be recognized.

In case of heat exhaustion, there is weakness, headache and nausea, and sometimes cramps in the stomach or legs. The pulse is rapid and weak and the skin is pale and clammy. The temperature is normal.

Heat exhaustion sometimes occurs while one is playing golf or tennis or working hard in the hot sun. To help such a victim move him to a cool place, but protect from chilling. Do not give alcohol in any form.

In cases of heat stroke, the victim often loses consciousness. The skin is flushed and hot, and the pulse is rapid and strong.

If the victim is conscious, give him salt water to drink. Cool the body by sponging with cold water.

In both types of heat prostration, a physician should be called immediately.

Personal Toil Increases Property Value, Taxes

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "When I retired three years ago we bought a badly rundown house for $14,000. It was appraised at half that and taxes were agreeably low. We did all our own work — putting in new floors, new plaster, new roof, bathroom, kitchen, and siding. We really felt proud of ourselves. Then last month a city inspector came by and yesterday we got a notice saying they'd upped the appraisal on the house and that our taxes were being tripled! We called city hall and told them we'd done all that work ourselves. But they said the house is worth more now and when a house increases in value so must the taxes. We're furious. Does this seem fair?"

Answer: — No, but that's the way it works. Folks who put a lot of personal toil into their homes rightly feel they should be rewarded for improving a neighborhood instead of penalized by higher taxes. But tax appraisals are based on what a house is worth, regardless of who did the chores. Take pleasure in the work you've done, and comfort in the fact that if and when you decide to sell you'll probably get back more than enough to offset the advance in taxes.

Question: — "I've just read another silly yarn about rugged elders — the one about that Alaskan grandma, 80, who was skinning a moose and puffing a cigar as she rattled to reporters about getting her pep from hunting, trapping, and a diet of caribou steak. Stories of this kind not only bore me but make us tenderfoots in the city with our aches and allergies feel like a bunch of anemones. What do you say?"

Answer: — I fear you're in for more of the same. News reporters have discovered that adventurous, colorful elders make good copy — particularly those who combine eccentricities with physical and mental vigor. Take a cue from these geriatric specimens and start injecting more adventure and activity into your life. The exercise and fresh air gained via regular trots in the park can do wonders in chasing the creaks and ills of advancing years.

Question: — "Don't you think the government has a responsibility for supporting people when they get old?"

Answer: — No. Everyone should feel a personal responsibility in providing for his own support. If everyone felt this to a keener degree we'd find more people working and saving their money for retirement needs. Of course when people fail to stash away sufficient sheckels to provide for their old age, the government must step in and help them via welfare or old age assistance grants.

Question: — "My wife and I are in our early 40s and want to start putting aside something for retirement. How much should we be saving?"

Answer: — People should start saving for retirement the minute they start working. By the time they're 40 they should have a home partly paid for and a few thousand in the bank. From now on, try to set aside 10% of your net income for retirement, and diversify these funds between (a) savings and (b) blue-chip growth stocks.

Annual Gering Celebration Set

Gering (UPI) — The golden anniversary Oregon Trail Days celebration will be held here July 15-16.

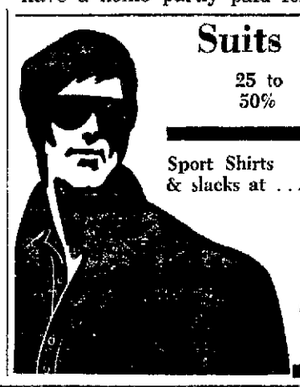

A special gathering of old settlers who have lived in the area since 1930 will be one of the highlights. Fourteen bands are expected to take part in two parades.

Four Music Groups To Participate In Final 1971 All-State Concert

Four music groups will take part in the final public concert of the 1971 All-State High School Course Thursday evening in the Sheldon Sculpture Garden at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Before and after the concert, those attending are welcome to view a special art exhibition in the Garden featuring representative work by All-State art majors, according to Keith Jacobshagen, assistant professor of art at NU.

The concert, which begins at 7:30 p.m., will feature selections by the All-State Orchestra, All-State Chorus and All-State Band with the final number featuring All-State personnel and alumni.

Answer: — No, but that's the way it works. Folks who put a lot of personal toil into their homes rightly feel they should be rewarded for improving a neighborhood instead of penalized by higher taxes. But tax appraisals are based on what a house is worth, regardless of who did the chores. Take pleasure in the work you've done, and comfort in the fact that if and when you decide to sell you'll probably get back more than enough to offset the advance in taxes.

Question: — "I've just read another silly yarn about rugged elders — the one about that Alaskan grandma, 80, who was skinning a moose and puffing a cigar as she rattled to reporters about getting her pep from hunting, trapping, and a diet of caribou steak. Stories of this kind not only bore me but make us tenderfoots in the city with our aches and allergies feel like a bunch of anemones. What do you say?"

Answer: — I fear you're in for more of the same. News reporters have discovered that adventurous, colorful elders make good copy — particularly those who combine eccentricities with physical and mental vigor. Take a cue from these geriatric specimens and start injecting more adventure and activity into your life. The exercise and fresh air gained via regular trots in the park can do wonders in chasing the creaks and ills of advancing years.

Question: — "Don't you think the government has a responsibility for supporting people when they get old?"

Answer: — No. Everyone should feel a personal responsibility in providing for his own support. If everyone felt this to a keener degree we'd find more people working and saving their money for retirement needs. Of course when people fail to stash away sufficient sheckels to provide for their old age, the government must step in and help them via welfare or old age assistance grants.

Question: — "My wife and I are in our early 40s and want to start putting aside something for retirement. How much should we be saving?"

Answer: — People should start saving for retirement the minute they start working. By the time they're 40 they should have a home partly paid for and a few thousand in the bank. From now on, try to set aside 10% of your net income for retirement, and diversify these funds between (a) savings and (b) blue-chip growth stocks.

Thone Urges Examination Of Patriotism

Nebraska 1st District Congressman Charles Thone Wednesday urged older Americans to "re-examine our patiotism" as a step toward closing the generation gap.

"We aren't best serving our country by accepting without question anything an everything that becomes national policy," he said. "Nor can we be true patriots if we take the attitude that governmental policies are the responsibility only of our elected officials."

The comments were made in Thone's weekly newsletter to his constituents that he devoted to the upcoming July 4, Independence Day observance.

The Republican Congressman said that while he does not approve of the "few violent radicals" among the young people, he is saddened by the "growing number" of young Americans who have "dropped out as far as our government is concerned."

He said the country "badly needs a new birth of patriotism" that will bring young and old alike together to work for the betterment of the nation within the channels of the two major political parties.

The U.S. form of government, Thone said, is the "best system yet devised" for orderly change and provides a place for minority viewpoints that often become the viewpoints of the majority.

He said it is because of the form of the government that Americans should be patriotic and love their country.

"We don't need a rebirth of the kind of patriotism that believes that everything our country has ever done, or will do, is perfect." Thone said. "We need a new birth of patriotism that will inspire people of all ages to be grateful for a governmental system that allows each to play a part."

LES Asks Budget Of $17.4 Million

The Lincoln Electric System Administrative Board Wednesday recommended approval of a $17,441,094 budget appropriation for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

The requested appropriation was revised at the meeting to include money to help eliminate air pollution at the K St. plant.

Board member Nicolas Bashara made a strong recommendation to include funds to eliminate pollutants in smoke caused by burning coal

$75,000 Improvement

The board agreed to list as a contingency capital improvements item $75,000 for an oil storage tank to provide the plant with additional capacity for holding fuel oil

Some felt the item should be listed as an air pollution control measure so that the public can decide whether or not it wants to spend additional moneys to control the pollutants

Bashara said the air pollution control measure is especially important since the city will take over ownership of the K St. plant next January.

The plant normally would use natural gas but must rely on backup fuels whenever necessary

LES Manager James Ekstrand questioned the extent that fuel oil might be needed in quantities sufficient to justify the expenditures for massive oil storage

Within Ordinance

Dale Renner, special assistant to the board, said that the use of fuel oil would fall within the ordinance requirements for air pollution control

The proposed budget includes $30,000 for an administrator, plus 10% of this amount for overhead. The board is interested in hiring an administrator responsible to the board for the administration of the electric utility.

The electric system expects to purchase slightly more than 1 billion kilowatt hours during the next fiscal year, an increase of 10.2% over the present fiscal year The cost estimated at 9 mills per kilowatt hour or $9,730,000 as compared to $7,866,500 for the present fiscal year

Congress Sends Nixon Record $5.14 Billion School Bill

Washington (AP)—Congress sent to President Nixon Wednesday an all-time record $5.14 billion education money bill.

The House passed the compromise version of the measure 317-16 and the Senate followed suit soon thereafter 75-5.

The final total in the bill was $393 million above Nixon's request but sponsors said they believed the President would sign it.

Even thought the bill contained the largest appropriation ever voted for federal education aid, some legislators insisted it was not enough

Less Than 50%

They pointed out the total was much less than 50% of the sums authorized by Congress for the various school programs.

In the Senate, there was particular objection to the refusal of the House to accept $60 million included in the Senate for aid to cities to help with schools overcrowded because of children from low-income public housing projects.

Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., voted against it for this reason.

Compromise Shown

Funds provided in the measure are for use during the fiscal year starting Thursday. They represent a compromise between the $4.8 billion voted previously by the House and the $5.6 billion voted by the Senate.

Meanwhile the Senate education subcommittee approved a massive program of aid to college students and to colleges and universities confronted with sharply rising costs.

The full decisions of the panel were not priced out immediately but estimates were the five-year cost of the support would be about $20 billion.

The recommendations in the bill, chiefly sponsored by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., the subcommittee chairman, go far beyond the proposals of President Nixon for higher education.

Sign Photographs Planned By Urban Design Committee

The Mayors Urban Design Committee decided Wednesday night to photograph block long areas throughout the city in order to give members a better idea of how Lincoln would be affected by a new or amended sign ordinance

Chairman of the committee, Larry Enerson, said, "the photographs would "bring us down to the reality of the conditions that exist and might exist

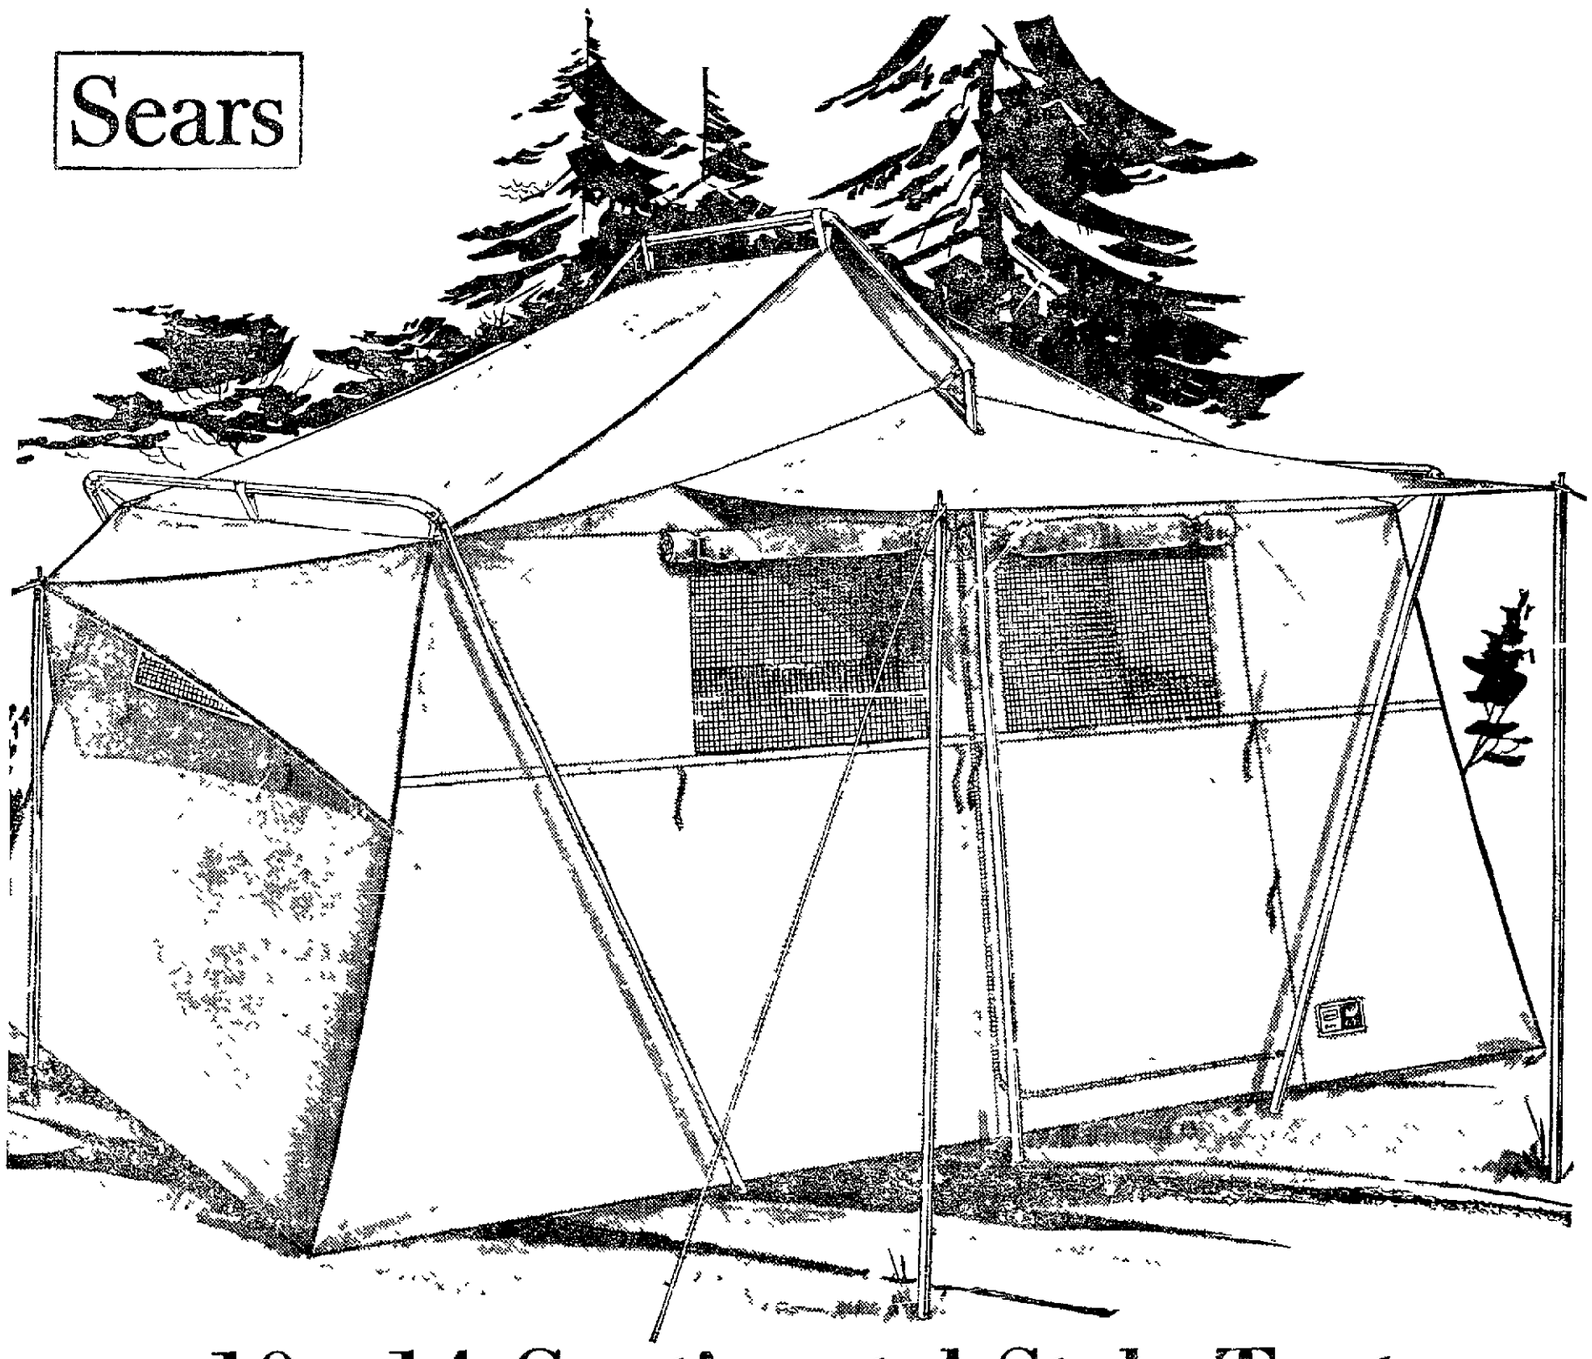

The different types of districts to be photographed are planned commercial districts, local business districts, highway business districts, highway commercial districts, commercial districts, business districts and light industrial districts

The codes which relate to the structure and location of signs in the residential areas are alright, Enerson said and added that possibly the size of the signs in the commercial areas would be related to the street frontage.

Discussion of the parking lot proposal scheduled for Wednesday night was deferred until committee member Douglas Brogden and Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf could be present

LES Asks Budget Of $17.4 Million

The Lincoln Electric System Administrative Board Wednesday recommended approval of a $17,441,094 budget appropriation for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

The requested appropriation was revised at the meeting to include money to help eliminate air pollution at the K St. plant.

Board member Nicolas Bashara made a strong recommendation to include funds to eliminate pollutants in smoke caused by burning coal.

$75,000 Improvement

The board agreed to list as a contingency capital improvements item $75,000 for an oil storage tank to provide the plant with additional capacity for holding fuel oil.

Some felt the item should be listed as an air pollution control measure so that the public can decide whether or not it wants to spend additional moneys to control the pollutants.

Bashara said the air pollution control measure is especially important since the city will take over ownership of the K St. plant next January.

The plant normally would use natural gas but must rely on backup fuels whenever necessary.

LES Manager James Ekstrand questioned the extent that fuel oil might be needed in quantities sufficient to justify the expenditures for massive oil storage.

Within Ordinance

Dale Renner, special assistant to the board, said that the use of fuel oil would fall within the ordinance requirements for air pollution control.

The proposed budget includes $30,000 for an administrator, plus 10% of this amount for overhead. The board is interested in hiring an administrator responsible to the board for the administration of the electric utility.

The electric system expects to purchase slightly more than 1 billion kilowatt hours during the next fiscal year, an increase of 10.2% over the present fiscal year. The cost estimated at 9 mills per kilowatt hour, or $9,730,000 as compared to $7,866,500 for the present fiscal year.

Grants For Indian Tribes Announced

Congressman Charles Thone Wednesday announced $416,228 in federal grants for Indian tribes in Nebraska.

The grants from the Bureau of Indian affairs will help fund employment, housing, education, work training and law enforcement programs.

"These six grants will no doubt help these people," Thone said.

"But other substantial efforts are necessary, and I will do all I can to be of meaningful help."

The grants:

—$32,392 for the Omaha Tribe of Macy, Thurston County, for employment assistance programs.

—$63,000 for the Omaha Tribe of Nebraska for housing improvement programs.

—$97,450 for the Omaha Tribe of Nebraska for scholarship and boarding school processing to provide encouragement and opportunities through a higher education scholarship grants progra mto deserving and capable Indian students.

—$110,000 for the Omaha Tribe of Nebraska for judicial and law enforcement programs.

—$100,000 for the Omaha Tribe at Macy to provide a tribal work experience and training program at the Omaha reservation for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

—$13,386 for the Nebraska Indian Inter-Tribal Development Corporation at Winnebago for training and employment projects to provide clerk-typist services on a work experience basis for the social services branch at the Winnebago Agency for the coming fiscal year.

State Appeals Eminent Domain Ruling

The State Department of Roads Wednesday appealed to the Nebraska Supreme Court to overturn a Dakota County District Court decision in an eminent domain case involving land west of South Sioux City.

A jury trial had resulted in an award of $27,017 to Raymond and Darlene Kilberg, owners of a plot of land and purchasers on contract on another 10-acre plot from Philip and Emma Verzani.

The roads department began condemnation proceedings in August, 1969 to use the land for relocating U.S. Highway 20.

The Kilbergs owned a section of land adjoining the 10-acre plot which was owned by the Verzanis. However, the Kilbergs were in the process of purchasing the Verzani land when condemnation began and the district court took the position that unity existed between the two plots and that severance damage could be considered for the land owned by Kilbergs.

The unity ruling by the district court is one of the main points of the case with which the state disagrees, the state taking the position that no such unity existed.

The State Justice Department, on behalf of the roads department, Wednesday asked the supreme court for a new trial.

Municipalities Are Offered Aid On Ordinance

A spokesman said Wednesday Nebraska cities and towns planning to adopt their own anti-discrimination ordinances are encouraged to consult with the State Equal Opportunity Commission.

Commission Director Reid Devoe said so far none of Nebraska's municipalities have contacted his office seeking help in drafting ordinances.

"We certainly support the law," he said, "and we'll encourage and help the municipalities as much as we can."

The 1971 Legislature gave municipalities the authority to adopt their own laws, which would work in conjunction with existing state laws administered by the commission.

The measure was sponsored by the Legislature's only Negro member, Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha.

Specifically, the law allows local government to adopt ordinances relating to discrimination in public accomodations and employment and set penalties.

Dairy Advisory Unit Prepares For Changes

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's Dairy Advisory Board held a reorganizational and planning meeting Wednesday to cope with the changes in the dairy pricing law.

Board action consisted of setting three hearing dates to provide an opportunity for dairy processors to present information and requests for action before the board.

July 14 and 15 were selected to examine the present system of four natural marketing areas, August 11 and 12 to bring up to date the minimum price data collected last year and Sept. 15 and 16 to set minimum prices for ice cream products.

The present marketing area arrangement has four regions, however Roberts Dairy has requested a hearing to present a request that Omaha and Lincoln be put into separate areas. A request has also been submitted by Gillette Dairy of Norfolk for consideration of changes in the present marketing area arrangement.

W. C. McCubbin, head of the dairy division of the State Department of Agriculture indicated he would probably testify against adding more marketing areas, "Everytime we add an extra area we have more boundaries to police," he said.

McCubbin expressed a preference for two marketing areas established on the present boundries of the federal milk marketing areas.

This year's hearings are expected to produce data much more rapidly than last year's hearings because of the experience of the board and because last year's data is still available. The job of the board has been reduced by the Legislature to establishing a miniumu basic cost rather than setting wholesale and retail prices.

Clouding the issue is the possibility of a new suit by processors opposing the law or possibly by consumer groups.

An injunction against enforcing the law as it stood before the amendment added by the 1971 Legislature is still in force. Presumably this does not apply to the amended law however a firm legal opinion on the subject has not yet been presented to the board.

Crime In Lincoln, Omaha Shows Dip

While the national crime index increased 6% during the first three months of 1971, Nebraska's two largest cities — Lincoln and Omaha — showed decided drops in major crimes, the FBI reported Wednesday.

Lincoln Police Chief Joe Carroll attributed the decrease in the city to "the storms this spring."

"Snow and bad weather curtails criminal activity," Carroll said. "We would like to credit the drop to police efficiency entirely, but the weather had a lot to do with it."

The comparative figures, released by the FBI, (listing 1970 first and 1971 second) were:

Lincoln — forcible rape, 3 and 6; robbery, 12 and 4; aggravated assault, 57 and 41; burglary, breaking and entering, 140 and 159; larceny $50 and over, 340 and 271; and auto theft, 77 and 40.

Omaha — murder, non-negligent manslaughter, 7 and 4; forcible rape, 17 and 22; robbery, 163 and 104; aggravated assault, 244 and 89; burglary, breaking and entering 849 and 723; larceny, $50 and over, 710 and 698; and auto theft, 750 and 584.

Counties Haven't Petitioned To Join With College System

By The Associated Press

State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley said Wednesday that no counties in the state have as yet petitioned the State Board of Education for permission to hold an election relative to LB759, the community college bill passed by the 1971 Legislature.

"We're kind of sitting here waiting for them," he said. "There's been some talk but as of now, we haven't heard from any of the counties."

The bill creates eight community colleges areas, at the same time incorporating present junior colleges and vocational-technical schools into the system.

Under terms of the bill, county commissioners must petition the State Board of Education for permission to hold an election to decide whether a particular college wants to join the system.

Should counties not be in the system by 1973, according to the bill, they will be placed in one of the eight areas by the legislature.

"We're under no obligation to force the counties to do anything, in my opinion," said Stanley. "So we're going to wait for them to come to us."

A Justice Department opinion has cast doubt on the bill's constitutionality, contending it might be unfair legislation since existing schools and their assets would be incorporated into the system, meaning those persons in areas with schools would be unfairly deprived of use of their tax money."

Stanley said he has not seen the opinion but he explained he intends to consult with Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher "to see where we stand."

"Right now," he said, "I don't know of any lawsuits pending against the bill."

"However, I can see some problems. For example, the junior college at Norfolk is under the school district up there and according to LB759, it would simply become the school for about a 10-county area, meaning the people in those other counties would get the benefits of a college without having had to pay for them."

Pediatricians In Capital City Unchanged Despite Growth

The number of pediatricians practicing in Lincoln is about the same now as it was 13 years ago, according to Dr. Dale Ebers of Lincoln General Hospital.

The lack of pediatricians, is spite of a county population increase of almost 12,000 since 1960 was discussed after the Lincoln General Board approved appointment of two staff members — on of them a pediatrician — at the board's meeting Wednesday.

Ebers said the appointment of Dr. Lawrence Bausch to the pediatrics staff at Lincoln General brings the number of Lincoln pediatricians to 12.

The board also approved appointment of Dr. Andris Matisons to the Lincoln General staff. Matisons is an orthopedic surgeon.

The board also okayed at the meeting a rate schedule for the new Chemical Dependency Treatment and Rehabilitation Unit. Fees for the 21-day program will be $32 a day for maintenance and $10 for counseling.

Lincolnite Suffers Fractured Ribs In Auto Mishap

Dean Minchow, 25, of 3422 N was hospitalized with fractured ribs at Bryan Memorial Hospital following a two-car accident early Wednesday morning at 33rd and Randolph, police said.

Minchow was a passenger in a car driven by Thomas V. Heckman, 25, of 285 Washington, according to police.

The Heckman vehicle was north bound on 33rd when it was in collision with a car driven by Millard L. Weller, 45, of 3045 O, which was west bound on Randolph, police said.

Omaha Girl, 18, Said Satisfactory After Transplant

Omaha (AP)—Jo Ann Kotan, 18, Omaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kotan, was in satisfactory condition after undergoing a kidney transplant.

She received a kidney donated by her brother, Richard, 22, a machinist mate third class in the Navy. He also was in satisfactory condition.

Kotan, assigned to a nuclear submarine, the James Madison, with a home port of Charleston, S.C., has been temporarily attached to the Omaha Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training.

Kotan's assignment was switched by the Navy so he could serve as donor.

Treasure City Addition Plan Is Confirmed

Construction of an addition to the Treasure City store at 4200 So. 27th, which will house five specialty stores and a supermarket, was confirmed by a spokesman for George Cook Construction Co. Wednesday.

A building permit for the shopping center was taken out Wednesday by Nebraska Associates Inc., an organization consisting of two New York firms, in the amount of $368,000.

The spokesman for the construction firm, which will build the expansion project adjacent to the north end of the store, said that Mr. B's IGA will be a principal tenant. He said the store hopes to be open in October.

Plans also call for a beauty-shop and gift store in the shopping center.

The grocery store will occupy 17,000 square feet in the 28,000 sq. ft. addition.

Prison Escapee Is Apprehended In Des Moines

Nebraska prison officials reported Wednesday an inmate who walked away from the Lincoln Veterans Hospital last week has been arrested and is being held by police at Des Moines, Iowa.

On June 24, Tommy Lee McCrainie, 23, walked away from the hospital where he was being treated. Officials said he was taken there May 17 for medical care.

He was serving a two-year sentence from a Scotts Bluff County District Court conviction for possessing a forged instrument and larceny as a bailee.

Warden Maurice Sigler said he had not been notified as of Wednesday evening that McCrainie had been apprehended. Sigler said they would probably return McCrainie to the complex Thursday if there were no charges filed against him in Iowa.

DAIRY STAYS OPEN

A dog nursing a cat is strange, but equally puzzling is the fact that this canine mother hasn't had puppies for two summers and in the meantime two cats have found her dairy open. The pooch, called "Jetsy" by her owners, the Robert Wilders of rural Mankato, Minn., is a 5-year-old dachshund and terrier mix.

Corridor Study Urged By Chamber Resolution

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Board Wednesday passed a resolution citing the urgent need for a prompt study of a freeway corridor between Lincoln-Fremont and Fremont-Sioux City.

The freeway corridor recommendation will be sent to Gov. J. James Exon and the State Highway Commission.

The board also passed a substitute resolution to establish a committee to find out if the chamber can help city-county government officials with any future reorganization study or analysis.

A chamber spokesman explained that the Lincoln chamber's streets and highway committee has formed an ad hoc committee with the Fremont Chamber of Commerce's counterpart.

The ad hoc committee agreed at its initial session on the importance of seeking improvements along the U.S. 77 corridor, the spokesman said.

The city-county study resolution was introduced as a request from the executive committee for substitution of an original resolution adopted in April.

The original resolution would have had an ad hoc chamber committee study city-county government in terms of efficient effectiveness.

It was reported at the meeting that the Lincoln chamber has called a meeting of chamber representatives throughout the state on July 16 to review Nebraska's stake as a candidate for one of the National Aeronautic and Space Administration's shuttle sites.

Oakland To Honor Varners

University of Nebraska Chancellor and Mrs. D. B. Varner will be honored next week during dedication of a $4.8 million performing arts building on the Oakland University campus in Rochester, Mich.

The structure will be named "Paula and Woody Varner Hall."

Varner was chancellor of Oakland University from its establishment in 1957 until he came to the University of Nebraska in 1970.

Dedication of the building will be held Friday evening and festivities will include a concert by singer Ella Fitzgerald.

The Varners also will be special guests at a Thursday evening dinner and a Meadow Brook festival concert featuring the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

In its resolution to name the new structure, the Michigan Board of Trustees said Mr. and Mrs. Varner "had a deep commitment to the establishment of a performing arts program at Oakland University.

"Under their guidance, the university became internationally known with the establishment of the Meadow Brook festival, the Meadow Brook theatre and the academy of dramatic art. In addition, the other performing arts programs of the university were also given their support.

"In order to further develop the performing arts programs at Oakland University, Woody Varner, recognizing the need for a separate facility, obtained the generous support of the legislature for the construction of a performing arts building. Therefore, in recognition of their efforts, be it resolved that this structure shall be designated the Paula and Woody Varner Hall."

Keezer Survives Six-Story Fall

Fremont (AP) — Charles Keezer, 27, of Wood River was listed in satisfactory condition with injuries suffered Wednesday when he fell six stories from a building under construction.

Attendants said Keezer was treated for an ankle fracture and back injuries.

Keezer was working on a high rise building for the elderly, under construction just east of the Dodge County Community Hospital, where he was taken for treatment.

Meyer Reports State's Officers Entitled To Pay

Nebraska's constitutional officers are entitled to be paid even if the Legislature doesn't appropriate money for their salaries, according to Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer.

The question arose when it was discovered that appropriations to pay salaries of the state supreme court judges for June, the final month of the 1969-71 bienium, were short.

In a letter to Administrative Services Director Gus Lieske, Dep. Atty. Gen. Gerald Vitamvas said, the constitution "imposes upon you the duty to draw the necessary warrants for the payment of the supreme court judges for June, notwithstanding the fact that the legislature appropriation may be somewhat deficient."

According to the department of Administrative Services, the money involved is about $240. The problem arose when Judge Edward Carter's retirement required Social Security payments to be made for two judges, himself and his successor.

NU Announces Plans For Irrigation Expansion, Pollution Control Programs

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

Chancellor D. B. Varner has announced plans for an attack on two major problems facing Nebraska agriculturalists — expansion of irrigation and control of pollution.

At a Wednesday press conference, Varner announced the appointment of Dr. Howard W. Ottoson as his special assistant in charge of the university's anti-pollution efforts.

Dr. Leslie F. Sheffield, superintendent of the NU North Platte Station, will be appointed director of a planned $80,000 irrigation development program.

One-Year Leave

Ottoson, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, will take a one-year leave of absence from that position to develop plans for dealing with feedlot, pesticide, herbicide and chemical fertilizer pollution.

One of Ottoson's specific responsibilities will be to develop a proposal for the creation of an NU Center for Environmental Studies, or a similar agency that would work in cooperation with federal, state and local agencies.

Ottoson's activities and salary will be financed with $40,000 from a $313,000 fund appropriated by the 1971 Legislature for use at the NU Board of Regents' discretion.

In addition to specific duties related to environmental quality, Chancellor Varner has directed Ottoson to conduct a continuing study throughout the year of university's efforts in the field of water resources, and university research, teaching and extension efforts in that area.

As director of the irrigation development program, Dr. Sheffield will be charged with expediting work across the state in helping farmers and ranchers develop Nebraska's irrigation potential.

Staff Approved

Sheffield, who recently completed a doctoral dissertation on irrigation development in seven southeast Nebraska counties, will be assisted by three full-time extension personnel.

The extension of irrigation is being made a university objective because of its potential for furthering the state's economic growth, Varner said.

Dr. E. F. Frolik, dean of the college of agriculture, said studies have indicated that an acre of land brought under irrigation has an annual economic impact of $302 on the state's economy, with $45 of that being actual profit for the individual farmer.

Funds for the irrigation project will also come out of the regents' discretionary fund. The appointments are subject to approval by the regents, which is expected to be routine.

Varner said the board of regents would also be requested at its July meeting to approve the allocation of $30,000 for the Nebraska Water Resources Institute to permit the initiation of a research project for ground water recharge in the York, Seward, Clay and Fillmore County area.

Dietition Appointed

Mary Multry, former assistant chief dietitian at the Omaha Veterans Hospital, has been appointed chief dietitian at the Lincoln Veterans Hospital, according to Dr. J. Melvin Boykin, hospital director.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

NU Announces Plans For Irrigation Expansion, Pollution Control Programs

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

Chancellor D. B. Varner has announced plans for an attack on two major problems facing Nebraska agriculturalists — expansion of irrigation and control of pollution.

At a Wednesday press conference, Varner announced the appointment of Dr. Howard W. Ottoson as his special assistant in charge of the university's anti-pollution efforts.

Dr. Leslie F. Sheffield, superintendent of the NU North Platte Station, will be appointed director of a planned $80,000 irrigation development program.

One-Year Leave

Ottoson, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, will take a one-year leave of absence from that position to develop plans for dealing with feedlot, pesticide, herbicide and chemical fertilizer pollution.

One of Ottoson's specific responsibilities will be to develop a proposal for the creation of an NU Center for Environmental Studies, or a similar agency that would work in cooperation with federal, state and local agencies.

Ottoson's activities and salary will be financed with $40,000 from a $313,000 fund appropriated by the 1971 Legislature for use at the NU Board of Regents' discretion.

In addition to specific duties related to environmental quality, Chancellor Varner has directed Ottoson to conduct a continuing study throughout the year of university's efforts in the field of water resources, and university research, teaching and extension efforts in that area.

As director of the irrigation development program, Dr. Sheffield will be charged with expediting work across the state in helping farmers and ranchers develop Nebraska's irrigation potential.

Staff Approved

Sheffield, who recently completed a doctoral dissertation on irrigation development in seven southeast Nebraska counties, will be assisted by three full-time extension personnel.

The extension of irrigation is being made a university objective because of its potential for furthering the state's economic growth, Varner said.

Dr. E. F. Frolik, dean of the college of agriculture, said studies have indicated that an acre of land brought under irrigation has an annual economic impact of $302 on the state's economy, with $45 of that being actual profit for the individual farmer.

Funds for the irrigation project will also come out of the regents' discretionary fund. The appointments are subject to approval by the regents, which is expected to be routine.

Varner said the board of regents would also be requested at its July meeting to approve the allocation of $30,000 for the Nebraska Water Resources Institute to permit the initiation of a research project for ground water recharge in the York, Seward, Clay and Fillmore County area.

Dietition Appointed

Mary Multry, former assistant chief dietitian at the Omaha Veterans Hospital, has been appointed chief dietitian at the Lincoln Veterans Hospital, according to Dr. J. Melvin Boykin, hospital director.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Summer Fishing Different

Early spring fishing always seems the best time to anglers. That's understanding, though, since the fresh air is a stimulant to senses dulled by the long winter months inside.

And the fishing seems better . . . the fish are eager to bite, full of fight, and downright good eating. But the important thing is that they will bite on almost any kind of bait.

Then spring fades and the hot months of summer change the whole concept of fishing. No longer are the fish so eager to please; now the angler has to change his bait and his way of fishing.

Quite often, anglers have to shift their sights to other species of fish and adopt whole new tactics if he desires to be successful.

No longer does the angler try for the trout and bass with as high a degree of success that he had earlier. Now he tries something else . . . catfishing.

The state's many rivers are tailor-made for catfishing, according to game commission giologists. Channel cats will soon end their spawning activities and congregate in the streams' deeper holes where the living is easy as the current's eddies and swirls gather a smorgasbord of natural delicacies and serve them up to the lazy cats.

The wise 'catter' drops his offerings among those of the river and is usually rewarded with a stringer of tasty fish.

Reservoirs A Little Different

But catfish aren't held in the rivers alone. They are also abundant in several of the state reservoirs.

In the reservoirs, they generally feed in the shallows and mud flats at the upper end of the lake, near the inlets of feeder streams, and in the streams themselves.

As far as baits go, a few standard ones include night crawlers, minnows, frogs, crawdads, liver, commercial baits, and even chicken entrails. However, each locality usually has a favorite bait, and these are often quite unusual. In one part of central Nebraska, the old-timers swear by a certain brand of old-fashioned laundry soap.

But despite the bait, anglers after cats can get by with a minimum of tackle . . . a rod, stout line, bait, enough weight to take it to the bottom and keep it there and the proper hook.

Large, single hooks will do the trick most of the time, but anglers using liver or prepared baits will find that a No. 2 or 4 treble hook will hold the bait better . . . and the fish if one snaps it up.

In reservoirs and backwaters, where current is not a factor, less weight should be used. Often, slip sinkers are recommended so the whiskered quarry doesn't feel any drag as he makes off with the easy meal.

Other species can also be caught on this type of bait including the larger bullheads.

Several anglers have also landed heavy bass while fishing for cats. But it is seldom indeed that a bass will be landed on a cat rig.

And on the hot summer day when even moving is an effort, catfishing allows a man time to think and contemplate about the foolish ones who elected to stay in the city instead of heading for a nice comfortable riverbank.

Huge Juvenile Field Leads To Two Divisions

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Two-year-old races are always tough to handicap, but today's split feature has all the ear-marks of being a nightmare to end all nightmares.

Twenty-two of twenty-four nominations were accepted for the running of the Juvenile Stakes today at Ak-Sar-Ben, forcing racing officials to split the field into two divisions — the sixth and seventh on today's card.

Each division carries a purse of $15,000-added and each race has a star-studded field entered.

In the first division, Ken Opstein's Excello, winner of $10,000 so far this year, is top-weighted along with Beau Julian at 122.

Excello's last start was on June 4 during the running of the Freshman Stakes which the bay colt won handily by five lengths over Aye Jay Aye (entered in the second division).

Excello also has posted wins over of the horses entered in the two divisions including Mambrino (third behind Aye Jay Aye in the Stakes).

Mambrino will be running in the second division away from stablemate Excello with Fred Ecoffey slated for the irons at 112 pounds.

But imports seem to have the rule for the second division with Heisanative ruling over the crowd.

Heisanative won the June 12 $15,000-added Hyde Park Stakes at Arlington Park in Chicago and equalled the track record of :57 1-5 over 5 furlongs in that running.

Jockey Dave Whited is being imported along with Heisanative to ride the fleet two-year-old over 5½ furlongs at 122 pounds — one of the four carrying top weight.

Heisanative has won more than $28,000 so far this year for owner T. C. Honig Jr. and holds wins over Bold Who (also carrying 122 pounds in today's seventh)

Gentle Smoke (who was third behind Heisanative at Arlington) and Wee Miracle.

The W. J. Resseguet Jr.-trained Heisanative is coming off of three straight wins for the Juvenile Stakes.

Aye Jay Aye is also top-weighted at 122 and may be the one to clip the win streak of Heisanative.

The brown colt by Disguised out of Nancy Snider has won more than $25,000 this year with five wins and two place finishes out of seven starts for owner Leonard Smith.

Aye Jay Aye beat British Fleet in the Laddie Stakes on June 17, winning by one length. But British Fleet, also carrying 122 in today's feature, defeated Aye Jay Aye on June 24 by 1½ lengths.

SENATORS TO TEXAS?

AL Owners Converge To Consider Move Bid

. . . MINNESOTA CLUB MAY BE FOR SALE

Detroit (AP) — After huddling behind closed doors in a hastily-called meeting, the 12 owners of American League teams announced Wednesday night they will "immediately consider the urgent financial needs of the Washington Senators baseball club by studying all possible solutions."

The day-long meeting was carried out amid rumors that the Washington Senators baseball team was going broke and that it would be moved to Dallas.

Senators' owner Bob Short admitted he was about $175,000 behind in rent for Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in Washington but indicated he wanted to keep his team in that city.

A statement released after the meeting by American League president Joe Cronin and read by al counsel James Garner, authorized Cronin, Short and "such advisors as they may deem appropriate" to research solutions to the ball club's financial woes and to "report the results of such study and make recommendations to the league with reference to an appropriate solution or solutions."

No specific measures were announced.

Cronin called the convocation of some of baseball's biggest guns a "preliminary meeting to a joint meeting with the National League scheduled in August. The resolution adopted by the 12 owners was "the sum and substance of our meeting," Cronin said.

"We talked over many problems and family affairs within the league," he added.

Regarding the financial plight of the Senators, Cronin said. "It wasn't an easy question to resolve and it isn't resolved yet."

Cronin played down the importance of the meeting, telling newsmen, "It's time we had a discussion among the owners . . . we were going to have one in spring training but didn't."

He said of the meeting, "We talked about a number of things. Bob Short hasn't made any application to move. We discussed his financial situation . . . it was an open discussion, nothing formal . . . it was a preliminary to our regular meeting in August with the commissioner."

In a related development, the public relations director of the Minnesota Twins said Wednesday the American League baseball club "will not be sold, under any circumstances."

A Minneapolis sportscaster, Hal Scott of WCCO-TV, reported Tuesday night that the Minnesota team was for sale "if the price is right." Scott added that the "right price," in the view of President Calvin Griffith, "is $11 million."

Fullmer Begins Battles Outside Of Boxing Ring

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Gene Fullmer has ended his ring battles, but has just started his fight against crime and helping the Golden Gloves program.

"There's no place for kids to fight anymore," says the former world middleweight champion, "Kids just don't want to pay the price to stay in shape."

GENE FULLMER

In Lincoln to visit Bill Keyman, 900 S. 13th, the local distributor of the auto and home burglar alarms that he now sells, Fullmer said Wednesday night boxing has only the Golden Gloves on which to draw potential fighters.

"As long as I can see where I'm going to do some good, I'll stay with the Golden Gloves," the 39-year-old explains, "I'm more interested in developing young boys into men by developing their confidence than seeing them become professional fighters."

While compiling a 63-4-3 record the West Jordan, Utah, native held the world middleweight crown on two occasions. He defeated Sugar Ray Robinson on Jan. 2, 1957 in a 15-round decision in Madison Square Garden, but lost the title to Robinson May 1 on a fifth-round KO in Chicago.

He then recaptured the crown on Aug. 28 by scoring a 14th-round TKO over Carmen Basilio in San Francisco and held it until October of 1962 when he lost to Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

"Fighters today aren't as experienced as they were say 10 years ago," he said. "Fighters can't make a living from it —my brother (Don) has been listed in the top ten and he's lucky to pull $5,000 a year from fighting."

Boosting Golden Gloves, Fullmer has traveled to Hawaii, New Mexico, Montana and Idaho recently to plug the program. He also serves as associate editor of Boxing Illustrated writing features and stories about the ring game.

Admitting he's lost contact with middleweights slightly today, he hesitated to term the best middleweight fighter today. But he quickly listed heavyweight champion Joe Frazier as the best "big-man" today.

Fullmer has fought since he was eight years old and had almost 100 bouts before turning professional. Most of his non-paid attractions were in Utah in army camps.

"Whenever I get the opportunity I try to attend fights," he added. "I like to promote the shows and charities of the Golden Gloves."

Although he says television has killed the smaller boxing clubs, Fullmer explains that boxing needs a local favorite to make a comeback along with more and better fighters.

"Boxing doesn't have the college or high schools to draw fighters, so they must come from the Golden Gloves," he explains, "The Gloves will build confidence in you no other sport can or will do."

Hyland Wraps Up Ladies' City Title

. . . LEADS BY 26 STROKES

By VIRGIL PARKER

Jean Hyland wrapped up her tenth Lincoln Women's City golf title after firing a three-over-par 79 at the Lincoln Country Club Wednesday, though the field of 49 will go through the formality of playing a concluding round at Pioneer Park this morning.

Even the defending champion admitted that the 26-shot lead she has amassed over closest-challenger Dorothy Schwartzkopf through the first three rounds should be sufficient.

"I guess you could call that lead safe," Mrs. Hyland said with a smile, remembering last year when she came from eight strokes off the pace to catch Mrs. Schwartzkopf and win by one.

Mrs. Hyland, who has won the crown on nine previous occasions, and Mrs. Schwartzkopf, an eight-time champion, have regularly staged a close one-two race for the title.

But this summer Mrs. Hyland opened up a 12-stroke bulge on the first day with a one-over-par 80 at Holmes Park, increased the margin to 20 with another one-over-par effort — a 77 — at Hillcrest Country Club, and then pushed the bulge to 26 with her 79 at LCC Wednesday.

After a disappointing 92 at Holmes, Mrs. Schwartzkopf shot a pair of steady 85s, only to fall farther behind.

"I had one horrible hole," Mrs. Schwartzkopf related while telling about her Wednesday round. "My tee shot on the par-three No. 5 was buried out of sight. I barely got it uncovered on the first try, then failed to get it on the green on my second attempt. I was so upset by then I three-putted for a seven."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Hyland was recording her second eagle in as many days with a tap-in putt on the par-five fourth hole.

"It's a blind second shot up over a hill to the green," she explained, "but I hit a three-wood awfully well. I thought it would be on the green or at least close."

When her threesome came over the hill they saw the ball just a foot from the cup.

Mrs. Hyland said the eagle was doubly welcome after earlier problems.

"The other two days something nice had always happened on the second hole," she remembered. "I sunk a long birdie putt on No. 2 at Holmes and then chipped in from off the green for an eagle on the second at Hillcrest."

A tournament for junior girls, being held in connection with the women's event, is turning into an even bigger runaway.

First and second-round leader Jane Deeter widened her lead to round of the tournament to a whopping 43 strokes over the nearest challenger with her best date.

Mason-Bowes' Bubble Pops But Team Tries To Adjust

By DAVE WALLNER
Star Sports Writer

Ten games ago Mason-Bowes, a newcomer to the Triple A softball ranks, was cruising along at the top of the heap, 2-0 in league play. Then something turned their gilded coach into a pumpkin, and the skid was on.

After grabbing the Double A title last year, Mason-Bowes jumped up a notch this year and knocked off two established teams, Roberts-Skyline and Citizens' State Bank, in its first outings.

But then, according to .455 hitter and sometime-coach Lou Lyons, "The bottom kind of fell out."

A 9-3 loss to tough Bob's Tavern popped the bubble, and nine straight losses followed, some close and others pretty embarrassing.

"We didn't figure we were going to come up here and beat everybody," Lyons said after that tenth loss. "This is a much faster ball game and it takes time to adjust."

Lyons, who carried a .500 average in Double A ball and continues near that pace despite the better pitching in Triple A, almost didn't make the jump up with the rest of his teammates.

"Last winter I found out I was a diabetic and almost had to quit," he recalled.

But a running program put his legs back in shape, and now he roams the outfield, takes a brief turn on the mound and subs occasionally for head coach Larry Myers.

Fielding woes and stiffer enemy pitching have given Lyons and his mates their biggest headaches while trying to make the adjustment from one league to the other.

"Teams up here are alert all the time and they'll take the extra base on you," Lyons said. "And with these pitchers you can count on the ball being across the plate most of the time. They just don't throw three straight balls up here."

The 30-year-old Lyons has made the rounds in city softball, starting off in a church league seven years ago before beginning the climb up the ladder.

Despite facing pitchers each night who "have a lot of junk and a lot of stuff on the ball," Lyons sticks with a tested philosophy.

"I just try to meet the ball, because I'm not big enough to hit the home run," he explained. "I just hope it falls in."

Although he admits that "We haven't made the league look too good the last few games," he dismisses the claim that expansion to ten teams, up two from last year, has seriously weakened the league.

Broken bones, as much as anything, Lyons said, have hurt the club's performance. Both second baseman Donny Miller and third baseman Jerry Jensen have suffered broken fingers that have kept them out of action.

Stiff Penalty Set For Engle

Omaha — The toughest penalty in Nebraska horse racing history has been handed to jockey Jerry Engle, a fine of $1,500 and a riding suspension of 30 calendar days.

Engle got the penalty for his interference with Tripsville while riding Fritter in the Cornhusker Handicap on June 19.

He had previously been suspended for the duration of the Ak-Sar-Ben race meeting by the track stewards, but the stiffer penalty was made by the Nebraska Racing Commission Tuesday.

Harry Farnam, chairman of the commission, said the fine and suspension is "the largest ever levied in Nebraska."

The incident which brought the suspension occurred near the top of the stretch of the $56,425 Cornhusker Handicap. Engle reached out and grabbed the saddle blanket of Trippsville. Film of the race showed the infraction and Engle admitted that he had done it.

Lawsuit Dismissed

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Mustang general manager Bill Monaghan said Wednesday a $20,000 lawsuit filed by the First West Side Bank of Omaha against the professional football club has been dismissed.

Terms of the settlement which led to the dismissal of the suit were not announced.

Summer Fishing Different

Early spring fishing always seems the best time to anglers. That's understanding, though, since the fresh air is a stimulant to senses dulled by the long winter months inside.

And the fishing seems better . . . the fish are eager to bite, full of fight, and downright good eating. But the important thing is that they will bite on almost any kind of bait.

Then spring fades and the hot months of summer change the whole concept of fishing. No longer are the fish so eager to please; now the angler has to change his bait and his way of fishing.

Quite often, anglers have to shift their sights to other species of fish and adopt whole new tactics if he desires to be successful.

No longer does the angler try for the trout and bass with as high a degree of success that he had earlier. Now he tries something else . . . catfishing.

The state's many rivers are tailor-made for catfishing, according to game commission giologists. Channel cats will soon end their spawning activities and congregate in the streams' deeper holes where the living is easy as the current's eddies and swirls gather a smorgasbord of natural delicacies and serve them up to the lazy cats.

The wise 'catter' drops his offerings among those of the river and is usually rewarded with a stringer of tasty fish.

Reservoirs A Little Different

But catfish aren't held in the rivers alone. They are also abundant in several of the state reservoirs.

In the reservoirs, they generally feed in the shallows and mud flats at the upper end of the lake, near the inlets of feeder streams, and in the streams themselves.

As far as baits go, a few standard ones include night crawlers, minnows, frogs, crawdads, liver, commercial baits, and even chicken entrails. However, each locality usually has a favorite bait, and these are often quite unusual. In one part of central Nebraska, the old-timers swear by a certain brand of old-fashioned laundry soap.

But despite the bait, anglers after cats can get by with a minimum of tackle . . . a rod, stout line, bait, enough weight to take it to the bottom and keep it there and the proper hook.

Large, single hooks will do the trick most of the time, but anglers using liver or prepared baits will find that a No. 2 or 4 treble hook will hold the bait better . . . and the fish if one snaps it up.

In reservoirs and backwaters, where current is not a factor, less weight should be used. Often, slip sinkers are recommended so the whiskered quarry doesn't feel any drag as he makes off with the easy meal.

Other species can also be caught on this type of bait including the larger bullheads.

Several anglers have also landed heavy bass while fishing for cats. But it is seldom indeed that a bass will be landed on a cat rig.

And on the hot summer day when even moving is an effort, catfishing allows a man time to think and contemplate about the foolish ones who elected to stay in the city instead of heading for a nice comfortable riverbank.

Huge Juvenile Field Leads To Two Divisions

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Two-year-old races are always tough to handicap, but today's split feature has all the ear-marks of being a nightmare to end all nightmares.

Twenty-two of twenty-four nominations were accepted for the running of the Juvenile Stakes today at Ak-Sar-Ben, forcing racing officials to split the field into two divisions — the sixth and seventh on today's card.

Each division carries a purse of $15,000-added and each race has a star-studded field entered.

In the first division, Ken Opstein's Excello, winner of $10,000 so far this year, is top-weighted along with Beau Julian at 122.

Excello's last start was on June 4 during the running of the Freshman Stakes which the bay colt won handily by five lengths over Aye Jay Aye (entered in the second division).

Excello also has posted wins over of the horses entered in the two divisions including Mambrino (third behind Aye Jay Aye in the Stakes).

Mambrino will be running in the second division away from stablemate Excello with Fred Ecoffey slated for the irons at 112 pounds.

But imports seem to have the rule for the second division with Heisanative ruling over the crowd.

Heisanative won the June 12 $15,000-added Hyde Park Stakes at Arlington Park in Chicago and equalled the track record of :57 1-5 over 5 furlongs in that running.

Jockey Dave Whited is being imported along with Heisanative to ride the fleet two-year-old over 5½ furlongs at 122 pounds — one of the four carrying top weight.

Heisanative has won more than $28,000 so far this year for owner T. C. Honig Jr. and holds wins over Bold Who (also carrying 122 pounds in today's seventh) Gentle Smoke (who was third behind Heisanative at Arlington) and Wee Miracle.

The W. J. Resseguet Jr.-trained Heisanative is coming off of three straight wins for the Juvenile Stakes.

Aye Jay Aye is also top-weighted at 122 and may be the one to clip the win streak of Heisanative.

The brown colt by Disguised out of Nancy Snider has won more than $25,000 this year with five wins and two place finishes out of seven starts for owner Leonard Smith.

Aye Jay Aye beat British Fleet in the Laddie Stakes on June 17, winning by one length. But British Fleet, also carrying 122 in today's feature, defeated Aye Jay Aye on June 24 by 1½ lengths.

SENATORS TO TEXAS?

AL Owners Converge To Consider Move Bid

. . . MINNESOTA CLUB MAY BE FOR SALE

Detroit (AP) — After huddling behind closed doors in a hastily-called meeting, the 12 owners of American League teams announced Wednesday night they will "immediately consider the urgent financial needs of the Washington Senators baseball club by studying all possible solutions."

The day-long meeting was carried out amid rumors that the Washington Senators baseball team was going broke and that it would be moved to Dallas.

Senators' owner Bob Short admitted he was about $175,000 behind in rent for Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in Washington but indicated he wanted to keep his team in that city.

A statement released after the meeting by American League president Joe Cronin and read by al counsel James Garner, authorized Cronin, Short and "such advisors as they may deem appropriate" to research solutions to the ball club's financial woes and to "report the results of such study and make recommendations to the league with reference to an appropriate solution or solutions."

No specific measures were announced.

Cronin called the convocation of some of baseball's biggest guns a "preliminary meeting to a joint meeting with the National League scheduled in August. The resolution adopted by the 12 owners was "the sum and substance of our meeting," Cronin said.

"We talked over many problems and family affairs within the league," he added.

Regarding the financial plight of the Senators, Cronin said. "It wasn't an easy question to resolve and it isn't resolved yet."

Cronin played down the importance of the meeting, telling newsmen, "It's time we had a discussion among the owners . . . we were going to have one in spring training but didn't."

He said of the meeting, "We talked about a number of things. Bob Short hasn't made any application to move. We discussed his financial situation . . . it was an open discussion, nothing formal . . . it was a preliminary to our regular meeting in August with the commissioner."

In a related development, the public relations director of the Minnesota Twins said Wednesday the American League baseball club "will not be sold, under any circumstances."

A Minneapolis sportscaster, Hal Scott of WCCO-TV, reported Tuesday night that the Minnesota team was for sale "if the price is right." Scott added that the "right price," in the view of President Calvin Griffith, "is $11 million."

Fullmer Begins Battles Outside Of Boxing Ring

"There's no place for kids to fight anymore," says the former world middleweight champion, "Kids just don't want to pay the price to stay in shape."

GENE FULLMER

In Lincoln to visit Bill Keyman, 900 S. 13th, the local distributor of the auto and home burglar alarms that he now sells, Fullmer said Wednesday night boxing has only the Golden Gloves on which to draw potential fighters.

"As long as I can see where I'm going to do some good, I'll stay with the Golden Gloves," the 39-year-old explains, "I'm more interested in developing young boys into men by developing their confidence than seeing them become professional fighters."

While compiling a 63-4-3 record the West Jordan, Utah, native held the world middleweight crown on two occasions. He defeated Sugar Ray Robinson on Jan. 2, 1957 in a 15-round decision in Madison Square Garden, but lost the title to Robinson May 1 on a fifth-round KO in Chicago.

He then recaptured the crown on Aug. 28 by scoring a 14th-round TKO over Carmen Basilio in San Francisco and held it until October of 1962 when he lost to Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

"Fighters today aren't as experienced as they were say 10 years ago," he said. "Fighters can't make a living from it —my brother (Don) has been listed in the top ten and he's lucky to pull $5,000 a year from fighting."

Boosting Golden Gloves, Fullmer has traveled to Hawaii, New Mexico, Montana and Idaho recently to plug the program. He also serves as associate editor of Boxing Illustrated writing features and stories about the ring game.

Admitting he's lost contact with middleweights slightly today, he hesitated to term the best middleweight fighter today. But he quickly listed heavyweight champion Joe Frazier as the best "big-man" today.

Fullmer has fought since he was eight years old and had almost 100 bouts before turning professional. Most of his non-paid attractions were in Utah in army camps.

"Whenever I get the opportunity I try to attend fights," he added. "I like to promote the shows and charities of the Golden Gloves."

Although he says television has killed the smaller boxing clubs, Fullmer explains that boxing needs a local favorite to make a comeback along with more and better fighters.

"Boxing doesn't have the college or high schools to draw fighters, so they must come from the Golden Gloves," he explains, "The Gloves will build confidence in you no other sport can or will do."

Hyland Wraps Up Ladies' City Title

By VIRGIL PARKER

Jean Hyland wrapped up her tenth Lincoln Women's City golf title after firing a three-over-par 79 at the Lincoln Country Club Wednesday, though the field of 49 will go through the formality of playing a concluding round at Pioneer Park this morning.

Even the defending champion admitted that the 26-shot lead she has amassed over closest-challenger Dorothy Schwartzkopf through the first three rounds should be sufficient.

"I guess you could call that lead safe," Mrs. Hyland said with a smile, remembering last year when she came from eight strokes off the pace to catch Mrs. Schwartzkopf and win by one.

Mrs. Hyland, who has won the crown on nine previous occasions, and Mrs. Schwartzkopf, an eight-time champion, have regularly staged a close one-two race for the title.

But this summer Mrs. Hyland opened up a 12-stroke bulge on the first day with a one-over-par 80 at Holmes Park, increased the margin to 20 with another one-over-par effort — a 77 — at Hillcrest Country Club, and then pushed the bulge to 26 with her 79 at LCC Wednesday.

After a disappointing 92 at Holmes, Mrs. Schwartzkopf shot a pair of steady 85s, only to fall farther behind.

"I had one horrible hole," Mrs. Schwartzkopf related while telling about her Wednesday round. "My tee shot on the par-three No. 5 was buried out of sight. I barely got it uncovered on the first try, then failed to get it on the green on my second attempt. I was so upset by then I three-putted for a seven."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Hyland was recording her second eagle in as many days with a tap-in putt on the par-five fourth hole.

"It's a blind second shot up over a hill to the green," she explained, "but I hit a three-wood awfully well. I thought it would be on the green or at least close."

When her threesome came over the hill they saw the ball just a foot from the cup.

Mrs. Hyland said the eagle was doubly welcome after earlier problems.

"The other two days something nice had always happened on the second hole," she remembered. "I sunk a long birdie putt on No. 2 at Holmes and then chipped in from off the green for an eagle on the second at Hillcrest."

A tournament for junior girls, being held in connection with the women's event, is turning into an even bigger runaway.

First and second-round leader Jane Deeter widened her lead to round of the tournament to a whopping 43 strokes over the nearest challenger with her best date.

Mason-Bowes' Bubble Pops But Team Tries To Adjust

Star Sports Writer

Ten games ago Mason-Bowes, a newcomer to the Triple A softball ranks, was cruising along at the top of the heap, 2-0 in league play. Then something turned their gilded coach into a pumpkin, and the skid was on.

After grabbing the Double A title last year, Mason-Bowes jumped up a notch this year and knocked off two established teams, Roberts-Skyline and Citizens' State Bank, in its first outings.

But then, according to .455 hitter and sometime-coach Lou Lyons, "The bottom kind of fell out."

A 9-3 loss to tough Bob's Tavern popped the bubble, and nine straight losses followed, some close and others pretty embarrassing.

"We didn't figure we were going to come up here and beat everybody," Lyons said after that tenth loss. "This is a much faster ball game and it takes time to adjust."

Lyons, who carried a .500 average in Double A ball and continues near that pace despite the better pitching in Triple A, almost didn't make the jump up with the rest of his teammates.

"Last winter I found out I was a diabetic and almost had to quit," he recalled.

But a running program put his legs back in shape, and now he roams the outfield, takes a brief turn on the mound and subs occasionally for head coach Larry Myers.

Fielding woes and stiffer enemy pitching have given Lyons and his mates their biggest headaches while trying to make the adjustment from one league to the other.

"Teams up here are alert all the time and they'll take the extra base on you," Lyons said. "And with these pitchers you can count on the ball being across the plate most of the time. They just don't throw three straight balls up here."

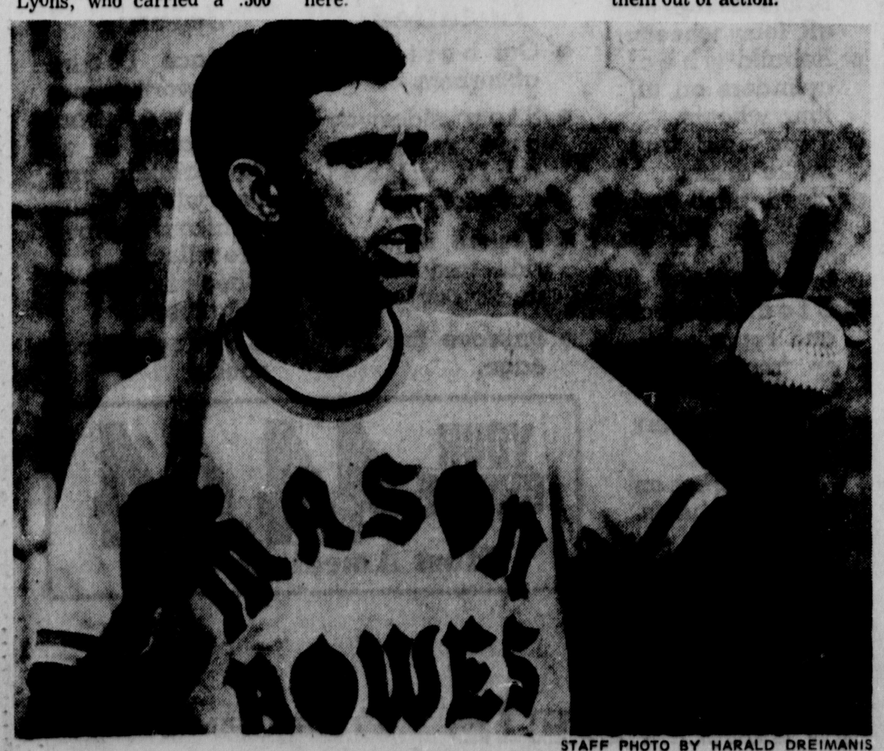

The 30-year-old Lyons has made the rounds in city softball, starting off in a church league seven years ago before beginning the climb up the ladder.

Despite facing pitchers each night who "have a lot of junk and a lot of stuff on the ball," Lyons sticks with a tested philosophy.

"I just try to meet the ball, because I'm not big enough to hit the home run," he explained. "I just hope it falls in."

Although he admits that "We haven't made the league look too good the last few games," he dismisses the claim that expansion to ten teams, up two from last year, has seriously weakened the league.

Broken bones, as much as anything, Lyons said, have hurt the club's performance. Both second baseman Donny Miller and third baseman Jerry Jensen have suffered broken fingers that have kept them out of action.

Stiff Penalty Set For Engle

Omaha — The toughest penalty in Nebraska horse racing history has been handed to jockey Jerry Engle, a fine of $1,500 and a riding suspension of 30 calendar days.

Engle got the penalty for his interference with Tripsville while riding Fritter in the Cornhusker Handicap on June 19.

He had previously been suspended for the duration of the Ak-Sar-Ben race meeting by the track stewards, but the stiffer penalty was made by the Nebraska Racing Commission Tuesday.

Harry Farnam, chairman of the commission, said the fine and suspension is "the largest ever levied in Nebraska."

The incident which brought the suspension occurred near the top of the stretch of the $56,425 Cornhusker Handicap. Engle reached out and grabbed the saddle blanket of Trippsville. Film of the race showed the infraction and Engle admitted that he had done it.

Lawsuit Dismissed

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Mustang general manager Bill Monaghan said Wednesday a $20,000 lawsuit filed by the First West Side Bank of Omaha against the professional football club has been dismissed.

Terms of the settlement which led to the dismissal of the suit were not announced.

Courts To Open To Nonwhites

London (AP) — The South African Lawn Tennis Union said Wednesday it would open its courts to nonwhite players if permitted to stage the Federation Cup Women's Championships in 1972.

The proposal would enable nonwhites to enter South Africa for championship events as well as permitting nonwhite South Africans to represent their country at home and abroad.

Golf Carts Ruined At Pioneers Park

Vandals caused about $4,000 damage to seven of nine golf carts at Pioneers Park sometime early Wednesday morning, Herb Cords, assistant superintendent of parks, said Wednesday.

Cords said it appeared there were several vandals who hotwired the Cushman golf carts to start them and ran them all over the golf course, battering then against trees and each other.

Cords said there was not much damage to the golf course by the vandals, but the golf carts were left scattered all over the area.

The vandals apparently entered the area sometime after midnight and the damage was discovered about 6 a.m.

King's Now Tied For AAA's Lead

King's Food Host moved into a first-place tie with KOLN-TV in AAA softball by beating Meginnis Ford, 7-4, Wednesday night at Ballard Field. Both teams now are 11-3 in city league play.

King's scored five runs in the top of the seventh inning and then held off Meginnis in taking the win.

Citizens State Bank advanced to second place in the city league by whipping Branding Iron, 10-3, in the first game Wednesday night. Citizens' record now is 10-3.

KC Royals Sign Two Draft Picks

Kansas City (AP) —The Kansas City Royals announced Tuesday night the signing of two of their draft selections.

Signed were right-handed pitchers Jim Ross of Sam Houston High School, Houston, Tex., and Steve Busby of Southern California.

Busby, 21, was the Royals second choice in the secondary phase, and will join the San Jose in the Class A California League.

Courts To Open To Nonwhites

London (AP) — The South African Lawn Tennis Union said Wednesday it would open its courts to nonwhite players if permitted to stage the Federation Cup Women's Championships in 1972.

The proposal would enable nonwhites to enter South Africa for championship events as well as permitting nonwhite South Africans to represent their country at home and abroad.

Golf Carts Ruined At Pioneers Park

Vandals caused about $4,000 damage to seven of nine golf carts at Pioneers Park sometime early Wednesday morning, Herb Cords, assistant superintendent of parks, said Wednesday.

Cords said it appeared there were several vandals who hotwired the Cushman golf carts to start them and ran them all over the golf course, battering then against trees and each other.

Cords said there was not much damage to the golf course by the vandals, but the golf carts were left scattered all over the area.

The vandals apparently entered the area sometime after midnight and the damage was discovered about 6 a.m.

King's Now Tied For AAA's Lead

King's Food Host moved into a first-place tie with KOLN-TV in AAA softball by beating Meginnis Ford, 7-4, Wednesday night at Ballard Field. Both teams now are 11-3 in city league play.

King's scored five runs in the top of the seventh inning and then held off Meginnis in taking the win.

Citizens State Bank advanced to second place in the city league by whipping Branding Iron, 10-3, in the first game Wednesday night. Citizens' record now is 10-3.

KC Royals Sign Two Draft Picks

Kansas City (AP) —The Kansas City Royals announced Tuesday night the signing of two of their draft selections.

Signed were right-handed pitchers Jim Ross of Sam Houston High School, Houston, Tex., and Steve Busby of Southern California.

Busby, 21, was the Royals second choice in the secondary phase, and will join the San Jose in the Class A California League.

Australian Miss Topples King At Wimbledon

Wimbledon, England (AP) — Evonne Goolagong was cheered off the center court at Wimbledon by 15,000 fans Wednesday and went straight to look for the one man who mattered.

Vic Edwards, 61-year-old Australian coach who is also her legal guardian, was waiting at a pre-arranged spot near the dressing room door. They just smiled and clasped hands.

Edwards had sat with his wife watching his protege defeat Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-4, to reach the women's singles final. At 19 years 11 months she is the youngest Wimbledon singles finalist since Maria Bueno of Brazil won the women's crown in 1959. She meets defending champion Margaret Court, also of Australia in Friday's final.

Mrs. Court defeated Mrs. Judy Dalton of Australia, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0, in the other semifinal, setting the stage for a history-making final — the first time since two Australian girls have met for the women's singles title.

The men's semifinals will be held today and match two Americans and two Australians, making a U.S.-Australia final a certainty.

Tom Gorman, the giant-killer from Seattle, Wash., meets Stan Smith, the 6-foot-4 player from Pasadena, Calif., in one semifinal and defending champion John Newcombe plays Ken Rosewall in the other.

Edwards was probably the only person in the crowd who showed no emotion as the Australion girl edged towards her upset victory.

But Evonne said later: "When I met him afterwards I was too excited to say anything, and I guess he felt the same."

Edwards is the man who has helped to produce stars such as John Newcombe and Fred Stolle. He runs the Victor A. Edwards Tennis School organization in Sydney, where 4,000 young tennies hopefuls are coached every week.

Edwards first spotted Evonne when she was eleven years old and took note of her potential. She belonged to a poor family of eight children. Her paternal grandfather was an aboriginal.

Edwards took the young tennis prospect into his home. He has five daughters, and he told them: "Evonne is your new sister. Help her to become a tennis star."

He has educated her, brought her up to live quietly and simply, and seen to it that she doesn't get too much tennis. As the years went by, under his guidance, she learned the game and developed the backhand which, more than any other stroke, shattered Mrs. King Wednesday.

The Wimbledon fans see her as the most exciting young newcomer in years. Unspoiled by success, she is everybody's idea of the girl next door.

Mrs. King was trying to preserve her record of having reached the final at Wimbledon every year since 1966. She won the title three times, in 1966-67-68, and was the losing finalist the last two years.

But in 55 minutes Miss Goolagong had stormed into the final, and her devastating backhand was the shot that did the trick.

Australian Miss Topples King At Wimbledon

Wimbledon, England (AP) — Evonne Goolagong was cheered off the center court at Wimbledon by 15,000 fans Wednesday and went straight to look for the one man who mattered.

Vic Edwards, 61-year-old Australian coach who is also her legal guardian, was waiting at a pre-arranged spot near the dressing room door. They just smiled and clasped hands.

Edwards had sat with his wife watching his protege defeat Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-4, to reach the women's singles final. At 19 years 11 months she is the youngest Wimbledon singles finalist since Maria Bueno of Brazil won the women's crown in 1959. She meets defending champion Margaret Court, also of Australia in Friday's final.

Mrs. Court defeated Mrs. Judy Dalton of Australia, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0, in the other semifinal, setting the stage for a history-making final — the first time since two Australian girls have met for the women's singles title.

The men's semifinals will be held today and match two Americans and two Australians, making a U.S.-Australia final a certainty.

Tom Gorman, the giant-killer from Seattle, Wash., meets Stan Smith, the 6-foot-4 player from Pasadena, Calif., in one semifinal and defending champion John Newcombe plays Ken Rosewall in the other.

Edwards was probably the only person in the crowd who showed no emotion as the Australion girl edged towards her upset victory.

But Evonne said later: "When I met him afterwards I was too excited to say anything, and I guess he felt the same."

- Edwards is the man who has helped to produce stars such as John Newcombe and Fred Stolle. He runs the Victor A. Edwards Tennis School organization in Sydney, where 4,000 young tennies hopefuls are coached every week.

Edwards first spotted Evonne when she was eleven years old and took note of her potential. She belonged to a poor family of eight children. Her paternal grandfather was an aboriginal.

Edwards took the young tennis prospect into his home. He has five daughters, and he told them: "Evonne is your new sister. Help her to become a tennis star."

He has educated her, brought her up to live quietly and simply, and seen to it that she doesn't get too much tennis. As the years went by, under his guidance, she learned the game and developed the backhand which, more than any other stroke, shattered Mrs. King Wednesday.

The Wimbledon fans see her as the most exciting young newcomer in years. Unspoiled by success, she is everybody's idea of the girl next door.

Mrs. King was trying to preserve her record of having reached the final at Wimbledon every year since 1966. She won the title three times, in 1966-67-68, and was the losing finalist the last two years.

But in 55 minutes Miss Goolagong had stormed into the final, and her devastating backhand was the shot that did the trick.

Upset Republicans Say Gravel Needs Discipline

Washington (UPI) — Outraged Republicans demanded Wednesday that the Democrats discipline maverick Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, for disclosing the secret Pentagon papers on Vietnam in "apparent" violation of the Senate's rules.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., went farther than any of his colleagues, declaring that Gravel "has violated the law" and therefore "is censurable."

Republican leader Hugh Scott pointedly avoided calling for censure, but he said it was up to the Senate's Democratic majority to investigate whether Gravel had violated the Senate's rules. Such violations are usually punished by a resolution of censure.

Gravel, 41, a handsome freshman with a flair for the dramatic, boycotted the Senate for the first time in eight weeks and secluded himself in his home in suburban Maryland.

For the time being, he abandoned his intention to read the remaining documents in his possession on the Senate floor and into the public record, accessible to anyone.

Gravel tried to do that Tuesday night, but floundered on a parliamentary maneuver which permitted Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin to force him into a three-and-a-half hour silence while a clerk monotonously called the role.

Rump Session

Gravel then gave up his attempt to deliver a 30-hour nonstop speech in which he intended to read the documents into the record. But he called a rump session of the one Senate subcommittee he chairs, the public works subcommittee on buildings and grounds.

In a hoarse voice, he emotionally read from the documents for nearly three hours until 12:10 a.m. CDT Wednesday, when he broke down in tears and had to stop.

He started crying after reading this paragraph from a speech he had intended to deliver in the Senate:

"The greatest representative democracy the world has ever known, the nation of Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln, has had its nose rubbed in the swamp by petty warlords, jealous Vietnamese generals, black marketeers and grand scale dope pushers. We have been the victims."

Fire Base Fuller Is Bombarded For 40 Minutes

Saigon (UPI) -- North Vietnamese mortar crews killed three South Vietnamese infantrymen Wednesday in a 40-minute bombardment of embattled Fire Base Fuller and its surrounding mountain terrain field reports said Thursday.

The North Vietnamese dumped 64 rounds of 12MM and and 82MM mortar fire into the base and government units sweeping the jungled area around it on Dong Ha mountain, six miles south of the demilitarized zone, Saigon spokesmen said.

Government troops found the bodies of 13 Communists near the fire base, scene of daily fighting or artillery attacks since an enemy offensive swept South Vietnamese troops out last week. The government troops have since reoccupied it.

Spokesmen said an explosion of unknown cause tore through a South Vietnamese ammunition dump at Qui Nhon in the central highlands Wednesday, destroying about 1,500 tons of munitions.

Ammonia Plant Set

Houston (UPI) — M. W. Kellogg division of Pullman, Inc, has obtained a contract to design a 910-ton-a-day ammonia plant to be built at Kalol in the Indian state of Gujarat for Indian Farmers Fertilizer Cooperative Ltd.

New Maltese Leader Cancels British Pact

Valletta, Malta (AP) — Prime Minister Dom Mintoff's government declared Wednesday that Malta's 1964 defense treaty with Britain no longer is in effect. A statement said new arrangements must be made if British troops are to remain on the strategic Mediterranean island.

It was a step in fulfilling the Labor prime minister's election campaign pledge to pull Malta away from the British-NATO defense umbrella to a position of neutrality. Mintoff ousted pro-Western Prime Minister George Borg Olivier in the general election two weeks ago.

The declaration was made in an unsigned government statement. The British Foreign Office and Defense Ministry had no official comment, but there was little doubt in London that Mintoff was behind the statement personally.

The West fears a completely neutral Malta would open it to the Soviet Union, which is vying with NATO for naval supremacy in the Mediterranean. Mintoff, however, has said he has no desire to invite the Soviets in.

Oil Companies Agree To Stop Fixing Prices

Newark, N.J. (AP) — Eight major oil companies consented Wednesday to a U.S. Justice Department proposal forbidding them from fixing gasoline prices, ending a six-year legal battle without a trial.

The eight companies are American Oil Co., Atlantic Richfield, Cities Service Oil Co., Cities Service Co., Gulf Oil Corp., Humble Oil & Refining Co. Mobil Oil Corp., and Sinclair Refining Co.

By agreeing to the proposal, the oil companies prevented further litigation of an antitrust suit filed in 1965 charging the companies with fixing prices of gasoline sold to dealers and the retail prices of gasoline in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware between 1955 and 1965.

In 1969, the eight companies pleaded no contest to a criminal indictment returned in 1965 when the civil suit was filed. The firms agreed to pay $550,000 in fines.

Under the consent agreement, the companies are restrained from fixing prices at which gasoline is sold to dealers, from refusing to sell gasoline to any dealer and from coercing dealers to sell gasoline at a suggested retail price.

The firms also agreed to let the Justice Department monitor, for 10 years, the steps taken to comply with the price-fixing order.

The consent agreement takes effect in 30 days unless the government or oil companies change their minds.

It has been estimated that $5 billion worth of gasoline was purchased in the three states in the decade covered by the suit. In just one year, 1960, the eight firms sold over 3.6 billion gallons of gasoline, with a retail value of over $720 million.

The consent agreement Wednesday involves only the antitrust proceedings. Class actions brought by the states, construction firms, taxi fleets and other bulk purchasers of gasoline are pending.

Test Plant Contract

Milwaukee (UPI) — Aqua-Chem, Inc., has obtained a $490,370 contract to build a test facility to study the feasibility of building sea water desalting plants with capacities as large as 200 million gallons a day using the horizontal tube evaporator method.

Turkey To Stop Growing Opium

. . . NIXON HAILS 'SIGNIFICANT BREAKTHROUGH'

Washington (AP) — President Nixon has hailed Turkey's decision to halt cultivation of the opium poppy as "the most significant breakthrough against dangerous drugs.

Turkey, which has grown poppies for centuries and is one of the few countries where it is legal to do so, has been the source of 60% of the illegal heroin coming into the United States.

A joint announcement Wednesday by President Nixon at the White House and Turkey's Prime Minister Nihat Erim in Ankara. Turkey, decreed an end to growing of the opium poppy by July 1972 in the interest of the well-being of the world.

Important Duty

Erim said Turkey "must free itself of responsibility for ruining lives in other countries. It has become an important human duty to save the youth of the world from this sickness."

Opium will be planted in only four Turkish provinces this fall. Erim called on farmers who plant this last crop to turn over their entire harvest to government buyers, not black marketeers.

"This will prove that Turkish farmers do not knowingly grow opium for the purpose of poisoning the whole world," he said.

The United States has promised to provide financial and technical aid to Turkey to help its farmers make the transition from poppy-growing to other cash crops. No specific aid amounts were announced. The opium poppy is estimated to bring Turkish farmers $3 million to $5 million annually.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who appeared before reporters at the White House along with Turkey's ambassador to the United States, Melih Esenbel, when Nixon made his announcement, said the United States is continuing narcotics negotiations with six other countries where opium poppies are grown. And it is continuing its efforts within the United Nations to cut off sources of supply for illegal narcotics.

Apart from Turkey, Southeast Asia is the main source of opium from which heroin is made.

Nixon called the action of the Turkish government "very courageous and statesmanlike" and said it "deserves the appreciation of all the people of the world."

Taiwan Said Trading Arms For Vietnam-Bound Opium

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., said Wednesday a secret Pentagon report indicated the Nationalist Chinese exchanged some U.S.-supplied weapons for opium which was then sold to American soldiers in Vietnam.

Defense Department officials, testifying before Rogers' House subcommittee on public health and environment, said they knew nothing about it.

Rogers asked the Pentagon officials to check out the charge and come back later with their findings

Rogers said the report concerned an arms shipment made in October, 1970.

Rogers said his information indicated "there has been some involvement in our government where we are furnishing arms to China which are being diverted by Taiwan in exchange for opium which is shipped into Vietnam."

It's amazing you don't know anything about it," Rogers told Lt. Gen. Robert C. Taber, deputy assistant secretary of defense for manpower and reserve affairs, and John G. Kester, deputy assistant secretary of the Army.

Rogers, who indicated he had few facts from the report, said "it's my understanding that a general, a very prominent and high ranking general in Laos, was involved.

"I understand some M-16S were directly involved," he said

Stock Prices Rally Again

New York (AP) — Stock market prices reached some of their highs for the day as the Wall Street rally ended its second day.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 8.84 to 891.14.

Big board volume was 15.41 million shares, compared with 14.46 million shares Tuesday.

"The rally we're seeing on Wall Street now is partly seasonal, partly technical, and partly window dressing," said Bradbury K. Thurlow, of Hoppin, Watson & Co.

Analysts said many stocks were in an overall consolidation after the recent consolidation which chopped nearly 50 points off the Dow average in the past 3 weeks. Investors were bargain hunting among these, they said. The Dow average has moved up some 18 points in the past two sessions.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks climbed .51 to 55.09.

There were 992 advances and 398 declines out of 1,674 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 51 new highs and 27 new lows.

All stock categories were higher except for farm implements which were mixed.

Volume leader on the Big Board was St. Regis Paper, off ⅝ at 37¼. Other Big Board prices included Pan Am, up 1¼ at 13⅞; TRW, off 1¼ at 38¾, Norton Simon, up 2 at 51¼; General Electric, up 1¼ at 60¼, Western Union, up 2⅝ at 46; and Eastman Kodak, up ⅜ at 77⅜.

American Stock Exchange prices also climbed higher. The Amex price change index gained .15 to 25.48. Volume was 3.77 million shares compared with 3.34 million shares Tuesday. There were 616 advances and 269 declines out of 1,145 issues traded.

Closing Amex prices included Hillenbrand, off 7/8 at 40⅜; Loew's Corp. warrants, up 1⅜ at 27⅜; General Battery, up 1¼ at 27; Amco, up 1½ at 26, and Whittaker warrants, up ¼ at 4¾.

Government and corporate bonds were mixed.

Fed Cattle Bargaining Is Sparked

Omaha (AP) — Light area marketings, coupled with some mild improvement in carcass beef trading sparked an active bargaining session on fed cattle Wednesday.

Slaughter steers and heifers sold 25 cents to as much as 50 cents higher as buyers vied for numbers. Cows, however, turned steady to 25 cents lower in rather a slow trading.

The salable supply at Omaha fell a bit short of early estimates at around 4,600 head and compared with 6,400 a week ago and 5,700 a year ago.

A load choice to prime 1,075-pound fed steers capped the trade at 33.75. Other well-finished loads scaling 1,125-1,334 pounds grouped at 3.00-33.50; choice in volume were down to 31.50.

Toppy 1,070 pound heifers were out front at 33.00, with choice selling mostly at 30.75-32.00.

Butcher hog prices in the main were steady, some uniform lots 25 cents higher, while a few sales uneven weights went 25 cents down.

Grain Future Prices Decline

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures prices fell from 1 to nearly 3½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday under heavy selling activity.

The range of prices for the day was considered wide. Soybeans churned through a range of 4 cents, corn had a range of 3½ cents and wheat and oats moved in an area of some 1¼ cents

There was a display of strength for a time in the end products, but beans weakened again and then oil and meal fell back. The loss in new crop beans, however, was less than the early 4 cents a bushel.

At the close, corn futures were 2½ to 3⅜ cents a bushel lower, July 1.51⅞; soybeans were 1¾ to 2½ lower, July 3.21¼; oats were 1 to 1½ cents lower, July 72½ cents; and wheat was ⅛ to 1¼ cents lower, July 1.56⅜.

Stock Prices Rally Again

New York (AP) — Stock market prices reached some of their highs for the day as the Wall Street rally ended its second day.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 8.84 to 891.14.

Big board volume was 15.41 million shares, compared with 14.46 million shares Tuesday.

"The rally we're seeing on Wall Street now is partly seasonal, partly technical, and partly window dressing," said Bradbury K. Thurlow, of Hoppin, Watson & Co.

Analysts said many stocks were in an oversold condition after the recent consolidation which chopped nearly 50 points off the Dow average in the past 3 weeks. Investors were bargain hunting among these, they said. The Dow average has moved up some 18 points in the past two sessions.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks climbed .51 to 55.09.

There were 992 advances and 398 declines out of 1,674 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 51 new highs and 27 new lows.

All stock categories were higher except for farm implements which were mixed.

Volume loader on the Big Board was St. Regis Paper, off 5/8 at 37¼. Other Big Board prices included Pan Am, up 1¼ at 13⅞; TRW, off 1¼ at 38¾; Norton Simon, up 2 at 51¼; General Electric, up 1¼ at 60¾; Western Union, up 2⅝ at 46; and Eastman Kodak, up 3/8 at 77⅜.

American Stock Exchange prices also climbed higher. The Amex price change index gained .15 to 25.48. Volume was 3.77 million shares compared with 3.34 million shares Tuesday. There were 616 advances and 269 declines out of 1,145 issues traded.

Closing Amex prices included Hillenbrand, off 7/8 at 40⅜; Loew's Corp. warrants, up 1⅜ at 27⅝; General Battery, up ¼ at 27; Amco, up 1½ at 26½ and Whittaker warrants, up ¼ at 4¾.

Government and corporate bonds were mixed.

Fed Cattle Bargaining Is Sparked

Omaha (AP) — Light area marketings, coupled with some mild improvement in carcass beef trading sparked an active bargaining session on fed cattle Wednesday.

Slaughter steers and heifers sold 25 cents to as much as 50 cents higher as buyers vied for numbers. Cows, however, turned steady to 25 cents lower in rather a slow trading.

The salable supply at Omaha fell a bit short of early estimates at around 4,600 head and compared with 6,400 a week ago and 5,700 a year ago.

A load choice to prime 1,075-pound fed steers capped the trade at 33.75. Other well-finished loads scaling 1,125-1,334 pounds grouped at 3.00-33.50; choice in volume were down to 31.50.

Toppy 1,070 pound heifers were out front at 33.00, with choice selling mostly at 30.75-32.00.

Butcher hog prices in the main were steady, some uniform lots 25 cents higher, while a few sales uneven weights went 25 cents down.

Most 110-240 lb. barrows and gilts ranged 19.50-20.50; uniform 1-3s 200-230 lbs. in a narrow 20.25-20.50 range. Sows sold steady to 25 cents higher at 15.25-17.00.

Fat lambs were steady in moderate trading.

Grain Future Prices Decline

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures prices fell from 1 to nearly 3½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday under heavy selling activity.

The range of prices for the day was considered wide. Soybeans churned through a range of 4 cents, corn had a range of 3½ cents and wheat and oats moved in an area of some 1¼ cents.

There was a display of strength for a time in the end products, but beans weakened again and then oil and meal fell back. The loss in new crop beans, however, was less than the early 4 cents a bushel.

At the close, corn futures were 2½ to 3⅜ cents a bushel lower, July 1.51⅞; soybeans were 1¾ to 2½ lower, July 3.21¼; oats were 1 to 1½ cents lower, July 72½ cents; and wheat was ⅜ to 1¼ cents lower, July 1.56⅝.

Draft Heads Into Limbo For Week; Conferees Fail

Washington (AP) — The nation's draft headed into at least a week's limbo at midnight Wednesday after House-Senate conferees failed to reach agreement on a proposed deadline for American withdrawal from Vietnam.

The conferees broke off compromise efforts until next Wednesday, raising the possibility that Congress might not take final action on a bill extending the draft for two years until the following week.

It was the first draft suspension since 1948.

Armed Services Committee chairmen of both the House and Senate, Rep. F. Edward Herbert, D-La., and Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., indicated compromises had been discussed to the Senate's draft amendment asking for U.S. withdrawal from the war in nine months in return for release of American prisoners.

Neither Budge

But the two conference leaders said Senate conferees stuck by that body's 57-42 approval of the war pullout amendment by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. And House conferees refused to budge from the lower chamber's 219-176 rejection of the Mansfield amendment.

Antiwar senators vowed to filibuster any draft extension bill not bearing an acceptable version of Mansfield's amendment.

The Senate passed the Montana senator's amendment 57 to 42; the House rejected it 219 to 176.

The Selective Service System said it has halted all drafting and will make no effort to restart it until Congress acts.

A draft spokesman said the Pentagon's 16,000-man call for July and August will not be sent to the states until Congress acts or President Nixon at the Pentagon's request authorizes emergency callup of students and other men with expiring deferments to meet manpower needs.

Probably Not

White House sources have said President Nixon probably will not authorize a call of previously deferred men.

Only the actual draft was threatened.

The Selective Service System for sending men through physicals and other preinduction procedures to maintain a pool for the draft remains in business although some state boards suspended all activity.

Congress passed the Selective Service Act in 1940, allowed it to expire in 1947 and re-enacted it in 1948.

Two Close Calls

It never has lapsed since although in 1967 and 1955 extensions were signed into law June 30 just hours before the draft would have been suspended.

The compromise on student deferments restricts President Nixon's announced intention to halt them as of April 23 last year, the date of his announcement.

The compromise would permit any student, even freshmen, who had a deferment during the 1970-71 academic year to complete his undergraduate study.

The compromise draft bill, if approved by the House and Senate, also would:

—Raise military pay $2.4 billion a year effective Oct. 1 in an effort to attract a volunteer army, with most of the $1.8 billion pay raise going to new servicemen and most of a $600 million living allowance increase going to senior men.

—Keep civilian service for conscientious objectors at two years instead of the three approved by the House, and turn determination of the civilian jobs over to national draft headquarters rather than local draft boards.

—Defer divinity students but make them draft-eligible if they don't become ministers.

—Set the Senate's 130,000 draft ceiling for this year and 140,000 for next, approximating the Pentagon's anticipated draft level.

—Restore the combat duty enlistment bonus asked by Nixon and rejected by the House, but limit it to $3,000-$1,000 a year.

—Require that local draft boards be as representative as practical of the racial or minority makeup of their areas.

South Koreans Nab Infiltrators

Seoul (UPI) — South Korean patrols tracked down and killed three North Korean infiltrators Wednesday in a clash 20 miles from Seoul where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other foreign dignitaries were attending a diplomatic reception.

The South Korean defense ministry said army troops found signs of infiltrators from the Communist North on Tuesday and began extensive search operations. The patrols caught up with the three invaders shortly before 7 p.m. near Munsan, about 20 miles north of Seoul, it said. Two South Korean soldiers were killed in the clash.

Stewardess Shows More Thigh In Sky

By ANN HENCKEN

New York (AP) — Most airlines don't call them hot pants. But stewardesses' new "minipants" uniforms show more thigh in the sky than ever before.

"I think these are quite modest, very contemporary," said Braniff president Harding Lawrence in introducing the airline's printed skirts over shorts, designed by Emilio Pucci.

"A hostess in an airline is exposed to more criticism and observation than anyone," explains Pucci. "There are 60 to 80 people watching her. She leans over to serve, and it isn't very pretty when she exposes her underwear. I saw that happening when the skirts became very short.

'A Certain Mystery'

"A woman should keep a certain mystery, an element of magic about her," he said. As at most other airlines, the Braniff hostesses still have a choice of long pants or skirts as well, if they prefer still more mystery.

Trans World Airlines introduced its hot pants with skirts in mid-June.

"We've had no complaints. Everyone likes it," said a TWA representative. The hot pants were included as one option "by popular demand" and match a Valentino-designed uniform selection in beige, brown or plum.

Eastern Airlines has gone all the way. Minipants may be worn without a coverup skirt.

Not On All Flights

"The girls wanted it. I don't think our passengers will mind. We can't promise there'll be a girl in minipants on every flight," says an Eastern representative. The girls may turn up in slit front skirts, instead, by David Crystal.

American Airlines, Inc. is one holdout. Its new uniforms, out three months ago, do not nclude shorts.

"We're taking a look at hot pants, and we're giving it a lot of thought," says Robert Phillips, vice president of in-flight service.

Chou Says Oust Taiwan From U.N.

©The New York Times

Tokyo — Premier Chou En-lai said in an interview published here Wednesday that for Communist China to join the United Nations, it was necessary not only to have all of China's membership rights "restored," including a permanent seat on the Security Council, but for Nationalist China to be ousted from the world body.

Chou reportedly made the statement during a meeting with Yoshikatsu Takeiri, chairman of the Komeito or Clean Government Party now visiting Peking. Chou met with Takeiri and eight other Komeito members Monday, and his comments were published Wednesday in the party newspaper Komei Shimbun and other Japanese newspapers.

Chou's comments, which were consistent with the line Peking has taken on prospective membership in the U.N., threw cold water on attempts by the United States, Japan and other interested U.N. members to safeguard at least an assembly seat for Taiwan while admitting Peking to the Security Council and the General Assembly.

"What steps do you think are necessary in order to get China back into the United Nation?" Chou was asked, according to Komei Shimbun.

"The People's Republic of China," Chou replied according to the published interview, "enjoyed from the beginning a legal position as a permanent member of the United Nations Security Council, in all the organization of the United Nations. China was deprived of this position by the United Nations, and her seat was occupied by Chiang Kai-shek, who does not represent the Chinese people. Therefore, the legal position of the People's Republic of China must be restored, and Chiang Kai-shek driven out of the United Nations.

"That is all that needs to be done," Chou said.

"It is a responsibility of the United Nations, of the various member countries. We are grateful to countries and parties who advocate restoring the legal position of the people's Republic of China in the United Nations, but we ourselves do not make any demands."

Average Prices Hold; But Cattle, Milk Down

Washington (UPI) — National average farm prices held unchanged during the month ending June 15, the Agriculture Department reported Wednesday.

The stabilization came after prices had risen two per cent in the month ending May 15. The mid-June average was three per cent above a year earlier.

The department's crop reporting board said prices for hogs, peaches and oranges rose during the month, but these gains were offset by lower prices for cattle, milk, potatoes and watermelons.

Farm costs, according to the report, also remained unchanged from the all-time high reached in mid-May.

The combination of unchanged farm product prices and farm costs kept prices steady at 70% of the traditional "fair earning power" parity ratio, unchanged from May 15 but two points below the 72% level of June, 1970.

Wednesday's report also presented a second ratio based on 1967 price-cost relations. By this standard, the June 15 farm price-cost ratio was 94% of the 1967 base compared with 94% a month ago and 96% a year ago.

The index of prices received by farmers on June 15 stood at 113% of the 1967 base compared with 113% a month earlier and 110% a year earlier. The index of farm costs was 120% of the base compared with 120% a month earlier and 114% a year earlier.

5 Arrested For Fireworks Theft

Five Lincoln youths were arrested Wednesday in connection with the theft late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning of a large quantity of fireworks valued at $400 from John Amen of 845 A, according to police.

Police said four of the youths were juveniles and were referred in to a juvenile officer and an 18-year-old boy was jailed in connection with the incident.

Also taken were two radios valued at $55 and two cases of pop.

Police said entrance to the building was gained by prying a lock off a door.

One Black Seated On Author's Jury

Humboldt, Tenn. (UPI) — An all-male jury of 11 whites and one Negro was seated late Wednesday to try novelist Jesse Hill Ford for the killing of a young black man here last fall.

The lone black on the jury is 66-year-od William Lacey, a school teacher, who said the fact that he was a patient of Ford's father-in-law, a doctor, would not affect his deliberation in the case.

Ford, whose best known work, "The Liberation of Lord Byron Jones," details the condition of blacks in the rural South, is accused of murder in the rifle death Nov. 16, 1970, of George Henry Doaks Jr., 21, an Army private from Trenton who was home on leave after service in Vietnam.

Ex-Priest Believes Students Are Searching For Religion

Omaha (AP)—A former priest said he believes students are searching for religion.

Michael Lawler, who is Creighton University's new acting chairman of the department of theology, left the Holy Ghost order 18 months ago. Last December he married Susan Hoffman, whom he met at Creighton.

"Look around you and see what they're doing," he said. "They are turning to Eastern mysticism or searching for Jesus. This has to be an indication of something," he went on.

"It's a genuine search for meaning. They (students) may well be dissatisfied with the rituals of religion," he said. "They are looking for other ways of finding God."

Lawler is the first layman to head the Creighton department.

His temporary appointment, said the Rev. Joseph Labaj, Creighton's president, was "not to strike a blow for anything." Lawler will serve for a year. At the end of that time, the university will consider a permanent appointment.

"Mike was accepted simply because he is a competent person. The fact he is a former priest is not germane to the appointment," Father Labaj said, adding the Creighton theology department is in a state of transition.

A revised curriculum requires students to carry fewer hours of theology. Creighton is attempting to weld theology and philosophy together to explain "the relevance of God," Father Labaj said.

Board Agrees In Principle With Schmit

Columbus (AP) — The Platte County Board of Supervisors has expressed agreement in principle with statements made by State Sen. Loran Schmit regarding a lack of federal assistance in flood prevention control in connection with flooding in eastern Nebraska in February and March.

The board earlier had disallowed a claim of Mid-America Helicopter Services Inc., submitted by its president, Schmit. Schmit's statements were contained in a letter which accompanied a $463,000 claim. Schmit is from David City.

The board directed County Atty. Raymond Baker to forward a copy of the resolution and claim to Sen. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska and Rep. Dave Martin, Nebraska Republicans, with a request they initiate legislative action on the problem.

Lawn Sprinkler Bid Announced

Port Huron Machinery and Supply Co. was the apparent low bidder Wednesday to supply the Lincoln City Library System with underground lawn sprinklers at the new Gere and Anderson branch libraries.

The firm had bid $23,925.

Orders Seeking Durable Goods Increase In May

Washington (AP) — New orders for durable goods from the nation's factories increased by 1.4% in May, reaching $31.1 billion, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

Shipments of durable goods climbed by $500 million to $32.3 billion in May, the department said.

Unfilled orders for durable goods declined by $1.2 billion to $78.2 billion last month. The department said new orders for manufactured products in May reached $57.9 billion, a $600 million increase over April or 1.1%. Shipments were up 1.2%, or $700 million.

Unfilled orders of manufactured products declined by $1.2 billion in May. Manufacturers inventory increased $100 million to $99.5 billion.

Quebec Blackout Shuts Down Cities

Montreal (UPI) — A faulty coil in a substation knocked out electrical power throughout the province of Quebec Wednesday for up to 1½ hours, creating traffic jams in Montreal and trapping thousands of commuters in the city's subway system.

The breakdown affected the approximately five million residents of Quebec, shut down banks, businesses and stores, and left hundreds of workers stranded between floors in office building elevators. Quebec City, the capitol, was not affected.

A spokesman for Hydro Quebec, the province's power supplier, said the trouble was located in a reactor in the Levis substation about 150 miles northeast of Montreal across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec City.

American Firm Plans To Develop Indonesia Forest

New York (AP) — Weyerhaeuser Co. announced Wednesday it had tripled the size of its Far East holding by acquiring majority interest in International Timber Corp. in Indonesia.

The company said the acquisition would involve Weyerhaeuser in the development of one of the world's most valuable strands of tropical hardwood timber. The Indonesian company holds timber cutting rights on 1.5 million acres of tropical hardwood forest land in East Kalimantann (Borneo).

Weyerhaeuser said capital investments exceeding $30 million are planned for a 10-year development period with heavy concentrations in the early years. The company also emphasized that Indonesians would continue to have a major share in the ownership and development of the joint endeavor.

Bank Law Ruled Unconstitutional

tions was ruled unconstitutional Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge Joseph P. Kinneary.

In his ruling, Kinneary dismissed indictments brought by the government against the First National Bank of Cincinnati and the First Knox National Bank of Mount Vernon, Ohio.

Draft Heads Into Limbo For Week; Conferees Fail

Washington (AP) — The nation's draft headed into at least a week's limbo at midnight Wednesday after House-Senate conferees failed to reach agreement on a proposed deadline for American withdrawal from Vietnam.

The conferees broke off compromise efforts until next Wednesday, raising the possibility that Congress might not take final action on a bill extending the draft for two years until the following week.

It was the first draft suspension since 1948.

Armed Services Committee chairmen of both the House and Senate, Rep. F. Edward Herbert, D-La., and Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., indicated compromises had been discussed to the Senate's draft amendment asking for U.S. withdrawal from the war in nine months in return for release of American prisoners.

Neither Budge

But the two conference leaders said Senate conferees stuck by that body's 57-42 approval of the war pullout amendment by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. And House conferees refused to budge from the lower chamber's 219-176 rejection of the Mansfield amendment.

Antiwar senators vowed to filibuster any draft extension bill not bearing an acceptable version of Mansfield's amendment.

The Senate passed the Montana senator's amendment 57 to 42; the House rejected it 219 to 176.

The Selective Service System said it has halted all drafting and will make no effort to restart it until Congress acts.

A draft spokesman said the Pentagon's 16,000-man call for July and August will not be sent to the states until Congress acts or President Nixon at the Pentagon's request authorizes emergency callup of students and other men with expiring deferments to meet manpower needs.

Probably Not

White House sources have said President Nixon probably will not authorize a call of previously deferred men.

Only the actual draft was threatened.

The Selective Service System for sending men through physicals and other preinduction procedures to maintain a pool for the draft remains in business although some state boards suspended all activity.

Congress passed the Selective Service Act in 1940, allowed it to expire in 1947 and re-enacted it in 1948.

Two Close Calls

It never has lapsed since although in 1967 and 1955 extensions were signed into law June 30 just hours before the draft would have been suspended.

The compromise on student deferments restricts President Nixon's announced intention to halt them as of April 23 last year, the date of his announcement.

The compromise would permit any student, even freshmen, who had a deferment during the 1970-71 academic year to complete his undergraduate study.

The compromise draft bill, if approved by the House and Senate, also would:

—Raise military pay $2.4 billion a year effective Oct. 1 in an effort to attract a volunteer army, with most of the $1.8 billion pay raise going to new servicemen and most of a $600 million living allowance increase going to senior men.

—Keep civilian service for conscientious objectors at two years instead of the three approved by the House, and turn determination of the civilian jobs over to national draft headquarters rather than local draft boards.

—Defer divinity students but make them draft-eligible if they don't become ministers.

—Set the Senate's 130,000 draft ceiling for this year and 140,000 for next, approximating the Pentagon's anticipated draft level.

—Restore the combat duty enlistment bonus asked by Nixon and rejected by the House, but limit it to $3,000-$1,000 a year.

—Require that local draft boards be as representative as practical of the racial or minority makeup of their areas.

South Koreans Nab Infiltrators

Seoul (UPI) — South Korean patrols tracked down and killed three North Korean infiltrators Wednesday in a clash 20 miles from Seoul where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other foreign dignitaries were attending a diplomatic reception.

The South Korean defense ministry said army troops found signs of infiltrators from the Communist North on Tuesday and began extensive search operations. The patrols caught up with the three invaders shortly before 7 p.m. near Munsan, about 20 miles north of Seoul, it said. Two South Korean soldiers were killed in the clash.

TWA GIRL . . . shows more thigh.

Stewardess Shows More Thigh In Sky

By ANN HENCKEN

New York (AP) — Most airlines don't call them hot pants. But stewardesses' new "minipants" uniforms show more thigh in the sky than ever before.

"I think these are quite modest, very contemporary," said Braniff president Harding Lawrence in introducing the airline's printed skirts over shorts, designed by Emilio Pucci.

"A hostess in an airline is exposed to more criticism and observation than anyone," explains Pucci. "There are 60 to 80 people watching her. She leans over to serve, and it isn't very pretty when she exposes her underwear. I saw that happening when the skirts became very short.

'A Certain Mystery'

"A woman should keep a certain mystery, an element of magic about her," he said. As at most other airlines, the Braniff hostesses still have a choice of long pants or skirts as well, if they prefer still more mystery.

Trans World Airlines introduced its hot pants with skirts in mid-June.

"We've had no complaints. Everyone likes it," said a TWA representative. The hot pants were included as one option "by popular demand" and match a Valentino-designed uniform selection in beige, brown or plum.

Eastern Airlines has gone all the way. Minipants may be worn without a coverup skirt.

Not On All Flights

"The girls wanted it. I don't think our passengers will mind. We can't promise there'll be a girl in minipants on every flight," says an Eastern representative. The girls may turn up in slit front skirts, instead, by David Crystal.

American Airlines, Inc. is one holdout. Its new uniforms, out three months ago, do not nclude shorts.

"We're taking a look at hot pants, and we're giving it a lot of thought," says Robert Phillips, vice president of in-flight service.

Chou Says Oust Taiwan From U.N.

©The New York Times

Tokyo — Premier Chou En-lai said in an interview published here Wednesday that for Communist China to join the United Nations, it was necessary not only to have all of China's membership rights "restored," including a permanent seat on the Security Council, but for Nationalist China to be ousted from the world body.

Chou reportedly made the statement during a meeting with Yoshikatsu Takeiri, chairman of the Komeito or Clean Government Party now visiting Peking. Chou met with Takeiri and eight other Komeito members Monday, and his comments were published Wednesday in the party newspaper Komei Shimbun and other Japanese newspapers.

Chou's comments, which were consistent with the line Peking has taken on prospective membership in the U.N., threw cold water on attempts by the United States, Japan and other interested U.N. members to safeguard at least an assembly seat for Taiwan while admitting Peking to the Security Council and the General Assembly.

"What steps do you think are necessary in order to get China back into the United Nation?" Chou was asked, according to Komei Shimbun.

"The People's Republic of China," Chou replied according to the published interview, "enjoyed from the beginning a legal position as a permanent member of the United Nations Security Council, in all the organization of the United Nations. China was deprived of this position by the United Nations, and her seat was occupied by Chiang Kai-shek, who does not represent the Chinese people. Therefore, the legal position of the People's Republic of China must be restored, and Chiang Kai-shek driven out of the United Nations.

"That is all that needs to be done," Chou said.

"It is a responsibility of the United Nations, of the various member countries. We are grateful to countries and parties who advocate restoring the legal position of the people's Republic of China in the United Nations, but we ourselves do not make any demands."

Average Prices Hold; But Cattle, Milk Down

Washington (UPI) — National average farm prices held unchanged during the month ending June 15, the Agriculture Department reported Wednesday.

The stabilization came after prices had risen two per cent in the month ending May 15. The mid-June average was three per cent above a year earlier.

The department's crop reporting board said prices for hogs, peaches and oranges rose during the month, but these gains were offset by lower prices for cattle, milk, potatoes and watermelons.

Farm costs, according to the report, also remained unchanged from the all-time high reached in mid-May.

The combination of unchanged farm product prices and farm costs kept prices steady at 70% of the traditional "fair earning power" parity ratio, unchanged from May 15 but two points below the 72% level of June, 1970.

Wednesday's report also presented a second ratio based on 1967 price-cost relations. By this standard, the June 15 farm price-cost ratio was 94% of the 1967 base compared with 94% a month ago and 96% a year ago.

The index of prices received by farmers on June 15 stood at 113% of the 1967 base compared with 113% a month earlier and 110% a year earlier. The index of farm costs was 120% of the base compared with 120% a month earlier and 114% a year earlier.

One Black Seated On Author's Jury

Humboldt, Tenn. (UPI) — An all-male jury of 11 whites and one Negro was seated late Wednesday to try novelist Jesse Hill Ford for the killing of a young black man here last fall.

The lone black on the jury is 66-year-od William Lacey, a school teacher, who said the fact that he was a patient of Ford's father-in-law, a doctor, would not affect his deliberation in the case.

Ford, whose best known work, "The Liberation of Lord Byron Jones," details the condition of blacks in the rural South, is accused of murder in the rifle death Nov. 16, 1970, of George Henry Doaks Jr., 21, an Army private from Trenton who was home on leave after service in Vietnam.

5 Arrested For Fireworks Theft

Five Lincoln youths were arrested Wednesday in connection with the theft late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning of a large quantity of fireworks valued at $400 from John Amen of 845 A, according to police.

Police said four of the youths were juveniles and were referred in to a juvenile officer and an 18-year-old boy was jailed in connection with the incident.

Also taken were two radios valued at $55 and two cases of pop.

Police said entrance to the building was gained by prying a lock off a door.

Orders Seeking Durable Goods Increase In May

Washington (AP) — New orders for durable goods from the nation's factories increased by 1.4% in May, reaching $31.1 billion, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

Shipments of durable goods climbed by $500 million to $32.3 billion in May, the department said.

Unfilled orders for durable goods declined by $1.2 billion to $78.2 billion last month. The department said new orders for manufactured products in May reached $57.9 billion, a $600 million increase over April or 1.1%. Shipments were up 1.2%, or $700 million.

Unfilled orders of manufactured products declined by $1.2 billion in May. Manufacturers inventory increased $100 million to $99.5 billion.

Ex-Priest Believes Students Are Searching For Religion

Omaha (AP)—A former priest said he believes students are searching for religion.

Michael Lawler, who is Creighton University's new acting chairman of the department of theology, left the Holy Ghost order 18 months ago. Last December he married Susan Hoffman, whom he met at Creighton.

"Look around you and see what they're doing," he said. "They are turning to Eastern mysticism or searching for Jesus. This has to be an indication of something," he went on.

"It's a genuine search for meaning. They (students) may well be dissatisfied with the rituals of religion," he said. "They are looking for other ways of finding God."

Lawler is the first layman to head the Creighton department.

His temporary appointment, said the Rev. Joseph Labaj, Creighton's president, was "not to strike a blow for anything." Lawler will serve for a year. At the end of that time, the university will consider a permanent appointment.

"Mike was accepted simply because he is a competent person. The fact he is a former priest is not germane to the appointment," Father Labaj said, adding the Creighton theology department is in a state of transition.

A revised curriculum requires students to carry fewer hours of theology. Creighton is attempting to weld theology and philosophy together to explain "the relevance of God," Father Labaj said.

Board Agrees In Principle With Schmit

Columbus (AP) — The Platte County Board of Supervisors has expressed agreement in principle with statements made by State Sen. Loran Schmit regarding a lack of federal assistance in flood prevention control in connection with flooding in eastern Nebraska in February and March.

The board earlier had disallowed a claim of Mid-America Helicopter Services Inc., submitted by its president, Schmit. Schmit's statements were contained in a letter which accompanied a $463,000 claim. Schmit is from David City.

The board directed County Atty. Raymond Baker to forward a copy of the resolution and claim to Sen. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska and Rep. Dave Martin, Nebraska Republicans, with a request they initiat legislative action on the problem.

Lawn Sprinkler Bid Announced

Port Huron Machinery and Supply Co. was the apparent low bidder Wednesday to supply the Lincoln City Library System with underground lawn sprinklers at the new Gere and Anderson branch libraries.

The firm had bid $23,925.

Quebec Blackout Shuts Down Cities

Montreal (UPI) — A faulty coil in a substation knocked out electrical power throughout the province of Quebec Wednesday for up to 1½ hours, creating traffic jams in Montreal and trapping thousands of commuters in the city's subway system.

The breakdown affected the approximately five million residents of Quebec, shut down banks, businesses and stores, and left hundreds of workers stranded between floors in office building elevators. Quebec City, the capitol, was not affected.

A spokesman for Hydro Quebec, the province's power supplier, said the trouble was located in a reactor in the Levis substation about 150 miles northeast of Montreal across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec City.

American Firm Plans To Develop Indonesia Forest

New York (AP) — Weyerhaeuser Co. announced Wednesday it had tripled the size of its Far East holding by acquiring majority interest in International Timber Corp. in Indonesia.

The company said the acquisition would involve Weyerhaeuser in the development of one of the world's most valuable strands of tropical hardwood timber. The Indonesian company holds timber cutting rights on 1.5 million acres of tropical hardwood forest land in East Kalimantann (Borneo).

Weyerhaeuser said capital investments exceeding $30 million are planned for a 10-year development period with heavy concentrations in the early years. The company also emphasized that Indonesians would continue to have a major share in the ownership and development of the joint endeavor.

Bank Law Ruled Unconstitutional

tions was ruled unconstitutional Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge Joseph P. Kinneary.

In his ruling, Kinneary dismissed indictments brought by the government against the First National Bank of Cincinnati and the First Knox National Bank of Mount Vernon, Ohio.

Journal and Star

Want Ads

Your low-cost Want Ad appears daily in the Lincoln Star (Morning) and the Lincoln Journal (Evening) or the Sunday Journal and Star at the following cash rates:

Words	Lines	DAYS 1	4	7	10
— 10	2	1.02	3.44	4.90	5.60
11-15	3	1.38	4.92	6.93	8.10
16-20	4	1.76	6.40	8.96	10.40
21-25	5	2.15	7.80	11.20	13.00
26-30	6	2.52	9.12	13.02	15.00
31-35	7	2.87	10.36	14.70	17.50

FOR GREATEST ECONOMY — start your ad for 10 times, cancel when you obtain results. You pay only the rate earned at the time of cancellation.

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rate for ads from outside State of Nebraska is 55cents per line.

Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 93% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

DEADLINES FOR FAMILY WANT ADS-Call before 6 p.m. Monday through Friday for publication on following day. Call before 5 p.m. on Saturdays for Monday morning publication. Sunday Journal and Star-Call anytime before 1 p.m. on Saturdays for publication Sunday.

ERRORS: Advertisers should check their ad on first insertion and report any errors at once. Dial 473-7451

ADJUSTMENTS: The company is responsible for typographical errors or misclassification only to cancel the first day's charge on that portion of an ad that may be rendered valueless by that error. All ads will be classified properly.

BLIND BOX SERVICE: There is $1.00 additional charge for this confidential service. When using a Blind Box Number, add 4 additional words to your Want Ad copy, figure the charges from the above table and add $1.00 for Blind Box Service Charges.

OFFICE HOURS: Daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; CLOSED SUNDAY.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. If in your first name, if the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

NATIONWIDE TIRE GUARANTEE

1. LIFETIME QUALITY AND ROAD HAZARD GUARANTEE
All passenger tires are guaranteed for the life of the original tread against road hazards and defects in workmanship and material under normal driving conditions, except repairable punctures. Adjustments will be prorated on tread wear based on the current selling price plus Federal Excise Tax.

2. TREAD WEAR-OUT GUARANTEE
All passenger tires are guaranteed for tread life for the number of months specified. If wear-out occurs within the specified period, in exchange for the tire, we will replace it charging the current selling price plus Federal Excise Tax less a set dollar allowance. A tread worn tire is one with 2/32nd or less tread remaining.
